Nats Trade Scarborough, Ed Robinson To White Sox

Griffs Get Michaels, Kuzava, Ostrowski; Kozar Also Goes; Noren to Play First

By Shirley Povich
Post Reporter

Pitcher Ray Scarborough and First Baseman Eddie Robinson were suddenly traded by the Nats to the White Sox yesterday in a wholesale swap of talent involving six players of the two teams.

Second Baseman Al Kozar also goes to the Chicago club in the three-for-three exchange which deposits in Washington Cass Michaels, last year's All-Star second baseman; Pitcher Bob Kuzava and Outfielder John Ostrowski.

President Clark Griffith of the Nats declared the deal was made at the behest of Manager Bucky Harris, "and I like it, too." He denied there was any cash consideration.

Join New Clubs Today

Negotiations were completed between Griffith and General Manager Frank Lane of the White Sox by long-distance telephone while their clubs were playing doubleheaders yesterday.

The deal upset previous speculation that Scarborough would be traded to either the Red Sox or Yankees, who had been bidding for him for two years. Robinson's name had also been linked with a Yankee deal earlier this season.

The six players, unaware they had been traded until after yesterday's games, will join their new clubs in time for tomorrow's contests.

Michaels was the prime consideration that caused the Washington club to release such stalwarts as Scarborough and Robinson, said Griffith. "I'm giving Bucky Harris the man he wants—the league's best second baseman," declared the Nats' owner. Michaels is currently hitting .309.

A factor in the deal is the availability of Irv Noren as the Nats' first baseman, said Griffith. "He broke in as a first baseman and we saw a lot of him at that position in Florida—enough to let us believe he'll do all right there."

Four other clubs have been bidding for Kuzava, blond lefthander who won 10 games, lost 6 for the White Sox last year. He has taken three defeats in his five starts for the White Sox this season, however.

Yesterday, he won his first game, breezing by the Browns, 14-2, on an eight-hitter. He would have had a shutout but for a two-run homer by Don Lenhardt in the eighth inning.

Kozar was considered surplus by the Nats, with Harris dissatisfied with his second base play and his .175 batting average this season. He had been benched three weeks ago, but lately was restored to the lineup.

Ostrowski figured in the abortive Yankee-White Sox deal that was supposed to send Dick Wakefield to the White Sox earlier in the month. As part payment for Wakefield, the White Sox were to send Ostrowski to the Yankees' Kansas City farm team. Commissioner Chandler later voided the trade.

With the White Sox this season, Ostrowski has been hitting a mere .227. The Nats envision him as a regular outfielder, however.

The Washington club was offered virtually the same deal by the White Sox last winter but balked at including Robinson for lack of another first baseman. The presence of Noren and his experience

Marshall Bids U. S. Lead Way to Peace

By Bob Burchette—The Washington Post

GENERAL MARSHALL PLEADS FOR FAITH IN UNITED NATIONS IN MEMORIAL DAY SERVICE

Gen. George C. Marshall, in yesterday's keynote Memorial Day address at Arlington National Cemetery, told 5000 persons gathered in the Amphitheater that "so long as there remains a conference table around which nations gather, the United States should be the first to attend and the last to retire."

It was an appeal to America from the former Secretary of State and wartime Chief of Staff to keep faith with our war dead by supporting the United Nations.

The text of his address follows:

THIS is Memorial Day—a day dedicated some 80 years ago to the stirring of our memories of those who fell in the country's battles, many of whom surround us here in Arlington Cemetery. There have been many Memorial Day addresses here and there will be many more but, as for me, my memories go back to a certain day where, in an olive grove on the scene of a fierce battle which had just terminated in a great Allied victory, I joined with troops resting from the ordeal of battle on that field. (In Tunisia, in 1943. Ed. note) They observed their Memorial Day on the ground they had fought for and where their fallen comrades had but a few days previously been laid to rest. There we were not talking of the remote past—our thoughts were centered on the scenes of fury and devastation around us and the certainty of greater struggles soon to follow.

Many of the men in that particular regiment, an unusually large percentage as a matter of fact, fell in the further fighting, and it was evident that each man was thinking of the sacrifice he very probably would too soon be called upon to make. The setting that evening, the expressions on the faces of those men and the prospects of the immediate future made a profound impression upon me which I would recreate in your minds today, if it were possible for me to translate the emotions of that hour. Those men quite evidently looked to us to redeem the sacrifice their comrades had already made and that they felt they were soon to make, as so many did. The situation was concrete and very much of the present, and not a retrospect of the past as is largely ours today.

AS CHAIRMAN of the Battle Monuments Commission I am concerned with plots of ground all over the world where our men lie buried, young men brought to a sudden ending of life in the fight to maintain our way of life. Our great responsibility to them is to protect their loved ones and their friends from the agonies and miseries of war.

Their living comrades, the veterans of today, alone know what war really is—that there is nothing to be said in favor of war except that it is the lesser of two evils. For it is better than appeasement of aggression because appeasement encourages the very aggression it seeks to prevent. And it is far better than submission to tyranny and oppression, because without freedom and respect for human dignity life would not be worth living.

Unless we are faced with the choice of these terrible alternatives, I think we should concentrate on finding peaceful solutions to the world's problems. Peace should be a dynamic force and not a negative condition that is merely the absence of armed hostilities. We should support to the full, every existing instrument to the building of a more stable world.

So long as there is a forum for open discussion of international disputes, the United States should be a participant. So long as there remains a conference table around which the nations can gather, the United States should be the first to attend and the last to retire.

Only thus can we earn the right to stand here in the presence of the graves of these many men who were cut off in their youth from the life we enjoy and say in good conscience, "We are doing our best to justify your sacrifice."

A MOST terrible aspect of war is the toll it takes of the youth of the country. The average age of the men of the armed forces in the last war was about 26 years. The average age of those who perished would probably be less since the older men in service were not generally employed in combat.

And so, we lost almost 300,000 of the Nation's youth.

Repeated depletion of vigorous and productive manpower has been the undoing of many civilizations. We have been relatively fortunate in that our wars have not resulted for us in wholesale destruction. But we cannot be certain of the future.

It would be unwise, it seems to me, to console ourselves with the thought that we would ultimately win if hostilities should break out again, because I fear that the victorious power in another war will stand amidst its own ruins with little strength left to reestablish itself or to offer assistance to its neighbors.

It will only enjoy the empty triumph of inheriting the responsibility for a shattered and impoverished world.

TO ONE who follows the current trend of thought among the western European powers, it is evident that they are well aware of this. They realize that whoever wins another war, their generation will lose it; they know that peace is a condition necessary to their survival and they look to this country, not only for material and military strength to offset the probability of war, but more importantly, I am sure, that they look to us for a clear restatement of the moral principles we feel are essential to a peaceful international society.

Some have suggested that the United States should take the lead in dissolving the United Nations and in setting up a new organization composed only of like-minded nations. Personally I think it would be unfortunate for the peace of the world deliberately to upset the precarious equilibrium that now exists. The United Nations symbolizes one of mankind's highest aspirations— an international house of democracy, a true brotherhood of the nations. We should not, it seems to me, deliberately turn away from that symbol, else we would weaken our moral position before the world and surrender at least a part of our leadership in the fight for peace.

One of the things for which our comrades gave their lives was to bring fellowship closer to reality. We have not realized that dream. Admittedly the United Nations is an imperfect organization. But remember it does provide a forum where words can be used instead of bullets. And so long as this forum remains open there are cracks in the iron curtain through which some of our ideas will penetrate.

Those who have lost faith in the organization profess alarm because the eastern powers use it as a platform for the dissemination of Communist propaganda. But we also have the privilege of telling our story through the same medium. And in any contest of ideas, I think honesty will finally win in the long run for truth must prevail, and I'll wager my money on American principles of freedom and equality under law, and tolerance and justice for all men.

THEN too, we have much the better story if we tell it well and tell it affirmatively. We have taken the offensive regarding communism. But we should constantly remind all people that no nation has ever embraced any form of totalitarian rule through exercise of the popular will.

However, the ferment that is stirring around the world today is not all Communist inspired. A large part of it, I believe, results from an upsurge of peoples who have long suffered in poverty and misrule. And the millions who live under such subnormal conditions are entitled to a fair share of the God-given rights of human beings. It is a challenge to the more favored nations to lend assistance in bettering their lot.

Furthermore, self-interest demands that we give close attention to these peoples for their situation is the seedbed for either one of two ways of life—democracy or communism. If we act with wisdom we can guide this yearning to the better things of life through democratic channels.

We must present democracy as a force holding within itself the seeds of unlimited progress for the human race. We should make clear that it is a means to a better way of life within nations and to a better understanding among nations. Tyranny inevitably must fall back before the tremendous moral strength of the gospel of freedom and self respect for the individual.

But we must have in mind that these democratic principles do not flourish on empty stomachs. And that people turn to the false promises of dictators because they are hopeless and anything promises better than the miserable existence they endure.

HOWEVER, I am certain that material assistance alone is not sufficient. The most important thing for the world today, in my opinion, is a spiritual regeneration which would restore a feeling of good faith and good will among men generally.

Discouraged people are sorely in need of the inspiration of great principles. Such leadership can be the rallying point against intolerance, against distrust and against that fatal insecurity that leads to war. I hope that we will provide that leadership. But we will have to get back to first principles if we are to speak with a voice that will kindle the imagination and rouse the spirit.

We have made much of America's strength and material prosperity. We have talked a great deal about the American way of life. But our material prosperity may or may not be exportable. A dynamic philosophy, on the other hand, knows no restrictions of time or space.

And we do have an American creed that comes to us from the deep roots of the past. It springs from the convictions and hopes of men and women from many lands who founded this Nation and made it great. You will find that creed, that heritage in the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution with its Bill of Rights.

ALTHOUGH it may have been without a clear realization, those were the things for which our men fought and died; those are the ideals which we can offer to the world with the certainty that they have the power to inspire people and to impel them to action.

I do not mean that we should try to persuade other people to accept our form of government, but rather the great fundamentals on which it is based. I mean that the basic principles on which our Government was founded are timeless and have validity for all mankind.

But it must be remembered that raising our voice to the world imposes upon us a most serious obligation. We cannot convince others unless we are true to ourselves. We must be satisfied in our own hearts that we give more than lip service to these principles we profess.

When we call for our great individual freedoms, we must be sure that no infringement of these rights is permitted or tolerated because of emotions of the moment.

In some such spirit let us devote ourselves to a generous service to our fellow men just as these dead about us dedicated their lives to that service. I believe that our lost comrades would want it exactly that way.

We have before us the greatest task ever faced by any generation of men in the fight to preserve peace. War, I say again, is no longer just an evil. In this age it seems intolerable.

OUR greatest tribute to our dead will be a devotion to the resolve that war must not happen again. But we must not—I emphasize, we must not, as we invariably have done in the past, render ourselves impotent, an invitation to the ruthless aggressor. Also, we should not place complete dependence on military and material power. It is a difficult road we have to follow but we have a wealth of lessons from the past and with clear heads and with genuine willingness to support our efforts, I think we can lead the world into a better life than now seems apparent.

"With malice toward none; with charity for all; . . . let us strive on to finish the work we are in . . . to care for him who shall have borne the battle, and for his widow, and his orphan—to do all which may achieve and cherish a just and lasting peace among ourselves, and with all nations."

West Zone Citizens Beat Red Youths

Helmstedt, Germany (Wednesday), May 31 (AP).—Milling thousands of Red-hating residents of Helmstedt fought pro-Communist German youths in the streets last night.

The anti-Reds were victorious. Their opponents—members of the Communist-controlled Free German Youth (FDJ)—begged for a truce after their blue shirts were ripped from their backs and heaped on bonfires along with their blue flags.

Thus the violence Berlin escaped in the massive Communist Whitsunday rally finally erupted in this British Zone town. It was the first disorder stemming from Sunday's show of strength by the Communists in East Berlin.

Songs—Then Fighting

The trouble began when about 2000 FDJ members from western Germany found themselves temporarily marooned here for lack of transportation on their homeward trek from the Berlin rally.

With the slogans of their Communist leaders still ringing in their ears, the FDJ youths confidently marched from the railway station to restaurants loudly singing the Internationale.

Townspeople out in droves to witness the influx of the highly publicized blueshirts responded with Deutschland Ueber Alles, the former German anthem. The singing changed to jeering—then to fist fighting.

Battered and beaten, the outnumbered FDJ members promised to leave their blue shirts behind—or as many of them as they still possessed—and get out of town promptly if their opponents would guarantee their safety. No serious injuries were reported.

More Arriving Today

For a time Helmstedters blocked off streets around the main body of FDJ youths in a park near the railway station. A smaller group of about 40 or 50 were hemmed in a restaurant.

Police escorted the group from the restaurant, and the towpspeople began to drift away from the park. Then a number of special buses began arriving without notice. There was no interference as the blueshirts swarmed aboard.

The buses took off for various West German cities. Regular trains also helped carry away FDJ members. Police estimated that by early today the number of blueshirts had been reduced to fewer than 1000.

Helmstedt, situated at the border of the British and Russian zones, remained tense, however. An unknown number of other West Zone blueshirts is expected to arrive here today and Thursday. No one knows how the new arrivals will take the news of the beating of their comrades.

Meanwhile hundreds of blueshirted FDJ members made a peaceful invasion of West Berlin. They ate gift food which turned

War Secrets In Amerasia Documents

By Bert Andrews
NYHT News Service

Many of the still-suppressed documents seized in the Amerasia case contained highly secret wartime information.

One document told exactly where more than a score of American submarines were in the late stages of the war in the Pacific.

Another, in the most secret category, was a message from the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek.

Another disclosed the complete operations plan of a hush-hush Government agency.

One document, over the signature of former Secretary of State Cordell Hull, seemed, on the surface, to picture Amerasia, a magazine plugging for Soviet interests in Asia, as a veritable bible on what to do in the Far East.

It seems a certainty that Hull never saw the message.

This and much other information was obtained yesterday by this reporter and it relates to a very few of the more than 1700 documents taken from Amerasia's office early in 1945, months before the war's end.

Accuracy Vouched For

Accuracy of the information was vouched for by Senator Bourke B. Hickenlooper (R., Iowa), a member of the Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee investigating charges of communism in the State Department.

GI Insurance Payments' End Set for June 30

By V. R. Montanari
Post Reporter

The Veterans Administration which has completed the major part of its $2,800,000,000 GI insurance refunding job, can't sit back and relax yet.

The VA has processed all claims that did not require more than routine checking against records at hand.

Vouchers on these processed claims have been passed on to the Treasury, which up to this moment has sent checks for $2,537,681,649.73 to 13,922,543 GIs.

In addition, almost a million more checks have been sent by the VA to recipients who are overseas and to families of deceased policy holders, and by the armed services to some GIs in special categories.

Thus, close to 15 million of the estimated 16 million eligible—more than 90 percent—have been paid during the 4½ months the checks have been streaming out.

As the job nears completion, the VA is notifying 1390 temporary employes, with thanks for a job well done, that their services will not be needed after June 30.

Aim for June 30 Finish

June 30 is the VA's target date for completion of the whole job—if it can ever be really completed.

For, even while officials are trying to wind up the colossal project, they are still receiving between 20,000 and 25,000 new insurance rebate claims a week.

The "late entries" seem to run to smaller than average amounts, and the VA guesses that most of them just decided to wait until the big rush was over before making their claims. Possibly, in some cases, they are veterans who figured they would wait until they had a special purchase to make, or until vacation time came, or until the next baby was arriving.

Fairfax Citizens to Vote Today On $11 Million Bond Issues

By William H. Smith
Post Reporter

Fairfax County citizens will vote today on two separate bond issues totaling more than 11 million dollars.

Principal issue is for $10,500,000 to finance an extensive emergency program of school construction to offset critical overcrowding in the county system. The second calls for expenditure of $980,000 to provide an addition to the existing county courthouse and a new jail.

Separate ballots will be cast on the two issues, from 7 a. m. to 7 p. m., Daylight Saving Time, at all regular polling places in the county.

Plans provide for 11 new schools of all grades, including construction of the county's first Negro high school. Negro students now attend the Manassas regional school. In addition, the bond issue is designed to cover cost of alterations and additions to most of the other 40 schools in the county system.

Although both proposals have provided some controversy, principal interest centers on the proposed school expenditure because of its size, coupled with a late flurry of activity by its opponents. The opposition has stemmed primarily from the Falls Church district, where residents of an area which soon may be taken from the county by annexation contend they may be imperiled by dual taxation if the bond issue succeeds.

It is their contention that if their area is annexed by Falls Church, they will be forced to assume a proportionate share of the bond debt, even though they receive no benefits of the school expenditures. At the same time, they say, they may later be assessed a share of the costs of

Sec. Acheson Will Invite Questions Of Congress

Both Houses to Hear Report on London Conferences Today; All 'On the Record'

By Ferdinand Kuhn
Post Reporter

Secretary Acheson will break a 160-year-old precedent today when he addresses members of both houses of Congress on the recent conferences in London.

Once before, on November 18, 1943, another Secretary of State reported to Congress on the work of an important conference abroad. This was Cordell Hull, who had just come back from laying the four-power groundwork of the United Nations at Moscow.

On that occasion, which was a joint session in the House chamber, members listened and applauded. But today they will be invited to question Acheson when he has finished his formal address.

This is something that has never happened in the history of the Republic, as far as State Department researchers can determine—except, of course, at committee hearings.

Questions to Be "On the Record"

The questions will be "on the record," the only restriction being that the press has been asked to report the answers without quotation marks. The same rule has applied for years at press conferences of the President and the Secretary of State.

Technically speaking, today's meeting will not be a session of Congress at all. It will take place in the auditorium of the Library of Congress, the same room where Gen. George C. Marshall, then Chief of Staff, held closed-door sessions with members of Congress during the war.

Acheson's talk today will be broadcast from coast to coast, beginning at 12:30, and 70 seats have been set aside for the world press. Because of limited space, admission to the meeting will be by ticket only.

Officials and Congressmen alike look forward to the meeting as an experiment that may yet become a useful precedent. Under the American system, Cabinet officers have no way of reporting to Congress as a whole, and of being questioned.

In parliamentary systems, as in Britain, Canada and many other countries, Cabinet officers are members of the legislative body and are questioned from the floor. The device of holding a special meeting, outside the Capitol, does no violence to the American system, yet it may bridge a gap that has baffled and troubled many Secretaries of State.

The first to suggest the idea to Acheson was Senator Estes Kefauver (D., Tenn.), who for years has studied and liked the questioning of Cabinet officers under the parliamentary system.

Acheson thought it was a fine

Teen-Age Gangs Panic Brooklyn in Fight With Guns

New York, May 30 (AP).—Brawling gangs of teen-aged Brooklynites fought with guns and fists today, sending Memorial Day crowds scattering in panic before them.

Two gangs staged a running "zip-gun" battle amid crowds returning from a parade. After police broke it up, the two gangs—joined by a third—resumed their battle in Prospect Park.

Two of the gang members suffered slight bullet wounds. More than a score were arrested.

[Zip guns" are fashioned from a length of pipe and discharged by means of a strong spring or heavy rubber band. They shoot small caliber bullets in the same way as a real gun.]

New Device Lets Patient Measure Own Anesthetic

Grand Forks, N. D., May 30 (AP). Dr. John S. Lundy, head of the anesthesiology section of the Mayo Clinic at Rochester, Minn., tonight said an automatic device had been achieved to regulate the flow of anesthetic to a surgical patient.

The device, which he said adds a revolutionary new element of safety to the use of anesthesia, is controlled by the patient's reaction through measurement and recording of the brain waves.

Control of Alabama Party Is at Stake

Wisconsin Governor Race Open

Milwaukee, May 30 (AP).—Four men with long records of faithful party service seek the Republican nomination for Governor at the GOP State convention here June 9-10.

The candidates were announced shortly after Gov. Oscar Rennebohm, Republican, announced on Thursday that he would heed his physician's advice and not run for reelection. Those who will lay their cases before the convention are:

Representative Frank Keefe, Oshkosh, who has repeated his intention to leave the lower house at the end of this, his sixth term, despite the pleas of a "draft Keefe" group. When he announced his retirement plans, before Rennebohm dealt himself out of the gubernatorial race, Keefe said he wanted to return to private law practice.

State Senator Gordon A. Bubolz, Appleton, an attorney and president of the Home Mutual Insurance Co. Bubolz went to the Legislature in 1944 and was reelected four years later without opposition from either party. He headed important committees at Madison.

Walter J. Kohler, jr., son of the late Gov. Walter Kohler. He is president of a Sheboygan enamelware firm and former official of the Kohler Co., makers of plumbing equipment.

Harvey Higley, Marinette industrialist, former commander of the Wisconsin American Legion and chairman of the State Republican Voluntary Committee from 1947 until he resigned last January to devote more time to his business.

Birmingham, Ala., May 30 (AP).—States' Rights candidates took an early, inconclusive lead tonight in their bid for control of Democratic party machinery in Alabama.

First returns from seven contests for seats on the powerful State Democratic Committee showed States' Righters and regular Democrats running almost neck and neck. The States' righters held a slight edge.

If the States' Righters win all seven seats up for decision today, they still must win four other seats, now held by regular Democrats, which they have contested. Victory on both fronts would give them a majority of seats on the 72-man committee.

Control of the committee could influence Alabama's 11 electoral votes in the 1952 Presidential race.

Alabama's 1948 electoral vote went to the Thurmond-Wright ticket when the anti-Truman States' Righters controlled party machinery.

Regular Democrats won 38 seats and States' Righters 26 on the 72-member committee May 2. One successful candidate is uncommitted.

States' Righters campaigned vigorously to capture the seven seats left undecided until today's primary. They also contested the May 2 election of four regular Democrats from the Third District.

If they won all seven seats at issue today, and if they were successful in unseating the four regulars, they would hold 37 of the 72 committee places.

Next best, the States' Righters hope to whittle down the regular Democratic majority to a point where they could block Administration control of Alabama's party machinery.

The first primary brought a record turnout of 402,000, but there was no indication that the runoff vote would approach that figure.

The only State-wide race is for Superintendent of Education. A United States Congressman will be nominated from the Fourth District, where veteran Representative Sam Hobbs was not a candidate to succeed himself.

Iodine Found Safe Water Disinfectant

A standard iodine compound is a safe disinfectant for drinking water in a tropical climate, even over a long period, the National Research Council's medical sciences division reported yesterday.

It recommended use of iodine by the military services after six months of tests at Majuro Atoll, in the Marshall Islands. The military and native population, about 220 persons, participated in the tests.

Though iodine has been used for disinfecting water, no conclusive studies had been made of toxic effect on human beings in hot climates for an extended time.

Medical officers found that compounds releasing free iodine in concentrations of eight parts per one million were "highly effective" disinfectants, and had no ill effects.

Principal investigator was Lieut. (j.g.) Donald P. Morgan, Medical Corps, USNR, assisted by Capt. Converse R. Lewis, jr., MSC, Army sanitary engineer.

Donaldson Warns of Another Drastic Cut in Postal Service

By the United Press

Postmaster General Jesse M. Donaldson said yesterday that appropriation cuts voted by the House may force another drastic reduction in postal services.

It would be "disastrous" if the Senate failed to restore the cuts, he said, and might make necessary another postal cutback three times as sweeping as his recent one-a-day delivery order.

"In fact," he said, "I don't know how the mails could be moved."

He sounded the alarm in a letter to Chairman Kenneth McKellar (D., Tenn.) of the Senate Appropriations Committee, which was written at the request of Senator Burnet R. Maybank (D., S. C.), who heads the appropriations group on Postoffice funds.

Donaldson estimated changes made by the House in passing the 29 billion-dollar single-package appropriation bill would mean a reduction of about 269 million dollars in Postoffice spending during the 1951 fiscal year beginning July 1.

Economies "Too Drastic"

Maybank said those economies were "too drastic." He agreed the Postoffice should be self-sustaining, but he said the only apparent solution for its annual 500 million-dollar deficit "is to raise postal rates on second-, third- and fourth-class mail."

The House has approved a postal rate increase bill that would swell Postoffice revenues by 125 million dollars a year. It is still in the Senate Postoffice Committee.

Donaldson said an amendment sponsored by Representative John Taber (R., N. Y.), requiring a 10 percent slash in most Federal spending—a 40 million-dollar cut for the Postoffice—would put a serious crimp in postal services.

He pointed out the department has no control over what it pays railroads and airlines for hauling the mail, since the rates are fixed by other Government agencies. Many of the carriers, he added, have long-term contracts that must be honored.

Fears $394 Million Cut

If the Senate fails to pass the rate-increase bill, he said, the amount by which the department would be required to retrench would run to 394 million dollars. That, he said, would equal the entire cost of mail deliveries to every home in the United States.

Donaldson said the department would have to pare its pay roll by 40,000 employes if the Senate accepts an amendment by Representative Ben Jensen (R., Iowa). In most cases it would prohibit Government departments from replacing more than 10 percent of the vacancies that occur during the next fiscal year.

Maybank said the Taber 10 percent cut proposal "will not possibly work with the Postoffice Department."

He suggested that part of the department's deficit be made up by requiring other departments and agencies that now get free mail service through franking privileges to pay their "fair share" of the cost.

Jackie Coogan To Sell Kitchen Gadgets Full-Time

Hollywood, May 30 (U.P.).—Jackie Coogan, the former child star, today said he has quit show business to sell a kitchen gadget because he couldn't get a job in Hollywood.

"I just ran out of gas," shrugged 35-year-old Jackie.

"But it doesn't worry me. I don't want to work in pictures anymore, anyway. I like the security of my job and being in a business that has a future. Show business hasn't. There isn't any more real show business.

"I'm not sour on movies or nightclubs, but if I was offered a part in a picture tomorrow, I'd say, 'no, thanks'."

The only "acting" he'll do will be in short, commercial movies for television that advertise his product, a ventilating hood for kitchen stoves.

Kensington to Have Ceramic, Sewing Exhibit

The second annual Ceramic and Sewing Exhibit of the Kensington Adult Education Group will be held at 8 p. m. today in the Kensington Junior High School.

A feature of the program will be a style show of children's and women's garments made by members of the sewing class.

And Cancel Fine

Thomas Begs President To Free Him

J. Parnell Thomas, former member of Congress now serving a jail sentence on conviction of padding his office payroll, has appealed to President Truman to free him and cancel an unpaid $10,000 fine.

William H. Collins, who represented Thomas at his trial last December, said in response to questions yesterday that the petition was sent to Mr. Truman "quite some time ago." He said he had heard nothing further about it.

Under White House routine, a petition of that kind is turned over to the Justice Department. A department spokesman said it is now before Daniel M. Lyons, pardon attorney, and there has been no recommendation made on it.

Thomas, a New Jersey Republican, was head of the House Un-American Activities Committee in 1947-48. He was accused of defrauding the Government by putting on his payroll persons who did no work and arranging for them to "kick back" their salaries to him.

Thomas denounced the charges at first as "political," but in the midst of his trial changed his plea to one of no contest. He was sentenced to 6 to 18 months in prison and fined $10,000.

The 54-year-old Thomas has been serving his sentence at the Federal Correctional Institute, Danbury, Conn. Reportedly, his prison duties have been to care for a flock of chickens.

While a parole would open the prison's gates for Thomas, it would not relieve him of liability for the $10,000 fine. In a move to collect it, the Government could at any time bring attachment proceedings against any property Thomas was found to have.

Biffle Plans Another Poll Of Grass Roots This Autumn

By the United Press

President Truman's one-man pollster yesterday said he will have another go at testing the Nation's political pulse as soon as Congress adjourns.

The President's prize election barometer is Senate Secretary Leslie L. Biffle, who correctly predicted, after a chicken-truck tour in 1948, that the experts were wrong in saying Mr. Truman would be defeated.

Biffle said he will see this year whether he can do as well on predicting the outcome of next November's Congressional elections.

His 1948 success resulted from some quiet listening in barber shops, filling stations, country stores and other public gathering places. He made himself as unobtrusive as possible by posing as a farmer, complete with worn work clothes and a battered truck cluttered with chicken crates.

Biffle said he will omit the chicken truck this time but has figured out a new role—which he declines to reveal in advance—to cloak his identity and purpose so he can get the true grass-roots sentiment of the voters.

"I intend to visit West Virginia, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Missouri, Iowa, and possibly Wisconsin," he said. "I hope to find out just exactly how the people feel toward the Administration and what our chances are for electing more Democrats to the Senate in November."

There are Senate races this year in each of those States except West Virginia. Republican-held seats are at stake in all but Illinois, where the GOP is waging a determined drive to oust Senate Democratic Leader Scott W. Lucas.

Republicans up for election in the five other States are Senators Robert A. Taft in Ohio; Bourke B. Hickenlooper in Iowa; Forrest C. Donnell in Missouri; Homer E. Capehart in Indiana, and Alexander Wiley in Wisconsin.

6 Countries Agree To Join Pooling Plan

Paris, May 30 (AP).—Six European nations have agreed to pool their coal and steel wealth "for the common good," the French Foreign Office said today.

Delegations from the six nations—Belgium, Luxembourg, Italy, the Netherlands, France and West Germany—are to meet next month to work out details of the merger and put it into effect.

A French Foreign Office spokesman said Britain so far has refused to accept "clearly and definitely" the idea of a common pool of coal and steel production.

France still hopes she will join, however.

London dispatches quoted an informed British source today as saying Britain is eager to join talks on the merger plan but will not sign a public declaration committing her to it before the talks begin.

Foreign Minister Robert Schuman handed British Ambassador Sir Oliver Harvey a new memorandum tonight. The contents were not disclosed in detail. But officials said it emphasized that acceptance of the plan "in principle" would not bind Britain to accept the results of discussions on details.

The purpose of the memorandum, officials said, was to eliminate a misunderstanding that arose from British interpretation of the proposal.

Disappointed by Britain

Announcing acceptance of the plan in its outlines by the six other countries, a French Foreign Office spokesman said:

"These countries have agreed to come to a meeting with the preconceived idea of making a plan work. Their interest is to put their shoulders together for the common good. We hope that other nations will join in the same effort."

Frankly disappointed at Britain's attitude, the French have declared the British viewpoint "ignores the salient facts and picks out the minor items on which disagreement may become possible."

"There is absolutely no point," said an authoritative spokesman, "in going ahead with these discussions unless the delegations are willing actually to try and work out the technical details and put them into effect."

Hailed by Acheson

France, he said, had asked Britain only for a prior "agreement in principle" on the pool plan, which has been hailed by United States Secretary of State Dean Acheson as a "courageous" step toward European unity.

British sources said, however, they considered Britain had been asked for a binding commitment before she learns how the plan would affect her coal and steel industries.

The plan, as outlined by Schuman in a statement May 9, provides for a merger of coal and steel production under an international authority whose decisions would be binding on member governments.

The purpose of the plan, he explained, was the beating down of the cost of production, equalization of cost factors in all the countries, modernization of production facilities, remval of customs and freight surcharges on coal and steel exchanges among members of the pool, and expansion of markets for European industry.

In Note to ECE

Reds Agree To Discuss Grain Trade

Geneva, Switzerland, May 30 (U.P.).—Russia has notified the United Nations Economic Commission for Europe it is willing to start negotiations to sell grain to western Europe, it was announced today.

Gunnar Myrdal, executive secretary of the ECE, hailed the Russian offer as the first step toward breaking a deadlock in trade between western and eastern Europe. He said he hoped negotiations might start by the end of summer.

Myrdal suggested the possibility of a grain agreement during his recent visit to Moscow. Russia's reply, delivered May 22 by Soviet Ambassador Anatole Kulagenkov here, said:

"The Soviet government is ready, as in the past, to give its support to the development of intra-European trade on terms which safeguard the mutual interests of the parties concerned."

The note said Myrdal's suggestion that a European grain agreement might be concluded was received favorably by the Soviet government and continued:

"In due course, representatives of the Soviet Union will be able to take part in the examination of the proposals and estimates drawn up by the secretariat of the ECE, relating to the grain requirements of importing countries and to the terms of a grain agreement safeguarding the interests of grain importers and suppliers alike."

Under a plan advanced by Myrdal last November to break the trade deadlock, west European countries would make long-term commitments to buy grain in return for machinery and other manufactured goods which east Europe needs. The United States and western European countries gave qualified approval to his suggestion.

Russia is to be represented by a large delegation at a meeting of the ECE which starts here Wednesday.

Korean Voting Quiet Despite 9 Raid Deaths

Seoul, Korea, May 30 (U.P.).—Nine persons were killed in guerilla violence today, as an estimated 6,400,000 voters went to the polls in the first elections the Koreans ever held for themselves.

First returns in the race for 210 seats in the South Korean National Assembly were expected early Wednesday. The polls closed at 7 p. m., and vote-counters worked through the night.

Aside from the guerilla raids—apparently a Communist effort to keep voters from the polls—election day was orderly and the voting generally proceeded without interference.

Even the thirty-eighth parallel boundary with Communist North Korea—often the scene of shooting skirmishes—was quiet today. The only activity reported along the border was the firing of shells filled with propaganda leaflets.

Three guerillas were killed in Sanchong, 150 miles south of here, when police counter-attacked a raiding force. The raiders succeeded in burning the court house and one other building, and three policemen were wounded.

Six villagers were killed by guerillas in another raid on a tiny community, 50 miles west of Sanchong.

Ambassador Grady Chosen Envoy to Iran

President Truman has decided to shift Ambassador Henry Grady from Greece to Iran to strengthen the non-Communist front against Russia at a critical point.

Grady, now in California on leave, is expected to be formally assigned to the post next month. He will replace John C. Wiley, career diplomat, who completed two years' service there last February.

Iran is in an economic crisis now, but State Department officials believe this will be ended by an impending new oil contract with Britain and by a better harvest this year than last.

The crisis has caused considerable concern here for several months. Basically, however, what American officials are worried about is the strength and determination of the Iranian government to pull the country out of its troubles and maintain firm resistance to Soviet pressure.

Grady has a top-notch reputation as a trouble-shooter. He served as envoy to the government of India in its formative period, and later went to Greece, where he is credited with having played a major role in saving that country from communism and getting it reorganized after the civil war.

Grady, according to State Department plans, will serve not only as ambassador but also as director of American aid for Iran. The country is slated to get about 10 million dollars worth of arms soon and a survey mission is expected to study whether American economic aid is also needed.

Czechs Accuse 22 Westerners Of Conspiracy

Prague, May 30 (U.P.).—Former American, British and French Ambassadors to Czechoslovakia and 19 Western officials and newspaper correspondents were accused tonight of directing an alleged conspiracy to overthrow the Czech Communist regime.

The late United States Ambassador Laurence A. Steinhardt, British Ambassador Sir John Pierson Dixon and French Ambassador Maurice de Jean headed the long list of Westerners named in charges on which 13 Czechoslovaks will be tried Wednesday. The 12, who include three former parliamentary deputies, were accused of planning an armed revolt against the government.

The Americans named included Mary Trent, United States Embassy second secretary; Assistant Air Attache Capt. Jack Novak; United Press correspondent Helen Fisher, New York Times correspondent Dana Adams Schmidt, former Labor Attache Milton Fried and Second Secretary Louise Schaffner. Also named were Mary Baker, a United Nations official, and Vlasta Vraz, director of the American Relief for Czechoslovakia Organization.

Dr. Uhl credits it all to his rodent control program.

4 Trapped on Potomac Rocks Hauled Ashore After 4 Hours

A flash flood marooned four holiday fishermen for almost four hours yesterday on rocks 100 feet from the Potomac River shore.

They were trapped when water rose more than 8 feet in half an hour, isolating them about 500 yards above Chain Bridge.

The skilled casting of one marooned man aided in saving three of the group, while a balky line-throwing gun came through in time for the final rescue.

By 9 p. m. dripping and shivering on the shore were: Walter D. Wakeman, 38, an Arlington school board accountant, of 19 Highland st., S. Arlington; R. J. Fowler, 29, of the Army Air Forces, of the same address; Norman Hardy, a sheet metal worker, 48, of 15 Highland st. S. Arlington; and Lonnie Nettles, a laborer, 28, of 1331 Montello ave. ne.

Nettles, Fowler and Wakeman were rescued in that order after Hardy cast a heavy sinker on the end of his fishing line to the shore. A light line was secured, with which the men hauled a heavy rope to the rocks.

The rope was looped about each man and three of them were dragged through the swift current in about three-quarters of an hour by a nine-man team of police, civilians and members of the Bethesda-Chevy Chase Rescue Squad.

Hardy's reel then became fouled. With the water only three feet from the rock's top, Corpl. E. E. Skinner, of the traffic squad, successfully improvised a life line by tossing a lead weight with cord attached across the 100 feet of water.

Hardy attached the group's fishing equipment and clothing. By the time it was safe, Pvt. Frederic L. Gibson of the 7th Precinct, succeeded in firing the line-throwing gun which bore a rope to the rocks, and Hardy was pulled in.

Several hundred persons viewed the rescue from Chain Bridge and the shore.

Hardy said they joined Nettles on the rocks about 4 p. m. They waded out, he said, and didn't notice until shortly before 5 p. m. that their escape was cut off by the rising water.

They called to Sylvester Sherfield of 508 58th st. ne., who was fishing on shore, and notified the police.

Armed Guardsmen Quiet Enka Strike

Morristown, Tenn., May 30 (U.P.).—The presence of National Guardsmen armed for battle restored calm today at the strife-torn American Enka Corp. textile plant here.

Nonstrikers filed into the plant under the watchful eyes of helmeted troops armed with bayoneted rifles and sidearms.

After one incident today in which an excited picket shoved a Guard MP and got a sock on the jaw as a result, the trouble spot quieted.

"It's as quiet as a church around here," one worker remarked.

Three hundred members of the National Guard were mobilized yesterday by Gov. Gordon Browning as a "last resort" effort to prevent further violence at the plant without shooting.

Company officials said 90 nonstrikers, the largest working force since the strike of CIO workers started two months ago, went to work this morning. More than 60 persons have applied for jobs, the company said.

Brig. Gen. Dwight McReynolds, commanding the 278th Infantry, said his men will stay at the plant at least through Wednesday and possibly longer.

UP Offer Is Rejetced By Teletype Strikers

New York, May 30 (AP).—A union spokesman tonight said 247 striking teletype operators are rejecting an offer to end their 30-day walkout at the United Press.

"There still are a few votes coming in," the spokesman said, "but there is no question the proposal will be turned down."

The spokesman declined use of his name.

The AFL Commercial Telegraphers Union is scheduled to make an official announcement of the outcome at a joint meeting with UP management and Federal Mediator J. R. Mandelbaum Wednesday.

UP offered the strikers a $2.21 wage boost over the previous base pay of $90 for a 37½-hour week.

The teletype men also would have got $2 a month on cost of hospitalization and surgical insurance.

The UP which has been operating its teletype facilities with supervisory employes, also agreed to drop a demand for an open shop and reinstate the union shop in its bureaus.

The union first asked a $15 weekly raise but later reduced the demand to $6.50.

Some Strikers Vote Return at Oak Ridge

Oak Ridge, Tenn., May 30 (AP).—Several score members of a striking union voted here today to return to their jobs Wednesday with the understanding that a decision would be handed down on their grievance by the National Arbitration Committee within the next 15 days.

UPW Reelects Flaxer; Hits Discrimination

Chicago, May 30 (AP).—The United Public Workers Union, an independent body, ended its four-day convention here today by reelecting all officers.

The meeting was the first convention since the union withdrew from the CIO, February 14 of this year.

The union voted to remain independent. It was explained that all members may vote in any way they see fit. As public workers, it is necessary to work under various political groups in various States.

The convention adopted a report of the antidiscrimination committee and also:

Decided to establish an award, the Charles A. Huston Memorial, for the local that does the most to combat discrimination in the Government.

Voted to conduct a Nation-wide drive to bring to the attention of the public all cases of discrimination in public service. A case discussed was that of Ealnor Godding, president of Local No. 1, New York, who was recently dismissed by the welfare commission.

Voted to fight the cases of eight suspended Jewish school teachers in New York.

Decided to work for elimination of all discriminatory practices in the Bureau of Engraving at Washington, where officials said none of the 3000 Negro employes are permitted to hold supervisory positions.

The officers reelected were: Abram Flaxer, New York, president; Roy Eldean, Chicago, vice president; Ewart Guinier, New York City, secretary-treasurer, and Robert Weinstein, Philadelphia, director of organization.

Florence, Italy, May 30 (U.P.).—Czechoslovakia and Hungary walked out of the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Conference here for good tonight after other delegates voted to admit representatives of Nationalist China.

Delegates from the two Iron Curtain countries announced they would boycott all UNESCO activities as long as Nationalist China remains a member.

The five-man Chinese delegation was approved by 30 nations. Yugoslavia, Burma and Denmark voted against admitting the Nationalists, and 13 nations abstained from voting.

More Layoffs Face Overcrowded Mines

The soft coal industry, troubled by the competition of other fuels and periodic work stoppages, is overcrowded with miners even though 39,000 have left the field in the past 18 months, the Government said yesterday.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics added that a study of employment trends indicates the Nation's soft coal communities can look for additional layoffs and work-week cutbacks in the future.

It said soft coal employment dipped from a postwar peak of 435,000 in September, 1945, to only 396,000 last March. The number of man-hours worked in the industry—another index to its economic health—also declined sharply during that period.

The reason, the Government said, is that the number of men available for work in the mines can produce more soft coal than the Nation can, or will, use.

Miners Facing Displacement

If the present force worked only 200 days a year, the equivalent of 40 five-day work weeks, the industry still would produce more than 550 million tons of coal. This is almost 25 percent more coal than the Nation used last year.

"Since it is not anticipated that coal consumption will rise to this level in 1950, the mining communities face the probable prospects of extensive displacement of miners or more part-time employment," the report warned.

It said man-hours worked in soft-coal mines dropped 34 percent from September, 1948, to the last half of 1949. While part of the decline was due to the three-day work week John L. Lewis put into effect during the recent coal dispute, other contributing factors included competition from other fuels, reduced exports, increased productivity per man and the 1949 business slump.

Oil Imports Blamed

Lewis' United Mine Workers blame much of the industry's trouble on what it terms a "flood of foreign oil" brought into the country in competition with coal.

While claiming to have no fears about the ability of coal to compete with domestic oil, the unions said cheaper labor costs in foreign nations give imported fuel oil an unfair price advantage.

UMW Vice President Thomas Kennedy last week told a Senate Labor subcommittee investigating unemployment in the coal and oil industries that 100 million barrels of residual oil were imported last year. He said this either displaced or cut the working hours of some 25,000 coal miners. A spot check, he added, revealed that 16,000 miners have been affected by foreign oil imports so far this year.

The miners' union has joined a drive by employers and other unions in the domestic coal and oil industries to increase the import tax on foreign oil from 10.5 cents a barrel to $1.05. Such an increase, they said, would restore the competitive balance.

The Labor Department bureau said employment in the soft-coal industry began dropping in 1923 and continued until the war. War production and postwar fuel demands boosted employment to 435,000 in 1948, when the long-range decline picked up again.

"Today, the question of how the bituminous coal-mining industry is to readjust to its restricted market remains unanswered," it said.

Some quarters have contended that periodic work stoppages in the coal industry are responsible for its dwindling markets. But others claim strikes are relatively unimportant because there would be mass layoffs for long periods without them.

During the last coal dispute, President Truman proposed setting up a special commission to study what he called the problems of the "sick" coal industry with an eye to establishing peaceful and stable labor relations. Both the industry and the UMW frowned on the idea, asserting they were perfectly able to work out their own problems.

Utah Statue Will Be Unveiled

A statue of Brigham Young, Western colonizer and second president of the Latter Day Saints Church, will be unveiled Thursday at 2 p. m. in the Capitol rotunda.

The statue, which will represent the State of Utah in the Capitol's statuary hall, will be presented formally by Gov. J. Bracken Lee of Utah with acceptance by Senator Arthur J. Watkins of the same State. Speakers will include Vice President Alben W. Barkley, Senator Elbert D. Thomas of Utah and George Albert Smith of Salt Lake City, president of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

Music will be presented by the 100-voice Manhattan Choir of New York; the combined Utah Centennial Choruses from Washington and Norfolk, and the United States Marine Band. Following the ceremony, a reception will be held in the Senate Caucus Room for Governor Lee and Smith, both of whom will speak at 8 p. m. in the Washington Latter Day Saints Church Chapel, 16th st. and Columbia rd. nw.

idea; so did President Truman when he heard of it. The President is reported to have felt it would give Congress a better insight in the problems facing Acheson and other officials.

The Secretary, therefore, will not hurt the President's feelings by going before Congress as Secretary James F. Byrnes did by his radio reports to the American people. He has already reported to the President on the London talks, and on Monday reported informally to the chairmen of the foreign policy committees of Congress.

Committee members would, of course, be miffed if they thought today's meeting would be a substitute for Acheson's frequent meetings with them in executive session. But Acheson has made it plain that there is no such intention.

Some Members Hardly Know Him

The official hope is that the meeting at the Library of Congress will help raise Acheson's stock with many members of Congress who hardly know him. Although the personal attacks on the Secretary have subsided in recent weeks, his legislative program still has many hurdles ahead of it before Congress adjourns.

On Friday he intends to ask for another year's extension of the military assistance program, costing about 1¼ billion dollars. Congress still has to appropriate the funds for this and for about 3 billion dollars' worth of economic aid abroad.

In addition, the Secretary has asked for approval of the International Trade Organization charter, although there is little hope of getting it at this session.

The subject matter of Acheson's talk today will be, firstly, his talks with the British and French foreign ministers, and secondly, his meetings with the foreign ministers of the 11 other nations that signed the North Atlantic treaty.

be appalled, when the whole truth becomes known, that drastic steps have not been taken long before this. It is a sickening story," Hickenlooper said.

Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, jr. (R., Mass.), another member of the subcommittee, reached by telephone in Frankfurt, Germany, asserted:

"I wish to say most emphatically that this whole Amerasia investigation should be pressed relentlessly so the American people can know the truth. I may have more to say when I return to Washington."

Tydings Is Criticized

Senator Joseph R. McCarthy (R., Wis.), critic of the State Department, commented:

"I think it is high time for Democrats who put country ahead of party to stand up and be counted. There can be no longer any question but what the Tydings-Green-McMahon team of brush-wielders is trying to whitewash this whole disgraceful episode in the belief they are protecting their party. I think their constituents ought to begin demanding that they let the truth out—and not just the portion of the truth that Senator Tydings thinks is suitable for the ears of the public."

Hickenlooper was equally critical of Senator Tydings (D., Md.) for a May 23 statement that 99 percent of the 1700 documents involved were "casual and routine," and had nothing to do with national security.

He assailed James M. McInerney of the Justice Department, who told the Tydings committee in a closed session that there was a lot of "silly stuff" in the Amerasia case—that it was a matter of "teacup gossip" in wartime Washington that unimportant Government documents were classified in such categories as "restricted," "confidential," and "secret."

Fleet Locations Revealed

"I know that some of the documents revealed military installations and location of fleet units during the war with Japan," Hickenlooper said. "Is that 'casual and routine' or 'teacup gossip'?"

"A document showed the area locations of a large number of our submarines in the Pacific while we were at war.

"I'd like to have some of the officers and crews who dodged death in the submarines say whether they and their fellow submariners who met death would have regarded that as 'casual and routine' and 'teacup gossip.'"

Tydings had said about 1 percent of the documents were "of some importance."

McCarthy Demands 6 Figures Be Questioned

By The Associated Press

Senator McCarthy filed a formal demand last night that the six persons arrested in the Amerasia magazine case of 1945 be questioned in the investigation of his charges that Reds infest the State Department.

"As I have previously pointed out, the Amerasia case is in my opinion the key to the Communist fifth column in the State Department," he said.

The six originally arrested in the Amerasia affair were John S. Service, veteran career officer in the State Department; Philip Jaffe, editor of the now-suspended publication specializing in Far Eastern affairs; Kate Mitchell, co-editor; Mark Gayn, freelance writer; Andrew Roth, Naval intelligence officer, and Emmanuel S. Larsen, a State Department employe.

A Federal grand jury declined to indict Service, Gayn or Miss Mitchell. The charges against Roth were dropped. Jaffe was fined $2500 and Larsen $500.

out not to be poisoned as Communist propaganda had asserted.

About 600 of them jammed the mess hall of West Berlin's Technical University for free food, drinks and Western newspapers as guests of the university's students. After dinner they danced one samba after another although this is branded "rotten Western music" in the Soviet Zone of Germany.

Proprietors and customers in many restaurants invited East Zone youths to have dinner with them.

Most of the weary youth army of nearly half a million was withdrawn by its Communist bosses with promises that they would meet the next time in Bonn, capital of West Germany.

The Communist rally in Berlin seemed to be over except for shouts of "victory" on both sides.

Red Police, 4 Poles Wage Berlin Gunfight

Berlin, May 30 (U.P.).—Communist police exchanged bullets with four men in Polish army uniform today in a gun battle which may have frustrated an attempt by the Poles to escape to West Berlin.

One Pole, dressed as an officer, was believed killed in the clash, and a policeman was wounded. Hundreds of civilians saw the brief but fierce battle near Friedrichstrasse Railroad Station, about three-quarters of a mile from Western territory.

Eyewitnesses said the shooting started when police stopped the four men near the Kronprinzen Bridge, which crosses the Spree River about half a mile from the Friedrichstrasse Station.

The Polish officer opened fire with a machine pistol (light submachinegun). Police fired back with tommy guns.

Three of the Poles dropped to the ground, but the man with the pistol dashed for cover of a bombed-out building. West Zone police headquarters said eyewitnesses reported the police followed the fleeing man and shot him through the head, killing him.

The other three Poles surrendered and were taken away by police.

Possible Failures in Planning Called Threat To Success of District's New Fight on Slums

By Thomas Winship
Post Reporter

Washington's slum clearance and low-rent housing program—blessed with Federal financial and moral support—stands in jeopardy of failing unless a better-than-last planning performance is forthcoming, District officials indicated yesterday.

Blocked on receiving funds from Congress in recent years, the commissioners have turned to the Housing and Home Finance Agency with these results:

1. A $550,000 preliminary site-planning grant to the National Capital Housing Authority for 4000 public housing units to be constructed here over a two-year period, and

2. A $2,250,000 sum earmarked for clearing and redeveloping blighted areas in a citywide slum clearance program. Purpose of this grant is to absorb up to two-thirds of the loss between resale value of project areas and the cost of acquiring, clearing and preparing them for new uses.

But in making these offers the Federal housing agency has stipulated a planning deadline on both programs.

John Ihlder, NCHA executive director, has been notified he must be ready to let contracts for starting 2000 public housing units by March 31, 1951.

Yesterday Ihlder said he already has drawn $70,000 for "site planning" and may ask for more shortly. He has refused to make public any details of his planning studies, or indicate where he wants to locate them, except to say some will be built in a congested slum area, some on sparsely settled lots and some on vacant land.

Nevertheless, he exudes confidence that he will meet the March deadline, even though the commissioners have not yet signed the necessary "so-called cooperative agreement" pledging the District to raze approximately the same number of existing substandard dwellings as new ones constructed.

And Engineer Commissioner Gordon R. Young has stated publicly the city heads will not sign the cooperative agreement until Ihlder outlines to them details as to location and how much the District may be expected to spend on water and sewage facilities for the new housing.

There alaso is a deadline tagged to the $2,250,000 which HHFA announced yesterday it was setting aside for District slum clearance and redevelopment.

This reservation of funds holds until July 1, 1951, and will come to the District in cash only on the basis of "specific, approved projects." This deadline may be extended if District officials can show they have definite plans in the works.

With this background, officials state speedy and coordinated preliminary planning on prospective target sites is clearly the key to whether the District can avail itself of Federal financial aid, now on the line for the asking if backed by supporting plans.

By terms of the 1949 act, this planning challenge is at the door of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission.

The commission, noted for fast action on any matter before it, contends it is short-staffed, a fact of which Congress has never felt convinced.

For three years up to a few weeks ago NCPPC has concentrated all its slum clearance attention on the ill-fated Marshall Heights project in Southeast Washington. It was officially abandoned last week by the Commissioners after Congress had thrice refused to appropriate Marshall Heights clearance funds under the District Redevelopment Act of 1946.

So, the Commissioners, NCPPC and the Redevelopment Land Agency (the slum clearance administrative agency) are now off on a new double-barreled attack. They have temporarily given up their own 1946 act for the broader benefits of the 1949 act where they do not have to ask Congress for funds, and they are on the hunt for other blighted areas to tackle.

Doctors Warned

Check Urged For Cancer Of Prostate

Doctors were urged yesterday to fight cancer of the prostate by including a prostate gland check in all physical examinations of men over 40.

The warning to physicians was made by Col. James C. Kimbrough, chief of the urological section of Walter Reed Hospital, in a paper read to the American Urological Association.

Some 1200 members of the association from the United States and foreign countries are holding a four-day session, ending Thursday, at the Hotel Statler.

It is the forty-fifth annual meeting of the group, whose members are surgeons dealing with disorders of the urinary and genital tracts.

Colonel Kimbrough, whose paper was prepared in collaboration with Maj. Robert Rowe, Walter Reed Hospital resident physician, said there are no symptoms of cancer of the prostate evident to the patient in its early stages.

"When a man waits until symptoms occur, it may well be too late," the urologist declared.

Colonel Kimbrough said about 15 to 20 percent of men past middle age who have urinary symptoms have been found to have cancer of the prostate, according to recent studies.

Two other Washington urologists, Dr. William P. Herbst and Dr. Lloyd Lewis, participated in the study.

Similar study of carcinoma of the bladder at the Massachusetts General Hospital was described by Dr. Fletcher H. Colby and Dr. Walter S. Kerr, jr., of Boston.

Movies of operations and other urological treatment occupied the entire afternoon. The program of films and scientific papers will continue today.

Colonial Beach Police Defied By Boatman

Colonial Beach, Va., May 30 (Spl.).—The operator of a 25-passenger launch between the town pier and a gambling boat in the Potomac River near here has defied orders to stop using the dock for loading customers, police reported today.

Police Sergt. J. T. Miller said he would await the return of Town Attorney George Mason Wednesday before taking "appropriate action."

The launch is used to carry passengers out to Pleasure Island, a seagoing barge outfitted for slot machines, bars and a dance hall for tourists, Miller said.

Miller said he told the owner of the launch, which carries a sign saying "free ride to the Pleasure Island," to stop using the city pier for loading. The owner, identified by police as Robert Lowery of Dahlgren, was quoted by Miller as saying, "You don't want anybody to make any money down here, do you?"

After "holding off for a while," today the boat resumed regular runs between the pier and the Pleasure Island every 10 or 15 minutes, Miller said.

The town council voted several weeks ago not to lease the pier to private interests

The Pleasure Island anchored off shore here several weeks ago. It is legally in Maryland waters, offshore from Charles County, where slot machines and mixed drinks are legal. Both are banned in Virginia.

Also operating at full tilt for holiday crowds today were four slot-machine emporiums on the end of private piers, beyond the low-water mark of the Potomac and therefore in Maryland waters.

One of the establishments is serving mixed drinks with a Maryland license. Others serve only beer and light wine, which are permitted in Virginia, but all four have slot machines.

A Page from the "Life" of—

Everyone recognizes ARMOUR AND COMPANY as the country's outstanding supplier of fine meat products. Who, then, is better qualified to write of the "life" and quality of the beef GIANT buys in such quantities from this source for its thousands of customers? Quoting from a recent letter ARMOUR wrote GIANT "only 12 out of every 100 (cattle)) are acceptable for GIANT Top Notch' beef!"

Well Bred

Three important points account for the high quality of GIANT "Top Notch" beef—well bred, well fed and well finished. The first, well bred, concerns the breeds of cattle producing the best beef. Only certain pure-bred strains of cattle efficiently convert corn and other fine foods into beef of "Top Notch" quality. White-faced Herefords and Black Angus are two of the most famous of these pure-strain breeds—and these supply the "Top Notch" quality beef that is daily proving increasingly popular with many thousands of Washingtonians.

U. S. Department of Agriculture quotations on western dressed beef show that each grade, whether "good" or "choice," has a wholesale price difference as high as 4c a pound. Therefore, if it is possible to pay as much as 4c a pound difference for the same grade, there must be a difference in the quality! GIANT always pays "top" price to be sure of getting the grade's "top" quality.

Giant FOOD DEPARTMENT STORES

—from the heart of the CORN COUNTRY

It takes many months of scientific feeding, on a diet principally of corn, to produce beef of GIANT "Top Notch" quality. Omaha and Sioux City, located in the heart of the corn country, are the primary sources of supply for GIANT'S beef.

What Makes an Egg FRESH?

GIANT knows an egg's most important point is its freshness. That's why GIANT handles only eggs from nearby farms—buying them in their freshest condition, and speeding them daily to all the GIANT stores. And these eggs come from farms specializing exclusively in the proper scientific raising of hens that produce eggs of superior quality.

NOTE The world's most modern equipment, expert candling, up-to-the-minute refrigeration and Government grading cannot make an egg FRESH! Your assurance of freshness lies in buying eggs from dealers (such as GIANT) who have the experience, knowledge, and contacts to buy eggs from nearby farmers engaged exclusively in raising hens that produce QUALITY eggs, and who have the facilities to transport them in the shortest period of time to their stories.

An Open Letter to the People of Washington

Do you want your grocery bill, your clothing bill, your cost of living to INCREASE?

Do you want the prices you pay for things you need standardized—at a HIGHER level?

Do you want free enterprise hamstrung, the economies you effect through bargains made impossible?

The District Commissioners have ordered public hearings on Monday, June 5th, at 10:00 A.M. on regulations that may well be the first step to the evils outlined above. And on that same day at the same time the District Committee is holding hearings on a bill which would virtually outlaw cut-rate selling of standard brands.

Two hearings at the same time affecting a single industry make it impossible for the public to express either objection or approval of more than one. Yet it is their right to attend and express opinion at all public hearings.

These are important matters to everyone, whether they use liquors or not. At the moment, only liquor prices are involved. But raising the price of one commodity BY REGULATION sets a precedent for regulation of ALL commodities.

It is proposed to ban discounts. Unreasonable discounts are already prohibited by law. And reasonable discounts are basic to ALL business. Fruit juice is cheaper by the case, milk costs less in quarts than pints . . . and rightly so.

It is proposed to prohibit the advertising of "loss leaders." We are opposed to such advertising (though we use it in self-defense) because it is too easy to abuse. But free enterprise requires that a business be allowed to sell to the public at any price it desires.

It is proposed that wholesalers establish the retail prices of package liquors! The Congress itself has defeated such proposals many times in the past, proof enough that this so-called "fair trade" is not fair.

There are many other implications—ALL important to YOU. Unless you have money to throw away, it's to your personal interest to register the strongest possible protest against these measures.

Plain Old PEARSON'S Liquor Annex
2436 WISCONSIN AVENUE, N. W.

We appeal to the NEWSPAPERS, as spokesmen both to and for the people, to explain the full implications of these measures to the public, and to protest them to the authorities.

Accountant Defies Hogan in Crime Quiz

New York, May 30 (U.P.).—New York and New Jersey teamed up today in the running attack on the multi-million-dollar gambling combine of Frank Erickson and Joe Adonis.

But a Newark, N. J., accountant defied New York District Attorney Frank Hogan's subpena to obtain the financial records of a Florida gambling casino where an underworld partnership including Erickson and Adonis netted more than $600,000 in one year.

I. George Goldstein, New Jersey accountant for Erickson's fabulous cross-country gambling enterprises, promised a court battle to keep records of the swank Colonial Inn at Hallandale, Fla., out of the hands of New York prosecutors.

Two teams of Hogan's investigators crossed into New Jersey yesterday to serve subpenas on two banks to obtain bank account records of Joseph Doto, Adonis' real name, his wife, and son, Joseph, jr.

Hogan wanted the information for a New York grand jury investigating New York phases of the Nation's underworld rackets also under fire by a Senate crime investigating committee.

The subpenas were issued with cooperation of New Jersey officials, under a two-State recipocal witness agreement, against the First National Bank of Fort Lee, N. J., and the Edgewater National Bank, Edgewater, N. J.

The banks said they would comply, but Goldstein obtained a show-cause order to be argued Thursday in Essex County Court, Newark, to prevent New York from obtaining fresh evidence in its inquiry.

The wording of the subpena against the accountant indicated Hogan's grand jury investigation was seeking to establish violation and conspiracy to violate both New York and New Jersey gambling laws.

The subpena ordered Goldstein to appear before the grand jury in New York next Monday with his complete file of Colonial Inn records and transactions.

A May 2 raid on Erickson's Park Avenue headquarters here produced evidence linking Erickson and Adonis with a long list of underworld characters in the Florida gambling club.

Bolling Probe 'Hopeful,' Is Police View

Capt. Jeremiah Flaherty of the homicide squad was "hopeful" yesterday that police and Bolling Air Base agents would solve Saturday morning's murder of young Gordon C. Brown, Washington cab driver, on the base.

Flaherty said several good, though not "specific," leads have been uncovered in the four-day mass questioning of Bolling personnel.

The veteran investigator said as long as the investigation continues to produce leads, there is a chance of solution.

Fifty men under Flaherty yesterday continued their interrogations on a barrack-by-barrack, round-the-clock basis. Everyone on the base is scheduled to be questioned.

Police said the inquiry is the biggest ever conducted in the city, eclipsing even the mass questionings in the Good Friday Lansburgh slayings.

Some of the airmen questioned, police and Bolling authorities said, will be quizzed again, while others have been ruled out as suspects.

Homicide detectives are working on the theory that either intended robbery or a fight over the payment of cab fare is the slaying motive.

Brown, 24, of 224 Carmody Hills dr., Carmody Hills, Md., was found fatally wounded about 2:30 a. m. Saturday on a grass plot at the south end of the field. He had been hit on the head with a blunt instrument. There were strangulation marks on his throat.

In his hand Brown clutched his wallet containing $3 or $4. His coin changer contained about $6.

Sergt. Neil E. Wegner, who found Brown, told police the dying man muttered "something that sounded like 'Marie' or 'Marine.'" At one time, said Wegner, Brown groaned, "What will my honey think of me now?"

Masonic services will be held at 2 p. m. Thursday at the Lee Funeral Home, 4th st. and Massachusetts ave. ne. Burial will be in Fort Lincoln Cemetery.

U. S. Attorneys Pouring Racket Data Into Justice Dept.

By The Associated Press

Officials disclosed yesterday that secret reports are flowing into the Justice Department on links between Florida "Gold Coast" gambling operators and racketeers in New York, Chicago and California.

The data are expected to be used in pressing the current $150,000 Senate investigation of Nation-wide crime and gambling.

Senator Hunt (D., Wyo.) has declared that Frank Erickson, New York bookmaker, is "the No. 1 man, the Big Shot" in gambling in the southern Florida resort area around Miami.

Hunt said this came to light in surprise hearings conducted in Miami late last week by Chairman Kefauver (D., Tenn.) of the special Senate inquiry committee.

Hunt and Kefauver said the hearings turned up information on Erickson, Frank Costello and Joe Adonis, all of New York, and on the Los Angeles hoodlum, Mickey Cohen.

Cartons Full of Records

Hunt said he and Kefauver subpenaed "great cartons full of material" in Miami—including canceled checks and Federal income tax returns of plush gambling clubs and individuals—for use in the Senate inquiry.

In addition, the Kefauver committee will probably tap a mass of confidential data now being funneled into the Justice Department from its 93 United States attorneys throughout the country.

These reports show definite tie-ins between Florida operations and Northerners who control the multi-million-dollar "Gold Coast" gambling houses, an official said.

The United States attorneys are sending in batches of information after being instructed last month to report on the local and interstate operations of known underworld figures.

Work With Other Units

Among other sources, they were directed by Attorney General McGrath to get in touch with the field offices of such enforcement agencies as alcohol tax units, narcotics bureaus, customs and postoffice inspectors, secret service agents and local police.

The Justice Department has announced its intention of cooperating fully with the Senate committee.

Senator Hunt has said that New York racket czars keep a tight finger on gambling casinos, horserace bookmaking and similar activities in the Miami area.

"They don't just have links with the gambling down there—they run it," Hunt said.

Alluding to the mention of gangster Mickey Cohen's name at the Miami hearings, Hunt commented:

"We know lots of money goes from Miami to Los Angeles."

Neither Kefauver nor Hunt would disclose whether some other city may follow Miami as the scene of an on-the-spot investigation.

Kefauver also said the hearings in Miami disclosed "new information" about Erickson, whose New York headquarters were raided recently by District Attorney Frank S. Hogan of New York after Erickson admitted he nets $100,000 a year as a bookmaker. Erickson so testified before a Senate committee.

Dearborn Mayor Eyes Lesinski House Seat

Dearborn, Mich., May 30 (U.P.).—Mayor Orville L. Hubbard, one of the stormiest political figures in Michigan history, may seek the congressional seat left vacant by the death of Representative John A. Lesinski (D., Mich.).

"I think I might have a pretty good chance to win," the colorful 46-year-old mayor said today. "And if I do, there'll be a little leveling of Capitol Hill when I get to Washington. You can bet on that."

Hubbard indicated that he probably would run as a Democrat. "A Republican won't have a ghost of a chance in this district," he said.

Japanese Reds Stone Four U. S. Soldiers

Tokyo, May 30 (AP).—Four United States soldiers were stoned today at a Japanese Communist rally. American military police reacted promptly, arresting eight demonstrators who provoked three other street melees.

It was the first Communist violence aimed at United States troops. Japan's Reds have been criticized by the Cominform for not getting tougher.

The Communists had boasted they would have 100,000 out for the frankly anti-American rally. The turnout was only 5000 or so but the crowd made up in toughness for lack of numbers.

First, the Communists tried to take over Imperial Plaza. Police stopped them. The plaza had been reserved by United States occupation forces for a Memorial Day ceremony.

Communist leaflets called reservation of the plaza for United States troops "an intentional obstruction and suppression."

But the Communists were back this afternoon and were allowed to mass in the downtown plaza.

Sanzo Nozaka, one of Japan's leading Reds, stepped to the platform and shouted:

"This isn't a parade ground. It's the people's plaza, and we must keep it the people's plaza. We can only do that if the people take over the Government."

Students in frayed pants and the peaked caps of the universities sang and shouted themselves into a frenzy.

The trouble began, said a reliable source, when members of a Communist youth group snatched a notebook from a Japanese plain clothesman. The four United States soldiers, there as observers, stepped in.

One soldier was struck when he tried to grab the notebook. He struck back. The crowd threw stones and one soldier was knocked down. The four finally fought clear of the crowd.

United States military police arrested three Japanese as the crowd entered Hibaya Park for a second rally. Clubs and fists flew as the three put up a fight.

Five more Japanese were arrested in the ensuing disorder.

In all, perhaps a dozen Japanese Communists were clubbed. None was hurt seriously.

The mood of the Communists today was different from any they have shown since the occupation began. They abandoned plans in 1946 to use violence in labor demonstrations when General MacArthur threatened retaliation.

They seem now to be trying to provoke retaliation, coming to the rally today bringing their own nurses and first aid equipment.

Cellophane Costume Ignites, Dancer Dies

Helsinki, May 30 (AP).— Finnish ballet dancer Aino Nyman, 36, was burned to death in Tammerfors, Finland, Monday when his cellophane costume caught fire from a lighted cigarette in his dressing room.

Burning like a torch, Nyman rushed into the dressing room of the ballet girls, crying for help. Dressed in celophane like himself, they could not help him.

Nyman dashed out of the theater and tried unsuccessfully to extinguish the flames by rolling his body in sand.

Fueschel attended Washington and Lee High School and was appointed to the academy in 1946. He was a member of the academy's choir and glee club and served as editor on the cadet publicity committee and Surf 'N Storm, the academy monthly publication.

Ilgenfritz Fleishell

Ilgenfritz, a graduate of Western High School, entered the Coast Guard in 1945. After 12 months service, he was appointed to the academy. He was a member of the school's football, boxing and baseball teams. He will be assigned to the Tampa at Mobile, Ala.

He will be assigned to the Cherokee at Norfolk, Va.

Fleishell attended St. John's College and Hilder Prep School here and was appointed to the academy in 1946. He was editor-in-chief of Tide Rips, the Academy year book and a member of the basketball team. In his last year, Fleishell was appointed a platoon leader in the cadet battalion. He will be assigned to the Mackinac at New York City.

Teacher Is Winner Of Herblock Cartoon

An original drawing by Herblock, cartoonist for The Washington Post, was won by Mrs. Eleanor Phillips, a teacher at the Green Acres School, in Bethesda, yesterday at an "open house" held as a benefit for the school's scholarship fund.

The drawing, which depicts a Senate filibuster, was one of the highlights of a program at which about $75 was raised for the fund. Among other features was a pet show in which a three-inch earthworm named "Senator McCarthy" was awarded a prize as the show's "most aggressive pet."

Bible Subjects Irk Vicar of British Church

London, May 30 (U.P.).—Canon T. P. Stevens, vicar of suburban St. Paul's Church of England Church, today urged that parts of the Old Testament be withheld from children because of reference to rape, murder and war. He said he already had banned some Old Testament stories from his Sunday School.

"Some of the stories are helpful, interesting and lovely, but quite often they deal with rape and murder, lies and brutality, exaggerated nationalism and war," the dean wrote in his parish magazine.

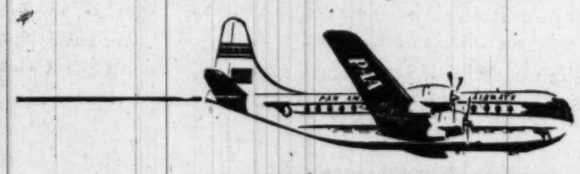
Good News!

PAN AMERICAN has added EXTRA FLIGHTS TO EUROPE!



You can still get tickets if you act right away!

Don't put off that trip to Europe because you've heard that "everything's booked up" for the summer. Pan American has added extra Clipper* flights. You can still get tickets for certain dates if you act promptly. And hotel rooms are still available in most cities.

You may go by either of Pan American's two routes across the Atlantic: via Shannon to London or via the Azores to Lisbon. Either way, you fly on the World's Most Experienced Airline. You may go one way, return the other.

Double-decked Clippers

Most flights to London are in new double-decked Clippers—world's largest, fastest, most luxurious airliners. Each has a congenial club lounge on the lower deck.

Pan American has more of these sky giants than any other airline. So you have a better chance of going by double-decked plane if you choose Pan American. No extra fare. A foam-soft berth is only $25 additional.

Reservations are also available on certain flights of "The President" to London. This is the world's most luxurious air service. You enjoy a seven-course gourmet dinner, served with wine and champagne. There are complimentary cocktails and liqueurs . . . and for the ladies, French perfume and orchids! Extra attendants are at your service. There is a ten-dollar surcharge.

All-expense tours

You can choose from a wide selection of all-expense tours to Europe. For example, there's a 15-day air tour via Pan American that takes you to Rome, Paris, London, the Riviera for only $836 from New York.

The sooner you make your reservation, the wider your choice of dates. So, act right away! Call your Travel Agent or Pan American—tions, the VA figures it has a "hard core" of perhaps three quarters of a million claims that will have to be checked further.

GI Insurance Pay 90 Pct. Completed

Right now, for instance, they are still combing out names of GIs who had duplicate serial numbers and others who had duplicate policies. One person, for instance, may have one policy under the name of John James Smith, and another, taken out later, under the name of John J. Smith.

These will be out of the way fairly soon, officials believe, but there will undoubtedly remain some hundreds of thousands of applications that have not been properly identified, don't match up with service records, or—inevitably—are downright fraudulent.

Checking on these final problem claims may continue until long after the bulk of the repayments is spent or salted away.

Average Check Is $175.

While the Federal Reserve Board is reported to be making a study of insurance rebate spending, no official estimates have been made as to what the happy policyholder is doing with his check, which averages $175.

Some indirect indications have come out of the Department of Commerce. In its latest Survey of Current Business, it was estimated that the GI rebate accounted for eight billion dollars of the 10½-billion-dollar increase in personal income, figured at an annual rate, during the first quarter of the year.

Consumption expenditures during the same period did not keep up with the increase in income, and as a result, the personal saving rate rose from 11 billion dollars to $18,500,000,000, the survey shows. Department statisticians says most of the increased saving comes from the GI insurance rebates.

Much of the saving from this source, however, is "probably temporary," officials believe. "It simply reflects the fact," concludes the survey, "that the spending of the insurance refunds will be spread over a longer time than the receipt of the checks."

Meanwhile, Congress is looking over the 10-year-old GI insurance law, with the thought that some changes may be necessary.

Flaws Found in Law

Some legislators who are in favor of a new law for future GIs cite a statement by Harold W. Breining, insurance head for the VA, that the present insurance system would not work in another war.

A House subcommittee, headed by Representative Porter Hardy (D., Va.), has just completed four weeks of hearings that disclosed "gimmicks" in the present law involving possible needless costs.

One "gimmick" is that the National Service Life Insurance fund is invested in Government bonds paying 3 percent interest, while the rate on most such bonds is 2.2 percent.

Another is that the Government pays insurance premiums for air cadets, yet the current rebate covers the months while the cadets were in training as well as the months when they paid their own premiums.

Still another item is that the Government, not NSLI, actually pays insurance death benefits. Money for reimbursement is paid out of the NSLI fund later, but in the meantime the Government pays interest for the period.

Breining told the subcommittee he would favor a law giving free insurance to servicemen for the time they are in the armed forces. It would end automatically once they left the service. He believes such a system in World War II would have saved the Government an estimated 500 million dollars.

any new schools which may be needed to serve their area.

Bond issue advocates insist any such dual taxation would be ruled out by a "fair and equitable" decision of the annexation court, which must rule on a financial settlement between the city and the county if it approves the annexation.

Officials Support Plan

Against only two organizations on record as opposed to the school bond issue is arrayed a lineup of school officials, county teachers, parent-teachers' associations, civic groups, ranking county officials and civic leaders.

Only organized opposition to the courthouse bond issue has come from the Taxpayers' Advisory Association, which asserts the expenditure is "neither an economy or a necessity at this time." It charges the size of the proposed courthouse addition is beyond the current existing shortage of office space and other facilities."

County officials have listed these polling places for today's voting:

Marine Held in Rape Attempt

A 20-year-old Marine private was held yesterday under $3000 bond for grand jury action on a charge of assault with intent to rape a 23-year-old tourist here.

He is Warren F. Harris of Quantico. Bond was set by Judge Thomas D. Quinn of Municipal Court.

The victim had a blackened left eye resulting, she said, from the assault.

She told the court she came here Sunday from Detroit, where she is a telephone company clerk. She testified she met Harris and another Marine when they engaged her and her room-mate in conversation at midnight Tuesday near 14th and H sts. nw.

The girls were taken to a tavern, she said, to have some beer and then went dancing. She said Harris hit her and tossed her to the ground in the intended rape in an alley in the first block of Wonder's ct. sw.

She fled after being pushed to the earth, she said. Her screams attracted Police Pvt. J. W. Cameron, of the Fourth precinct, who made the arrest.

The woman admitted that Harris appeared to be "drunk" at the time of the assault but said that he "seemed to know what he was doing."

Flowers Fall on 'Pearl'

Tourist Dies in Fall From Natural Arch

Moab, Utah, May 30 (AP).—An eastern tourist plunged 200 feet to his death yesterday from a slender rock span in the spectacular Arches National Monument.

He was identified as Frederick Semish, 19, of New York City.

Bates Wilson, monument superintendent, said Semish was attempting to cross the 291-foot-long Landscape Arch and apparently slipped. Wilson said the span narrows to 6 feet at one point and visitors are advised to stay off it.

He Doesn't Care Who Passes Him!

One of the rarest satisfactions a 1950 Cadillac brings to its owner is serenity. He hasn't the slightest reservation about his car—and he takes to the highway with complete peace of mind.

Watch him briefly in the stream of traffic—and, if he is a normal Cadillac driver, you will quickly sense what we mean. He drives as befits his mood and his requirements, and is quite content to let other people do the same.

Unless he happens to be in a hurry, it is all right with him if another driver wants the honors when the light turns green. He knows that the surplus power in that eager, dynamic engine was put there for his safety and driving ease—and not for dramatic display on the get-away.

And so on the open road. If you wish to drive a little faster than he does, let him know!

He understands that his last two inches of throttle were not put there for the ungracious purpose of dominating the highway. They are there for an emergency—and for that lovely, floating, cruising ride which only a great reserve of power can provide.

So roll along, if you're in a hurry—and the top o' the mornin' to you!

It's a wonderful thing, this feeling of calm confidence in your motor car. It lessens the strain, and increases the pleasure, of every mile you drive. Many say it's their happiest surprise when they first take the wheel of a Cadillac.

And we're wondering if you realize how easily and practically it can be your own. Listen . . .

. . . the lower-priced models in the Cadillac line cost less to buy than the highest-priced models of numerous other cars!

. . . Cadillac's great high-compression engine is so efficient that a single tankful of gasoline will suffice for a normal full day's drive!

. . . and when it comes to endurance, the Cadillac record stands by itself. The lifespan of a Cadillac car has never been fully measured!

Surely, these are such practical facts that they should point your way to the joys of a Cadillac. And the car itself can quickly reveal how great these joys can be.

We have the car—and you name the time. But don't forget that each day you delay will cost you its price in pleasure and satisfaction!

Montgomery Council Passes Library Bill, 5-2; More Than Dozen Other Measures Also Voted

The Montgomery County Council yesterday passed the controversial library bill, 5 to 2, and voted more than a dozen other measures into law in an attempt to clear most of its agenda before the June 1 deadline for county legislative sessions.

The library bill was condemned by Councilman Thomas E. Kelley as a "useless bill." He charged that under it, the county would employ a librarian for a year without knowing whether or not the county would ever own a book.

The library bill, as passed, provides for the librarian and appointment of a library committee with powers to negotiate with various communities in the county to form a county-wide library system.

Voting with Kelley against the measure was Councilman Augustus R. Selby.

Action Delayed

The council, meeting at the courthouse in Rockville, delayed action until the final legislative session at 2 p. m. today on two important measures. These are the million-dollar hospital bond issue, and a $9,454,000 bond issue for schools, roads and a new county building.

In passing the juvenile court bill, the council stripped the measure of a feature that would provide a full-time juvenile court judge at $10,000 a year.

As passed, the bill gives the present, part-time juvenile court judge jurisdiction to determine custody and parental rights. It also provides for staggered terms for the juvenile court committee.

Other Bills

Among other bills passed were measures to:

Exempt personal business property from the Silver Spring business district tax; prohibit obscene language over the telephone; prohibit making false reports to police.

Authorize the county to remove view obstructions, other than buildings, if the obstructions constitute a traffic hazard — the property owner to be billed for the removal; authorize the construction and grading of streets and roads — to be paid by front-foot benefit assessments.

Outline regulations for petitions to amend the county charter; provide for licensing of door-to-door salesmen; regulate building permits; require maintenance of guest registers in hotels, rooming houses, tourist houses, tourist cabins and trailer parks; require permits to dig up or obstruct any public highway.

Inspectors Named

In executive session, the council approved the appointment by the county manager of five inspectors to the Department of Public Works. They are:

Webster Horace Collins, of 2711 Ontario rd. nw., annual salary $3080, appointment effective May 24; Harry L. Stuart, of 1607 16th st. nw. $3740, effective May 29; Sidney O. Dewberry, 424 7th st. nw., $2860, June 1; Bernard M. Bancroft, of 150 36th st. nw., $3080, June 1, and Truett Conwell Smith, of 1215 Randolph st. nw., $3080, June 1.

The council also reappointed Gen. Charles D. Herron, of 7211 Fairfax rd., Bethesda, for a three-year term to the County Appeals Tax Court.

It denied an application for reclassification of a lot at Kennebec and Roanoke aves.; and two lots at Kennebec and Albemarle aves., Takoma Park, to permit apartment house construction. The reclassification had been requested by Donald D. Lamond, agent for Fred L. Glaize, jr., and Philip B. Glaize.

Herbert Is Good At Biting Hands, But Not Careful

Baltimore, May 30 (AP).—The judge, in sentencing William Herbert to six months in jail, today called him a "very unappreciative man."

Which sounds like an understatement after the magistrate was told: Herbert met Harry Estep. He told Estep he was hungry and homeless. Estep took Herbert to his house. He even hocked a radio to buy some extra food.

Then Estep went out. When he came back, Herbert was gone. So were Estep's camera, a flashlight, two shirts, trousers, belts and tobacco.

Policemen later spotted a man trying to sell a camera.

The camera was Estep's. The man was Herbert.

D. C. Man Wins 2 Art Prizes

Michael Panich of 202 F st. ne., was a double winner in the second annual fine arts exhibition at the University of Maryland yesterday.

Panich's entries in the portrait and life classes were rated first. The exhibition consisted of more than 200 examples of the work by students in the fine arts department.

Other first-place winners were: Arthur Baitch, Baltimore, sculpture; I. Tipton Stringer, 15532 Bradley blvd., Chevy Chase, antique drawing; Elizabeth C. Hilsee, 6104 42d pl., Hyattsville, landscape and creative painting; Shirley R. Hennesy, 3330 Buchanan st., Mount Rainier, still life.

Cash awards, totaling $150 were presented to the winners by Prof. Jams P. Wharton, head of the art department. The money was contributed by Herbert Brune, jr., president of the Art Founndation, Inc., of Baltimore; Joseph Katz, president of the Katz Advertising Agency, Baltimore; James Swartz and an anonymous donor.

Judges were Wilbur H. Hunter, jr., director of the Peale Museum of Art in Baltimore; William G. Evans, president of the Watercolor Club of Baltimore, and Harold Holms Wren, Baltimore art teacher.

Fairfax Schools

No one who read Agnes E. Meyer's story in this newspaper Sunday about the deplorable physical condition of Fairfax County schools can doubt the need to act quickly. The $10,500,000 school construction bond issue, on which voters will decide today, is intended to enable the suburban Virginia county to catch up with its phenomenal population growth. With many students now on double shifts and many more attending classes in ramshackle firetraps, Fairfax County is faced with the inexorable fact that it will have to find room for between 2500 and 3000 additional pupils next September. Nor will the demand stop there; the mushrooming new apartment developments and subdivisions will pour thousands of children into the schools within the next few years. Prompt and drastic expansion is imperative.

The water has been muddied, with respect to today's referendum, by the fact that both Falls Church and Alexandria have suits pending to annex substantial areas of land from the county. Under Virginia law there appears to be a technical possibility that residents of the annexed areas may be subject to a form of double taxation, and Fairfax County authorities have played coy on this point. It is regrettable that they did not postpone the bond issue until after determination of the annexation suits, and that they have offered no assurance to the voters in the annexable areas. But it is not yet certain that the annexations will go through, and even if they do, the ability of Falls Church and Alexandria themselves to provide new schools promptly in the annexed areas is doubtful. The need, it seems to us, is to consider first things first, and the item of first importance here is to see that provision is made for new schools. Voters today must rely on the reasonableness of the courts in working out an equitable arrangement for the transfer of school property and debt burden to the cities if the annexations should take place. It would be criminal to condemn children to hopelessly inadequate schools because city and county authorities cannot get together on a settlement.

Stymied World Court

The decline of the United Nations and the International Court of Justice, says Louis B. Wehle in a recent issue of the University of Pennsylvania Law Review, is directly traceable to the distorted interpretation of the Charter which has prevented the Security Council from submitting cases to the court for advisory opinions. In its first three years the World Court has decided only one contentious case—that involving Great Britain's claim for damages against Albania. The General Assembly, which has no powers for the enforcement of peace, has referred only five questions to the court for advisory opinions. The Security Council, which has the peace enforcement function, has submitted nothing to the court because it has been blocked at every point by the Russian veto.

The process by which we have permitted Russia to silence the World Court reflects no credit upon our statesmanship. It was clearly the intention of the founders of the U. N. at San Francisco to make the Court the chief agency for interpretation of the Charter. They supposed that when the Security Council disagreed as to the meaning of the Charter it would ask the Court for an advisory opinion. The submission of a question to a court for an opinion is a procedural matter by any accepted meaning of the word. Consequently, such decisions should be made by any seven members of the Council. Under the Yalta voting formula the big-power veto was to be exercised against only nonprocedural matters. The fatal error came in the big-five statement of June 7, 1945, interpreting the Yalta formula to mean that "even the question whether a matter is procedural could not be brought up for a vote in the Council over the objection of one permanent member." That foolish phrase put the conscience of the U. N. in Russia's keeping, and Mr. Wehle regards it—rightly—as a serious violation of the Charter.

Having agreed to this distortion of the Charter, the United States and Great Britain feel bound to acquiesce in Russia's repeated obstructionism. Mr. Wehle points out that this sense of obligation is illusory, because of the Soviet Union's persistent breach of its pledge not to use the veto to obstruct the operation of the Council. In other words, if the Western powers should abandon their pledge because the Russians have abandoned theirs, they could get a ruling from the World Court as to what are "procedural matters" and thus minimize the present frustration within the Council. This proposal seems to have a good deal of merit. Free governments are easily victimized if they persist in adhering to pledges given in a spirit of mutual cooperation when the Communist powers have consistently violated their part of the agreement. If the State Department has not seriously explored the possibility of abandoning the fatal statement of June 7, which is not a part of the Charter, we think it should do so, with the purpose of getting a World Court ruling on what is "procedural" and what is not.

Question Period

Secretary Acheson will not be plowing new ground when he addresses a joint session of Congress tomorrow but he will doubtless give new impetus to an admirable practice. When a Cabinet member has been on an important mission, it is the most natural thing in the world for him to make a report not only to the President but also to Congress. That is the best possible means of keeping informed those legislators who will be asked to pass bills or vote appropriations in support of Administration policy. The need for accurate information about the conference in London has been accentuated by President Truman's casual remark, on greeting Mr. Acheson, that the meeting was the most successful one since, mirabile dictu, Potsdam. However, if the result of the meet of the Big Three had any relation to the flat, stale and unprofitable Potsdam agreement, we doubt that Secretary Acheson would have sought a congressional audience for an explanation of them.

At the conclusion of the Secretary's speech in the auditorium of the Library of Congress, he will respond to the questions of Congressmen. In this matter, apparently, he will be plowing new ground. While Secretary Hull and General Marshall, when he was Chief of Staff, have addressed joint sessions, we know of no instance when a Secretary of State has submitted to questions in an open session, with the press free to attribute statements to him, without quotation. Certainly this is an intelligent step forward in public and congressional relations.

The success of the experiment will depend, of course, on the Congressmen present as well as the Secretary of State. If the privilege of asking questions should be abused by mere carping or narrow partisanship from the floor, repetition of the experiment would be discouraged. But if the occasion is used for requesting and imparting information, as, for instance, on the policy underlying the new Indo-Chinese adventure, it can readily lead to a general practice of Cabinet members addressing Congress and submitting to questions on vital issues of national policy. That practice is routine in parliamentary systems of government. It has the great advantage, insofar as foreign policy is concerned, of expounding and justifying policy in public debate, and in its initial stages; not, as has lately been the case under our system, of letting argument take the form of flogging dead horses.

Such able students of our form of government as Woodrow Wilson, William H. Taft and Charles Evans Hughes have advocated speaking rights for Cabinet members on the floors of the Senate and House. More recently Senator Kefauver has sponsored a plan to have Cabinet members appear for questioning by invitation. Only bickering, misunderstanding and unnecessary friction result from aloofness between the executive and legislative branches. The great problem of our time is not the separation of powers into water-tight compartments, but cooperation of executive leaders and the legislative representatives of the people to save our freedom and keep our complicated society operating smoothly.

State Debt

The Tax Foundation reports that the debts of the States reached a record peak of 4.1 billion in 1949 and are still rising. Although some of the postwar increase in State debt is due to construction of highways, hospitals, schools, and other public projects, much of this construction was financed by surpluses accumulated during the war years. The financing of cash bonuses to veterans is said to be "almost wholly responsible for the postwar upward trend in State gross debt." In 1947, for instance, debts incurred for bonuses accounted for 545 million dollars of all 1947 debt issues amounting to 688 million dollars. Debts incurred to finance construction of schools amounted to only 35 million dollars, and for hospitals and other institutions, less than five million dollars. In 1948 new bonus debt totaled 516 million dollars, school debt 31 million dollars, and debts for hospitals and institutions 52 million dollars. Detailed figures are lacking for 1949, but in the fiscal year 1950 (to the end of March) seven States had issued 593 million dollars of bonus bonds.

This postwar debt record is a shocking commentary on the irresponsibility of vote-seeking State legislators. They are willing to incur huge indebtedness on behalf of veterans for whom the Federal Government has already made generous provision, while there is crying need for more schools and welfare institutions that might have been constructed with borrowed funds without unduly burdening taxpayers, if borrowing for less essential purposes had been avoided.

Communist Diplomats

There should be no illusion about the reasons why Vladimir Houdek, the recently resigned Czechoslovakian delegate to the United Nations, has pleaded for asylum in this country. Dr. Houdek is a purebred Communist, or was until the water got hot for him at home. There is no sign that he has repented of the Communist affiliation he has held since 1944. His tardy denunciation of Russian pressure on the Prague regime came only after he had been summoned back for "consultations" during a purge of "bourgeois Communists." In all probability his plea, as former Czech Ambassador Juraj Slavik put it, is that of "an opportunist who is trying to save his own skin."

When all this is said, however, it does not follow that it would be in the American interest to deport Dr. Houdek. It should be this country's concern to encourage every such defection from the slavish satellite dependence on Moscow—even when, as in this case, the deviation appears to be one of tactics rather than doctrine. The Russian policy of transforming the satellites into economic colonies for despoilment means that there is plenty of potential for the spread of Titoism if it is properly nurtured. To provide haven for disillusioned officials who otherwise would meet almost certain doom is one way to encourage it.

As a Communist Dr. Houdek is technically inadmissible to the United States under immigration laws. But he is now in this country on a diplomatic visa, and presumably that visa will be good unless and until it is revoked. We hope that the State and Justice Departments, while keeping tab on Dr. Houdek's behavior, will not force the issue. As a coldly practical matter, the propaganda and policy value of the gesture in affording Dr. Houdek asylum far outweighs any harm he might do.

Byrd Committee

When Senator Humphrey launched his campaign some months ago to abolish the Byrd Committee, he met with sharp resistance in the Senate. That is not surprising, for the Byrd Committee stands in the public mind as a symbol of economy. People still remember its effective work some years ago in centering attention on extravagances and wasted effort in Government. Under the impact of the present demand for economy, there is natural reluctance on the part of Congress to take any step that might minimize the pressure upon Federal agencies to operate with a maximum of economy and efficiency. That accounts for the poor response to Senator Humphrey's efforts.

The fact remains, however, that the Byrd Committee duplicates the functions of the Committees on Expenditures in the Executive Departments. Created in the Seventy-seventh Congress, the Byrd Committee was instructed "to make a full and complete study and investigation of all expenditures of the Federal Government with a view to recommending the elimination or reduction of all such expenditures deemed by the committee to be nonessential." When Congress reorganized its own committee structure in 1946, it rejuvenated the Expenditures Committees in both the House and Senate and gave them the task of "studying the operation of Government activities at all levels with a view to determining its economy and efficiency." The Byrd Committee, representing both houses, was not disturbed.

Under sound principles of organization, one of the committees ought to give way and have its duties transferred to the other. In our opinion, it should be the Byrd Committee, in spite of the good work it has done in the past, because the funetion logically belongs to the Committees on Expenditures. Under the Reorganization Act, the Expenditures Committees have competent staffs. They receive reports on reckless executive practices from the Comptroller General. They handle legislation on executive and congressional reorganization. The Senate Expenditures Committee puts out a report on Government personnel which in some measure duplicates the reports of the Byrd Committee. It has become the investigative arm of the Senate. Common sense dictates that the investigation of extravagance and waste be centered in this group and its counterpart in the House.

We see no prospect, however, of Congress voting to abolish the Byrd Committee so long as the vote might be interpreted as an anti-economy move. Apparently the only effective remedy is for Senator Byrd to recognize the duplication and ask for the merger of his organization into the Committees on Expenditures.

Another Expert

The renowned Rev. Gerald L. K. Smith, director of something called the Christian Nationalist Crusade, appeared before a Senate Foreign Relations Subcommittee the other day and offered to identify a number of prominent citizens as "notorious Marxists and pro-Marxists." You understand the meaning of the term "Marxist" in this context, don't you? In the Christian Nationalist Crusader's vocabulary, "Marxist" is an epithet applied to persons who would sue successfully for slander if called Communists. The Foreign Relations Subcommittee rejected the Rev. Mr. Smith's offer in any case, declining to throw the cloak of its protection around his name-calling, however circumlocutory.

There was no stated reason for the subcommittee's refusal. It may have been because the witness was not qualified as an expert: he had no credentials whatever to show that he had ever served as a Soviet courier or even been a bona fide card-carrying member of the Communist Party. So it may have been that the subcommittee felt it could put no credence in an informer who lacked professional status and had performed only as an amateur. We are much more inclined to believe, however, that the subcommittee's attitude was attributable to the character of its chairman, Senator Elbert Thomas of Utah, a man steeped in American traditions of justice and fair play. He would be unlikely to have much sympathy for the idea of using the United States Senate as a sounding board for personal prejudices and recriminations. Perhaps the example he set in respect of the Rev. Mr. Smith would be a good one to follow in connection with all unsubstantiated name-calling by self-constituted informers. The FBI is the proper port of call for these people.

Foreign Power Seeking To Influence U.S. Policy

Letters To The Editor

Communications must be addressed to the editor and must carry the complete name and street address of the writer, though pen names will be permitted at the editor's discretion. Letters of less than 200 words will be given preference, and all letters are subject to condensation. No communication can be returned.

Romanian Envoys

In your editorial of May 27, "Monkey See, Monkey Do," you have neatly pointed out the absurdity of our latest act of reprisal against a satellite country, in this case Romania, but how can any measure taken with respect to our diplomatic relations with these "nations" be other than absurd when the very fact of having diplomatic relations with them at all is an absurdity?

It was, perhaps, a natural enough error to have fallen into originally, before the utter lack of independence of these countries had been so conclusively demonstrated, but now that all doubt on that point has been so long gone, why should this country keep up the farce of sending ambassadors to them or of allowing them to have diplomatic missions here?

It is beneath our national dignity, and in so doing we are only assisting to maintain a fiction that is in Russia's interest, not in ours. We demean ourselves by having anything above the rank of consular representation in those countries or by letting them have more than that in our country.

Pervert Investigation

Your issue of May 25 reports that "a $25,000 fund to investigate homosexuals and other perverts in Government service was recommended unanimously by the Senate Expenditures Committee.

No one can quarrel with an investigation wisely conducted, but recent public charges of subversive activity in Government with facile shift to charges of homosexuality when facts have been requested, have created an atmosphere of considerable confusion and misapprehension. There seems no reason to identify homosexuality with subversiveness or communism.

Not all girls take readily to the traditional pattern of femininity in our culture, nor do all boys take readily to the traditional pattern of masculinity. According to the Kinsey report, "37 percent of the total male population has at least some overt homosexual experience to the point of orgasm between adolescence and old age. This accounts for nearly 2 males out of every 5 that one may meet." Further "13 percent of the population has more of the homosexual that the heterosexual for at least three years between the ages of 16 and 55. This is one in eight of the white male population." In these terms the estimate that there are 5000 homosexuals in Washington and 3750 of them are on the Government payroll seem conspicuously modest to say the least.

It is not the direction of the sexual drive which determines its menace or lack of it, but how it is managed. The unrestrained heterosexuality of the rapist is certainly as menacing to the public safety as any homosexual behavior. Heterosexual seduction of children is about as objectionable as homosexual seduction. It is true that the heterosexual individual has a potentiality of finding through marriage a community sanction not available the homosexual, but not all heterosexual individuals are successful in marriage or even in marrying.

It is undoubtedly true that the homosexual individual is open to blackmail. It seems inescapable, however, that with the vast number of individuals of homosexual tendency, the present campaign, which may result in the discharge of a relatively small number of persons, will inevitably render substantially more subject to blackmail a much larger number of individuals less overtly involved in homosexuality, and typically more conflicted and worried about their own homosexual impulses, and thereby the more vulnerable to the blackmailer.

Realty Discrimination

Your May 28 news story announcing the formation of a group to combat Negro moves into white neighborhoods leads us to feel you might print this warning of an even greater danger.

Let everyone be warned of the additional menace that lamp-shade makers, Presbyterians, and subversive Supreme Court Justices are moving into our good neighborhoods at an alarming rate. We call it the creeping Presbyterian paralysis.

If we unite we can ferret out all these insidious threats like Presbyterians, State Department employes, Negroes who move, Presbyterians who move, labor unions, people from Buffalo.

We must return to the basic foundations of our American way of life such as mom's apple pie, "the only good Indian is a dead Indian," "Daddy Warbucks" and "Lips that touch liquor shall never touch mine."

British Films

Representatives of the American film industry are over in Britain begging for more dollars for British showings of their films. Since the British are able to earn only two-thirds of the dollars necessary for the purchase of essential food and raw materials in the United States, it follows that every dollar they spend on luxuries such as films must be added to the one-third that they borrow from the U. S. Treasury under the Marshall Plan.

The American film industry places itself in the position of a scheming mendicant when it asks the British to borrow the American taxpayer's money, in order to finance an American industry. When the British refused to do this, they were browbeaten into doing it by an anti-British pogrom charging them with "discrimination" and with having "excised" the American film industry! In that campaign, Hollywood displayed its ugliest moods and temper, and successfully obscured from the American people the fact that they were expected to pay the bill.

The British, under protest, gave Hollywood an agreement whereby 17 million dollars worth of British sterling earnings could be converted, payable in the United States. The United States Government not only acquiesced in this diversion of Marshall Plan funds, but the State Department actively pushed the deal ahead. Hollywood is also allowed an additional amount equal to whatever amount British films earn in the United States.

When representatives of the American film industry beg the British for more dollars, they should be told that they can get more dollars by simply observing the terms of the films agreement. That is, stop banning the showing of British films in the United States, and Hollywood will automatically receive more dollars. D. H. FERRIS.

"Korean Prospects"

Along with most Koreans who read The Washington Post, and many Americans who are informed on actual conditions in Korea, I have been surprised and puzzled, not to say annoyed and irked by the general tone of your editorials dealing with the problems of that unfortunate country, Your "Korean Prospects" of May 25 is typical.

After grudgingly admitting that significant progress has been made toward balancing the budget, reducing inflation, and increasing taxation, the rest of your editorial is largely made up of critical and skeptical statements which betray a lack of trust in and respect for a government which was set up by the United Nations with American aid and blessing, a government which in the face of tremendous odds is bravely and successfully maintaining its independence and democracy.

Whatever may be your personal opinion of President Rhee, the fact remains (abundantly proven at the polls and in the National Assembly) that he is the people's choice. Your statement that "The Rhee regime has engaged in violent political persecution, topped off with arrests, all in the name of anti-communism," gives an entirely erroneous impression. In spite of a definite, ever-present and potent Communist menace, President Rhee has been exceedingly patient and tolerant with the traitors and agents of Soviet Russia who have in various ways attempted to overthrow the government, and has insisted that due processes of law in open courts be maintained in all cases.

I do not agree with your statement that "The moral commitment to Korea is fast running out," if by that you mean that we have discharged all of our obligations toward the accomplishment of our purpose to make Korea a free and independent nation. We have sacrificed a tremendous amount of blood and treasure and have won freedom for only half of Korea. It seems to me that our own moral integrity demands that we do what is necessary and obvious to hold what we have gained in our struggles against imperialism. The struggle goes on even though the nationality and the ideology of the imperialistic enemy have changed.

Another misleading statement is "strategically, Korea is another Bataan." This would give the impression that we are contemplating the holding of Korea in the case of war by our military forces. Our Army was withdrawn two years ago when the Korean republic was established. All the Americans in Korea today could be evacuated in a few hours by planes and ships to Japan or Okinawa.

There is, therefore, no question of our being involved in a military way in Korea. However, the Koreans are brave fighters, and they could put an army of two or three million men in the field. All the training and equipment we can give them means that much strength added to our forces if and when the cold war gets hot. Guerillas could hold out indefinitely in the rugged mountains which make up a large amount of Korea's land area. South Korea could also be counted upon to overrun and hold North Korea to the Manchurian border.

'In a Jam' Behavior

By Malvina Lindsay

Why We Throw Rocks

SINCE WE can't all agree on a one-man scapegoat—not even though he be Secretary Acheson — to blame for today's widespread fear, frustration, jitters, we shall have to look for deeper causes.

Social scientists recently have been doing some probing in this field. Their studies throw light on how national character reacts to crisis. They give us clews to understanding such social phenomena as Goebbelsania (the lie repetition technique), being used so widely in political campaigns, the spread of McCarthyism, the new wave of bitter anti-intellectualism, the general rock throwing between groups and individuals.

To a degree all this is fundamental political behavior. People's tendency to vote their emotions, to get their information from headlines (especially the big hysterical ones), to rely on opinions of others, to indulge their mental laziness and shun fact finding and thinking — all these are inherent difficulties in self-government, as was brought out last week in seminars at the National Conference on Citizenship.

But political emotionalism is now intensified by world as well as national crisis. Not only have Americans lost the security distance once gave them, as Dr. Harold D. Lasswell, professor of law at Yale University and authority on propaganda techniques, recently pointed out in a lecture here, but there is universal realization that existing institutions are too feeble to govern mankind. People have a frightened sense of being without past moorings of either nation or planet.

TO MEET such crisis Americans need first of all to understand themselves. One helpful step in this line has been taken through the series of lectures on "Personality and Political Crisis," by outstanding social scientists, that the Washington School of Psychiatry has offered this spring as a public service.

How then does the American character express itself in a "jam"? For one thing, Americans do not react as do the Germans, who look about for a heavy father or "fuehrer." This was brought out by Dr. Ralph Linton, Sterling professor of anthropology at Yale University, in his recent lecture, "National Character and Political Crisis."

The dominance of the German father contributes to the fuehrer longing. But in this country, except for some areas in the Southeast, the family organization is not built around Pop. Americans are more likely to be in rebellion against him. So said Dr. Linton in effect in his lecture.

First to rise in the question period was a young woman who asked the question in everyone's mind, "What do Americans do in time of crisis in lieu of looking for a fuehrer?" "Throw rocks at the man in power," shot back Dr. Linton. But another reaction, he went on to explain, was based on the general belief in this country that any problem could be met by technology. "Is the dynamo then our pappy?" wondered many in the audience.

At a previous lecture, Dr. Lasswell pointed out that talk was one reaction to crisis, since people when anxious and insecure do a lot of talking. Since propaganda is talk, it flourishes at such times, especially as deliberate one-sided statements to mass audiences.

DR. LASSWELL gave grave warning of behavior patterns that a deepening political crisis might induce in this country. Propagandists, he predicted, would rely increasingly on anti-foreignism and on arousing suspicion of Americans about each other. "Nativistic" movements on the order of the Ku Klux Klan would likely spring up. The "lunatic fringe of incitement" would receive support from those in high places desirous of holding on to power. This turning of Americans against their brothers, he warned, could bring about profound transformation of American society.

But the citizen who understands these dangers is not entirely helpless before the mass neuroticism stirred up by the "lunatic fringe of incitement." Dr. Lasswell urged that every private association in the country appoint committees on national security and individual freedom to promote sane and calm discussion of these matters at local levels. And last week about 1300 delegates went home from the annual Citizenship Conference in Washington primed to rally their communities to bring more fact seeking, discussion and thought to today's dilemmas.

The few people concerned with these dangers — regarded by some as highbrows and do-gooders—may seem only a bucket brigade fighting a prairie fire. But similar small creative groups with large stockpiles of brains and faith have often determined the course of history.

Byrd Organization

In Drew Pearson's column of May 25 reference is made to the "Byrd Machine" as something sinister and dictatorial. The fact is, what he refers to as a "machine" is merely the Virginia State Democratic organization. Senator Byrd, as a leader in this organization, is a constant target of criticism by the left-wing groups because as a man of integrity and intense loyalty to his State, he refuses to be a "yes man" to the socialistic policies of the Fair Dealers. Direct Negotiations

By Marquis Childs

Churchill's Advice On Russia

TRYGVE LIE, secretary general of the United Nations, is said to be concerned over the prominence given to reports of what he may have brought from Moscow in the way of peace feelers. He is fearful that exaggerated accounts will raise the hope of peoples everywhere.

Childs

But the emphasis put on Lie's mission—a mission he prefers to consider routine—is a measure of the interest in finding some assurance that peace can ultimately be achieved. The American people will have an uneasy feeling of doubt compounded with guilt unless they are convinced that every avenue of possible peace has been explored.

Secretary Acheson and President Truman should be fully aware of this since so much of the burden rests on them. Whatever Lie has to report must be considered with the utmost seriousness as a possible basis for further and as yet untried steps.

One of these steps might well be another attempt at direct negotiations with Moscow. Acheson has in the past resisted such a move, one reason being a fear that if the negotiations failed then war would certainly appear to most Americans to be inevitable and the sooner the better. Another apprehension is that any approach from the west would be taken by the Russians as mere appeasement.

NOW, however, may be the moment to re-examine the whole issue of direct negotiation to try to settle the outstanding sources of conflict between the two powers. Winston Churchill, who can hardly be considered pro-Communist or an appeaser in the light of his record as the greatest living defender of the values of Western civilization, has ever since the end of the war urged an attempt to resolve the main causes of the dispute by direct, across-the-table talk. In an article in the current Bulletin of the Atomic Scientists stating the case for negotiation, Prof. Hans Morgenthau of the University of Chicago assembles a number of these statements.

Here is Churchill on June 5, 1946, in the House of Commons: "It is better to have a world united than a world divided. But it is also better to have a world divided than a world destroyed. Nor does it follow that even in a world divided there should not be equilibrium from which a further advance to unity might be attempted as the years pass by."

Here is Churchill in the House in 1948: "I will only venture now to say that there seems to me to be a very real danger in going on drifting too long. I believe that the best chance of preventing a war is to bring matters to a head and to come to a settlement with the Soviet government before it is too late . . . We may be absolutely sure that the present situation cannot last. There are very grave dangers—that is all I am going to say today—in letting everything run on and pile up until something happens, and it passes, all of a sudden out of your control."

And again in December of 1948: "Finally I wish to say one word—and it shall only be a very brief one—about the greatest topic of all which overhangs our minds—our relations with Soviet Russia. I frequently have advised that we should endeavor to reach a settlement with Russia on fundamental outstanding questions before they have the Atomic bomb as well as the Americans. I believe that in this resides the best hope of avoiding a third world war."

IN HIS famous Edinburgh speech in the election campaign Churchill repeated this plea and the Laborites had the gall in the face of the record to say this was merely a bid for office. And again a few days ago he made it still once again.

The opportunity of the American atomic monopoly has passed. Almost a year ago to the day Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson was speaking before the War College about the "few short years" that remained for the American monopoly of the atomic bomb. It proved to be a few short weeks until President Truman's announcement of September 23 that the Russians had set off an atomic explosion.

But perhaps the last opportunity has not passed. At an ever accelerated rate things, in Winston Churchill's phrase, have been running on and piling up. In ever new areas—the Middle East, Indo-China—new commitments of American strength are being made. Yet at the same time that these commitments are being extended around the globe, there is evidence of a growing reluctance here at home to provide the resources essential for such commitments.

Last February Senator Brien McMahon of Connecticut made his memorable speech proposing a plan for atomic peace. He said then that if anyone brought forward something better, he would be happy to support it. In the meantime nothing has been advanced comparable to that proposal to carry a great peace offensive—a far-reaching constructive proposal for peace—to all peoples, including the Russians and their satellites. It is of the utmost urgency that such a step be taken now; now before time does at last run out.

Newspapers Laud Post's Security Survey Proposal

Additional comments on the editorial, "The Road Back to America," published in The Washington Post of May 22, continue to be received. Comments printed today include excerpts from editorials in three newspapers serving different communities, as well as those from individuals. Typical comments follow:

Ben Moreell, president Jones & Laughlin Steel Corporation: "Inquiry into all phases of our national security by a commission of leading citizens would serve to make authoritative and reliable information available to our citizens. This is a condition precedent to intelligent decision by each of us as to effectiveness of our national policies, foreign and domestic.

"I would hope that such a commission, if appointed, would be given broad powers of inquiry into all phases of our national life; in particular, I would hope that such an inquiry would include the effect of profligate government beneficence on the morale, strength and stamina of our people."

George Roberts of Winthrop, Stimson, Putnam and Roberts: "I thought the editorial . . . 'The Road Back to America' was splendid summary of the situation. I notice that the President has said that he would not appoint any such committee as is advocated in the editorial. Under the circumstances, I hope The Post will keep agitating for the types of legislation mentioned toward the end of the editorial. Among other things, the editorial said: 'For instance, there should be public registration of all fund-raising organizations to expose the financing of subversion.'

"You may be interested that this general subject was considered in 1946 by the Committee on the Bill of Rights of the Association of the Bar of the City of New York, of which I was then chairman. The report of that committee contained the following:

"'Your committee considered the problem created by the dissemination of subversive literature and other propaganda advocating anti-American doctrines such as religious and race prejudice. Such propaganda is often anonymous or signed by an euphoniously named organization, the financial support of which is unknown. Your committee is opposed to any legislation which attempts to censor or prohibit free expression of opinion on these subjects, but it feels that the cause of true freedom of speech would be aided by giving to the public information as far as possible as to who was responsible for any such literature . . . Consequently your committee recommended to the association the passage of the following resolutions:

"'Resolved that the association . . . is in favor of legislation by Congress requiring adequate disclosure of the originators, officers, financial records and other pertinent facts of organizations engaged in the public dissemination by the press, radio, or printed materials of ideas which are intended to influence public opinion;

"'Provided that such legislation expressly reaffirms the constitutional guarantees of freedom of speech and of the press and expressly preserves the present civil remedies and criminal laws regarding libel and slander.'

"These resolutions were passed by the association at the stated meeting on April 9, 1946, and a special committee has been appointed each year thereafter to further the passage of such legislation . . .

"I hope you will continue to urge the passage of such legislation . . ."

Elmer E. Robinson, Mayor of San Francisco: "The problems discussed in your outstanding editorial 'The Road Back to America' reach to the very root of the most pressing problem facing our country today. I consider your approach to the subject most factual and clear-cut and I believe that the criticisms you have advanced will be accepted by most of our people as in great part fully justified within our constitutional limitations. I believe the Congress should provide without delay such enabling legislation as would be necessary to accomplish clarity of purpose in our security structure and to bring order out of chaos with the elimination of uncertainties, mistrust and conflict which apparently exist now.

"Above all you should be congratulated for the sobering influence of the editorial. I believe that it discusses with intelligence, candor and moderation a question which is foremost in the minds of every citizen of the United States."

Meyer Kestnbaum, president, Hart, Schaffner & Marx: "Your May 22 editorial 'The Road Back to America' impresses me as being manifestly objective, intelligent and constructive. Am fully in accord with sugestion that a commission on national security composed of citizens of known integrity would do much to clear the atmosphere and restore confidence."

Excerpts from three newspaper editorials follow:

St. Louis Post-Dispatch: "Under the heading 'The Road Back to America' The Washington Post—one of the most vigilant and constructive of American newspapers—has presented its readers with an analysis and proposal concerning the 'evil atmosphere' which has descended on this country. 'For weeks', says the Washington newspaper, the National Capital 'has been seized and convulsed by a terror.'

"The Washington Post's proposal to get the country back on the right road is for the appointment of a 'commission on national security.' This commission, which would lift the issues above partisan politics, 'would elevate the current debate' and 'catalyze the decencies of America.'

"The Post-Dispatch is glad to call attention to The Washington Post's editorial. As many of our readers will remember, the Post-Dispatch proposed the appointment of just such a national commission nearly a year ago . . . We applaud The Washington Post for its efforts to bring about the appointment of a national commission and herewith renew our own appeal to the President to meet this grave need."

The Dayton (Ohio) Daily News: "The Washington Post . . . makes a proposal for dispelling the menacing mental fog now enveloping Washington and creeping upon the country outside. The matter begins with the irresponsibility of Congressmen. If an ordinary citizen libels another citizen he can be called to account in the courts. If he can't prove his charges he can be penalized and his victim vindicated. Not so with a Congressman.

". . . For years past, as The Post points out, certain members of Congress have employed this immunity to discredit persons whom they had a wish to destroy. . . . For three months past we have witnessed a systematic effort by members of the Senate to make political capital by a reckless wholesale showering of unproved charges against helpless citizens.

"This, as The Post points out, has produced a reign of terror in Washington. No man, in the Government or out, however patriotic and efficient, can know at what moment for some private or political purposes a member of Congress may charge him with horrible depravity. This reign of terror . . . is weakening the influence of the Government abroad and paralyzing its conduct at home . . ."

The Commercial Appeal, Memphis, Tenn.: ". . . The first peril is witch hunting, a hysteria-bred practice which can destroy the very things we want most to preserve. The second is the operation of subversive elements seeking to destroy the very guarantees they hide behind.

"As The Post writer sensibly points out, the witch hunt within itself destroys American liberties as surely as could any brand of foreign totalitarianism . . . Thus, those things most dear to us are caught in a pincers movement between two vicious forces; blind and hysterical fear on one flank and propagation of sinister ideologies on the other.

"Properly enough, The Post recommends a nonpartisan and nonpolitical commission to sift out truth from chaff in a cascade of confusion. Such a commission could perform a valuable service to the country, and spare us from some of this senseless name calling and charge hurling . . ."

Matter Of Fact

By Stewart Alsop

Behind Locked Doors: II

NO ONE paid much attention to an announcement which emanated recently from Moscow, to the effect that the five-year plan for the dispersion of Soviet industry is four fifths completed. Russian five-year plans are very old stuff by now. But this particular announcement was not without interest. For the Soviet dispersion plan is primarily intended sharply to reduce Soviet vulnerability to atomic attack.

But this fact together with another fact—that whether or not war is probable, war is certainly possible. A rather obvious question then springs to mind. What is the United States doing to reduce American vulnerability to atomic attack?

After all, the Soviets do have the atom bomb, and the means of delivering nuclear weapons to American targets. Therefore the answer to the question above should be of interest, perhaps especially to the inhabitants of the 11 "unsafe" cities, considered prime targets for atomic attack — Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington, Detroit, Cleveland, Pittsburgh, Chicago, St. Louis and Los Angeles.

The answer to the question appears to be very simple—"Nothing."

An important civil-defense plan was, to be sure, filed with the Atomic Energy Commission about a year ago, but the AEC has refused to release it. Rather lethargic hearings have been held before the Joint Committee on Atomic Energy. The National Security Resources Board, which is being brought back from the dead by its new chief, Stuart Symington, has promised plans in the future. Yet the word "nothing" accurately describes what has actually been done to reduce American vulnerability to an atomic strike.

ALL THE experts who have really studied the problem of civil defense in an atomic war have reached the same conclusion (with which the Soviet experts apparently agree). This is that dispersion of population and industries, so that no one bomb can have a decisively crippling effect, is the only real answer to atomic bombardment.

It is true that very deep shelters might be useful. It is interesting, for example, that a number of Japanese were in an ordinary concrete shelter almost directly below the explosion point of the Hiroshima bomb. These Japanese survived, while others, unprotected, died a mile or more from the center of the blast.

Yet shelters would be at best a palliative. As for other conventional civil defense measures—fire watchers, first-aid stations, and the rest—these would be, in the words of one expert, "like trying to cure cancer with an aspirin tablet." Moreover, only dispersion will afford any protection to American industry, which means to the American war potential.

Yet all estimates of the cost of any serious dispersion program are astronomical. To transform every American city into the civil defense expert's ideal—the dispersed "strip city"—would mean changing the whole face of America, and this is of course silly. A less ambitious program, designed to subsidize and encourage the already existing tendency toward decentralization of industry, has been put forward by some of the experts. This would gradually but effectively decrease American vulnerability over a period of years.

YET ONE reason why no such program is now being seriously considered can be found in a single sentence in a recent article by Dr. Ralph Lapp, nuclear physicist and civil defense expert: "Any real civil defense program will require an organization comparable in authority and in annual budget appropriations to the national military establishment." In other words, a real program would cost around 14 billion dollars a year. Another reason may be found in this question: "Is Senator Brien McMahon of Connecticut going to sponsor a program to encourage the aircraft industry to leave Hartford?"

It is for such reasons that the authorities concerned have apparently abandoned the idea of any serious civil defense program, as economically and politically impractical. But such decisions, which may most intimately affect the lives of a great many people, simply cannot be taken behind locked doors. The whole question of civil defense should be debated as a great national issue, rather than shrouded in secrecy and shoved under the rug.

Some officials are certainly worried about public hysteria if the real facts are brought out. But this is nonsense. European civilian populations have lived for years under the shadow of sudden enemy attack. Although it is a new experience for them, Americans are presumably capable of living under the same shadow. The shadow will only really begin to hang heavy, moreover, if the Western world is allowed to grow so weak that the Soviets will conclude that they can win a war if they start one. And it is darkness, not light (however harsh the light), which leads to unreasoning fear.

The Gallup Poll

Nearly 6 Out of 10 Fear U. S. Will Be at War Within 5 Years

By George Gallup

Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

Princeton, N. J., May 30.—Fear of war continues to be a dominant factor in American thinking on world problems and that fear has increased in recent months.

Nearly 6 out of every 10 persons questioned in a coast-to-coast survey believe the United States will find itself in another war within so short a time as five years. The number who feel this way is substantially greater than it was in March.

One voter in every five believes we are on the brink of such a conflict right now—that it will come within the next year.

In measuring the amount of war fear today the American Institute of Public Opinion had interviewers throughout the Nation put this two-part question to a representative cross-section of voters:

"Do you think the United States will find itself in another war within, say, the next year? (If "No") How about within the next five years?"

The following tables show the vote, first on war in five years, then on war in one year:

War in Five Years?
Yes	57%
No	24
No opinion	19
	100%

War in One Year?
Yes	22%
No.	70
No opinion	8
	100%

A similar survey in March found 41 percent thinking war would come in five years and a survey one year ago this month found only 15 percent expecting war during the year ahead.

The public has taken the view that if a war comes, Russia will be the one responsible for starting it.

Whereas only 9 percent of persons who have had college training see a war ahead in the next year, more than three times that number, or 30 percent, of voters with grade school training only envision another war within a year.

War in five years is seen by more than 6 out of every 10 in the grade school education group, as compared with only 45 percent in the college group. Here is the vote:

War in Five Years	College	High Sch'l	Grade Sch'l
Yes	45%	56%	62%
No	36	24	20
No opinion	19	20	18
	100%	100%	100%
War in One Year
Yes	9%	17%	30%
No	85	75	60
No opinion	6	8	10
	100%	100%	100%

Fear of another war began to develop almost immediately after the end of World War II in 1945. Just before the war ended (March 1945), 38 percent of all voters questioned saw the livelihood of another war within the next 25 years. But by March, 1946, the proportion believing war likely in the next generation increased sharply, to 69 percent. That was even before the "cold war" began in earnest.

Activities Awards Given Midshipmen

Annapolis, Md., May 30 (AP).—The Navy's busiest Midshipmer were the stars of June Week today.

Athletes and Middies who spent their spare time in one of several of the Naval Academy's 43 extracurricular activities received their awards at a brigade formation in Thompson Stadium this afternoon.

Tonight they danced with their best girls.

A mere third classman, Frederic C. Davis of Lincoln, Neb., marched off the stadium turf with the weightiest collection of athletic awards. In his first year of varsity competition, Davis won letters in football, basketball and track. He was the only three-letterman of the year.

For all four years at the Academy, James P. Oberholtzer of Indianapolis, Ind., had more emblems and certificates to frame than any other first classman. Oberholtzer was one of 15 in the graduating class to receive an N blanket for winning at least three major-sport letters.

Oberholtzer's four in track and four in cross-country exceeded by one the football and baseball letters won by Midshipman William F. Hawkins of Richmond, Va., and football and lacrosse monograms earned by Midshipman Philip J. Ryan of Goodhue, Minn.

Some Middies were rewarded for Diverse Talents. First Classman Wayne Smith of Fort Dodge, Ia., received a letter and an emblem for being a wrestler and a choir leader. He was Eastern intercollegiate 136-pound mat champion last season.

Capt. Howard Caldwell, director of athletics, and Capt. Robert B. Pirie, commandant of Midshipmen, handed out the awards, 272 for athletics and 257 for extracurricular activities.

While the stadium formation was the official Memorial Day climax, hearts and flowers were served in the evening.

Athletes and their "drags" gathered in Hubbard Hall for the annual N Dance. Extracurricular award winners and their dates took over MacDonough Hall for the E Dance.

Earlier in the day Vice Admiral Harry W. Hill greeted scores of parents at a forum to discuss the Academy's program of academics and multitude of other activities. Department heads explained how their courses were arranged and later escorted parents through classrooms and laboratories.

June Week visitors witnessed a demonstration of trick shooting on Farragut Field before attending an academy band concert.

While upper classmen danced at night, humble plebes had to be content with a movie. They ascend in station Thursday, when everyone may attend the Farewell Ball.

Death Certificate Is Withheld in Mrs. Hooks' Death

Coroner A. Magruder MacDonald said yesterday that he is withholding issuing a death certificate for Mrs. Alice L. Hooks, 50, of 1601 Argonne pl. nw., who died early yesterday at George Washington Hospital.

According to Detective Sergt. Lionel Coutre, Mrs. Hooks, the wife of Lloyd C. Hooks of the same address, became ill May 22. Found near her body were several bottles of sedative tablets prescribed by a physician.

Hungary Releases Bishop From Prison

Budapest, Hungary, May 30 (U.P.).—The Rev. Lajos Ordaff, former Bishop of the Hungarian Lutheran Church, has been released from prison, it was announced tonight.

Bishop Ordaff was sentenced September 28, 1948, to serve two years on the charge that he "neglected intentionally to report foreign currency assets to the Hungarian National Bank." The Hungarian Lutheran Church removed him from office last month and asked the government to exercise clemency.

Montgomery Recreation Plans For Summer Are Made Public

Plans for the annual summer recreation program sponsored by the Maryland-National Capital Park and Planning Commission for Montgomery County were made public yesterday by Blair H. Smith, director of recreation.

Nine new centers are planned for this year when the program opens officially June 26 at 9 a. m. The centers will be open from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. each week day and on Saturdays where attendance warrants. The season will end August 27.

New centers where programs are planned for the first time are:

Homewood, on a part of the 20-acre tract east of Kensington.

Pleasant View, a 4-acre tract in College View.

Wheaton, on Claridge rd., adjacent to Wheaton Hills, formerly the Warner Pumphrey estate.

Kensington Elementary School.

Lynnbrook, a 5-acre tract in northeast Bethesda.

In addition, programs will be held at these old sites: Bethesda-Chevy Chase Recreation Center, Ayrlawn, Woodacres, Glen Echo-Cabin John, Rock Creek, Garrett Park, Kensington, Capitol View, Jesup Blair, Pinecrest, North Four Corners, Colesville, Hillandale recreation centers and at Montgomery Blair High, East Silver Spring, Silver Spring Intermediate, Parkside, Woodlin, Woodside and Fairland Schools.

Programs also will be continued at the Takoma-Ritchie, Norbeck, Scotland, Smithville, Ken-Gar, Linden and River Road Negro Schools.

Approximately 5000 children participated in the program last summer and it is expected at least 7000 will take part this year. All school children in the suburban area, including those eligible for school next fall, may participate in the program.

The program will provide enough variety to offer attraction to almost any child. Smaller children may participate in ring games, art craft, story hour, dramatics and croquet. Older children will be offered instruction and play periods in tennis, softball, badminton, baseball, paddle tennis, volley ball, archery, ping pong, track and field, and swimming.

Teen-agers also may participate in art craft and woodwork activities. Equipment will be furnished and a specialist will supervise each phase.

Leagues will be operated for children between the ages of 10 and 18 and tournament competition will be held in golf, ping pong, archery, horse shoe, badminton, volley ball, and a track and field meet will climax the nine-week program.

Children from each center will be transported to Glen Echo or Takoma Park swimming pools once weekly for swimming lessons and supervised swimming.

Boy, 5, Falls 12 Feet Off Stadium Bleachers

The excitement of watching a double-header between two out-of-town teams at Griffith Stadium yesterday apparently proved too much for 5-year-old Joseph Banks of 1727 A st. se.

The youngster dropped 12 feet from bleachers back of the first-base line, police said. He was treated at Freedman's Hospital for bruises of the forehead and nose.

POTOMAC ELECTRIC POWER COMPANY
$20,000,000
First Mortgage Bonds, 3¼% Series due 1966

NOTICE OF REDEMPTION

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that, pursuant to the provisions of the Mortgage and Deed of Trust dated July 1, 1936, as amended and supplemented, between Potomac Electric Power Company, a corporation organized and existing under the laws of the United States of America relating to the District of Columbia and a domestic corporation of the Commonwealth of Virginia (the "Company"), and The Riggs National Bank of Washington, D. C., as Trustee (the "Trustee"), the Company has elected to redeem, and hereby calls for redemption, on July 1, 1950 (the "redemption date"), all of its outstanding First Mortgage Bonds, 3¼% Series due 1966 (the "Bonds").

Accordingly, on the redemption date there will become and be due and payable upon each of the Bonds, at the office of the Trustee in the city of Washington, D. C., or at the option of the holder, at the office of Bankers Trust Company in the Borough of Manhattan, The City of New York, the redemption price payable with respect to such Bond as provided in the Supplemental Indenture, dated July 1, 1936, which provided for the issue of the Bonds, viz., 102¾% of the principal amount thereof, together with accrued interest to the redemption date, and from and after the redemption date interest on the Bonds will cease to accrue.

The Bonds will become due and payable upon the redemption date at said redemption price, and payment of said redemption price will be made to the respective bearers of the Bonds, or, if any of the Bonds be registered Bonds without coupons or coupon Bonds registered as to principal, to the respective registered owners thereof, upon surrender of such Bonds, either at the office of the Trustee, 1503 Pennsylvania Avenue, N. W., Washington, D. C., or at the office of Bankers Trust Company, 16 Wall Street, New York, N. Y., together with all unmatured coupons appertaining thereto and accompanied by duly executed instruments of transfer in the case of registered Bonds without coupons and coupon Bonds registered as to principal.

The Company has deposited with the Trustee, subject to the provisions of Section 9 of Article VIII of said Mortgage and Deed of Trust, an amount of cash sufficient to effect the redemption of the Bonds; and from and after the redemption date, notwithstanding that any Bonds shall not have been surrendered for cancellation, no further interest shall accrue upon the principal of any of the Bonds and all coupons for interest thereon maturing subsequent to the redemption date will be void. Coupons which have matured on or before the redemption date will remain payable to bearer upon presentation and surrender thereof in accordance with their terms.

By Order of the Board of Directors:

A. G. NEAL,
Chairman of the Board of Directors and President.

Dated: May 17, 1950.

NOTICE OF PREPAYMENT

Payment of the full redemption price will be made at any time after the date hereof upon due surrender of the Bonds at either said office of the Trustee or said office of Bankers Trust Company.

One on the Aisle—

Quality Is Ford's; Story an Incident

By Richard L. Coe

THE MARK OF QUALITY is on "Wagonmaster," which brought full holiday houses yesterday to Keith's.

The particular quality is the director's—John Ford's. It has often been said that the movies are a director's medium, but all too often any number of things obscure the man in the chair. Be it the front office, the story or the casting, the director's individual mark is frequently obscured.

But in photographing once more the wide West which brought acclaim for his "Stagecoach," Ford again gives us the quality of his talent. Watching this film is eye-pleasure from start to finish. One feels that the director so loves and appreciates his Utah setting that he is almost reluctant to take leave of the slightest incident he is describing. One becomes aware of beauties which might be ignored by less discerning eyes. Distances, for instance, invariably capture Ford's eye, and the people who perform their daily adventures do so as passing figures in an ageless setting.

And while the story Frank Nugent and the director's son, Patrick Ford, have spun for "Wagonmaster" is more credible than most such, the very incidental quality of the adventure plays straight into the director's eye quality. These things have happened and these people of the last century, now long gone, are but microscopic in the panorama of time. The great valleys stand beneath the skies which have lighted them from time immemorial or in the darkness which has shrouded them since the dawn of earth.

That a director and his cameramen (Bert Glennon and Archie Stout) have been able to convey this feeling is the mark of Ford's quality, an elusive thing and more in "Wagonmaster" than in his recent story-heavy "Ford Apache" and "She Wore a Yellow Ribbon."

The story concerns a Mormon group joined for the trail West by a medicine show. A wounded outlaw leader and his sons join them at guns' points, and a sheriff's help would mean death. Blazing guns bring the incident to a close and the Mormons settle down to their peaceful hymn-singing in the valley.

The case is ably routed to its proper sphere for such a purposeful background. Music by the Sons of the Pioneers is first-rate. The light and shadows which play across their faces make them real, yet, at the same time, mere figures in the unyielding beauty of nature.

"WAGONMASTER." RKO Radio-Argosy release produced by John Ford and Merian C. Cooper. Screen play by Frank Nugent and Patrick Ford. Photographed by Bert Glennon and Archie Stout. Music by Richard Hageman. Directed by Ford. At RKO-Keith's.

THE CAST

Travis ..... Ben Johnson
Denver ..... Joanne Dru
Sandy ..... Harry Carey, Jr.
Elder Wiggs ..... Ward Bond
And with Charles Kemper, Fred Libby, Alan Mowbray, Mickey Simpson, Hank Worden, Jane Darwell, Ruth Clifford, Francis Ford, Russell Simpson, Kathleen O'Malley, Jim Thorpe, Cliff Lyons, James Arness and Don Summers.

LAST CENTURY CIGARETTE: Joanne Dru is a pioneer girl of Utah in Keith's "Wagonmaster," but it doesn't keep her from enjoying a cigarette in John Ford's latest Western RALEIGH, N. C., is jam-packed today with the tobacco country's gathering in honor of "Bright Leaf," a Warner picture adapted from Foster Fitz-Simmons' novel . . . Dancer Fitz has long been a backbone of Paul Green's "The Lost Colony" and on the staff of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill; it's nice to know that in a ruthless world a dancer and university professor can sell a tale to the flicks . . . Patricia Neal and Donald Crisp are Raleigh guests of Gov. W. Kerr Scott and bring greetings from their associates in the cast: Gary Cooper, Lauren Bacall and Jack Carson.

TIMES SQUARE tonight gets its first Arena Theater, a belated but promising bow of the style increasingly popular across the land. . . . Lee Tracy is the star for George Kelly's "The Show Off," with Jane Seymore, an Olney favorite, featured . . . Prices for the 500 seats in the Hotel Edison's former ballroom are scaled from $1.80 to $3.60 (matinees $3); runs will probably be three weeks each . . . Next bill will find Basil Rathbone playing Cassius in "Julius Caesar" . . . Coproducers are David Heilwell and Derrick Lynn-Thomas, seen here last summer at the Meridian Hill in "Design for Living." Good luck to a grand idea.

LILLIAN GISH is the latest star to be booked for the Olney, playing a pre-Broadway tryout of R. C. Sherriff's "Miss Mabel" the week of July 18. This comedy-drama by the author of "Journey's End" has served Dame Sibyl Thorndyke as a London hit and Miss Gish is scheduled to do it in Gotham in the fall.

THE ITALIAN Ambassador and Signora Tarchiani will attend "Il Trovatore" tonight at the Plaza . . . The Rome Opera film from Verdi's melodic score has set new records for the new Plaza . . . Much more iffy on the ambassadorial calendar is a trip the Tarchianis long to make this summer to the West of John Ford's "Wagonmaster." . . . This spring the Tarchiani daughters discovered the canyons and plateaus, and if official business will let them get away, the popular couple will be sending postals from Utah themselves.

THE BARTER THEATER has set Monday, June 12, as its opening at the Abingdon home base . . . Again this summer, another company will regularly visit Luray and a third will tour throughout Virginia, North Carolina, Kentucky and Tennessee.

THEATER LOBBY, a new group, will make its bow tomorrow night with private showings of three one-act plays . . . Because its home in the courtyard of 2118 Massachusetts avenue is limited, you'd better call Mrs. Peter G. Frank at Hobart 8361 for further information about reservations . . . Tonight's plays, which will run through Saturday evening, include: Tennessee Williams' "The Property Is Condemned," Noel Coward's "The Astonished Heart" and George Kelly's "The Weak Spot." . . . Skip Awalt, Mary-Averett Seelye and Mary Goldwater are the Theater Lobby chieftains.

Prisoners Give Jailer Cigars on Retirement

Long Beach, Calif., May 30. (AP). Jailer Milo B. Taylor, a veteran of more than 20 years on the police force, retired today.

Was there rejoicing among the prisoners? There was not.

The trustees, who earn meager sums doing odd jobs, bought him a box of cigars. They also chipped in on chicken and dumplings for a testimonial dinner.

Harris Saves Nats in Opener, 4-3; A's Win 2d, 5-1

This Morning

With Shirley Povich

THAT THERE are different approaches to the same problem was demonstrated this past week by the Chicago White Sox and the St. Louis Browns. They were both beset by a common trouble—the inability to win enough ball games. So——

The White Sox fired their manager, the Browns fired their psychologist.

POVICH

At Chicago, it was an old technique. Unloading the manager has been a standard device of losing outfits as far back as the Civil War when Abe Lincoln sacked McClellan. The Browns, though, have come up with an original gimmick.

They are the first team to release a psychologist, probably because they were the only club that ever had one under contract. And in their discharge of Dr. David F. Tracy, the Browns probably slammed shut the door of what perhaps had been giving promise as a new field for the mind-over-matter profession.

The fact that the Browns had won only 8 of their first 31 ball games and were even then imbedded in a seven-game losing streak, sort of indicated that Dr. Tracy wasn't working much magic with the club. However, the good doctor had not made any really extravagant promises beyond his claims that he would take the pressure off the team and make them a relaxed ball club.

YOU MIGHT almost say that the good doctor has made good in a sense. There is no pressure on the Browns in the sense that they are feeling any strain of maintaining a lofty position in the race. They don't have that harried look of pennant contenders.

It will go down as an interesting, if floperoo, experiment. There threatened to be a rush on psychologists if Dr. Tracy could as much as raise the Browns to the dizzy level of seventh place in view of what the DeWitt brothers gave him to work with. Pending any such success, however, the league's other ball clubs were content to do the best they could with the unpsychoanalyzed .300 hitters they happened to own, and some strong pitching arms.

One of the good doctor's prescriptions to the Browns was that they permit themselves to think without pressure in important situations. He didn't want them angry at their own shortcomings, he said. "Anger cuts off thinking," he reminded them. But there is evidence that too much thinking isn't good for the batting average, either.

YOGI BERRA will always be the shining example of the ball player who goes to the plate with a singleness of purpose—hitting the ball. It was Berra who was rebuked one day by Manager Bucky Harris, after swinging at a bad third strike.

"Figure out what that pitcher is going to throw. Do some thinking up there," Harris told Berra coldly. The next moment Harris wasn't mad at him, because Yogi was saying:

"How'm I gonna hit and think at the same time?"

The ball player without any mental hazards is, of course, the ideal hitter. Too much imagination can be a curse, it is agreed. Moe Berg, probably the most intelectual man who ever played big league ball, a graduate of Princeton, the Sorbonne in Paris—his thesis on Sanskrit is still a valuable reference work in the Congressional Library—was talking about hitters one day.

"Too much education leads to too much imagination, and that's not good for a hitter," said Berg, who had a lifetime average of about .240. "The hitter I always admired was Dave Harris, whose schooling stopped somewhere along about the seventh grade and who was my roommate on the Washington Club."

WITHOUT BENEFIT of having his psyches analyzed, Harris was, indeed, one of the good hitters of baseball. He rapped the ball at about a .340 rate, but unfortunately his fielding average was about the same. Berg was saying, "Now there was a fellow who had the pitchers licked.

"He'd go up there simply knowing that he was a good hitter, and waiting for the pitcher to try to throw one past him. Never wondered what the pitcher was going to throw, and so no pitcher was going to outguess him. Dave just took that wonderful cut and hit the ball wherever it was pitched.

"He used to rib me about my own batting average and say I was too smart to be a good hitter. Maybe he was right. I was always trying to outguess the pitcher. Dave hit a home run once, and I was up next. When I started for the plate, he says: 'Go ahead up there Moe, but remember, when you get in that batter's box none of them seven languages you know ain't gonna do you no good.'"

Scarborough, Robinson Traded to White Sox

Yanks Drub Bosox Twice, 11-7 and 5-3

New York, May 30 (AP).—The League Leading New York Yankees knocked Boston Ace Mel Parnell out of the box in the first inning of a double-header and went on to give the Red Sox a double drubbing, 11-7 and 5-3, before 73,728 here today.

The Yankees' twin victories increased their lead over the second place Detroit Tigers to three games.

Tommy Byrne who required relief help from Joe Page in the eighth inning, was the winner in the opener. Only homer was a two-run blast by Vern Stephens in the fifth, his tenth.

Joe Collins' home run highlighted a two-run rally in the eighth inning to win the second game for the champions.

Collins played first base, after

Cass Michaels, Kuzava Come To Nats In Deal

at that position in the minors caused the change of heart.

Both Scarborough and Robinson were having off-seasons with the Nats this spring. Scarborough's record showed only three victories against five defeats, and also a factor in the Nats' decision to trade him is his thirty-second birthday, upcoming in July. Kuzava was 27 last week.

Robinson, the Nats' leading hitter last season with his .294 average and his 18 home runs, has been the victim of a batting slum that followed a siege of illness just before the season opened. Going into yesterday's games, he had been hitting only .212 with only one homer to his credit.

Robinson had been rated the finest defensive first baseman in the league despite his bulk. He is 29, but a war-time operation on his ankle while he was in the Navy left him with only 80 percent use of his right leg. His slowness on the bases was regarded as a burden by Harris.

In making the deal, Griffith admitted he was taking a high gamble in an effort to "give Washington a first-division ball club. I think now that we have the makings. Michaels means more power in our infield, and its the youngest infield in the league—Eddie Yost only 24, Sam Dente 27, Michaels 24, and Noren 25. It ought to take us up there."

Corriden, Harris Talk

Negotiations with the Chicago club which had lapsed since last winter's unsuccessful talks, were resumed, significantly, after Red Corriden replaced Jack Onslow as the Sox manager a few days ago. Corriden was formerly one of Harris' lieutenants with the Yankees.

"When Harris asked me to talk trade with the White Sox, I asked him what he had in mind, and he wrote six names on a piece of paper," said Griffith. "That's the deal I mean," said Bucky. And we made it without changing a name."

Harris, an old second baseman himself, has long been an admirer of Michaels' talents, while expressing dissatisfaction with the double-play making of his own infield. The shuffle of Sam Dente to second base proved to be no solution.

He envisions the Dente-Michaels shortstop-second base combination as the perfect answer to his infield problems and is intrigued also by Michaels' hitting. The White Sox had their second baseman batting clean-up this year, following his .308 average in 1949.

When the White Sox were in Washington earlier in the month, Harris saw both Michaels and Ostrowski, righthanded hitters, wallop home runs into the permanent stands in left field, a sector none of his athletics has been able to reach this year.

The Nats' bosses are prepared to install Ostrowski in their outfield against lefthanded pitching.

Philadelphia, May 30.—Bob Hooper's rating as a major leaguer went up considerably today as he pitched and batted the Athletics to a 5-1 second-game victory over the Nats after Washington had pocketed the opener, 4-3.

In addition to hurling a neat 7-hitter for his fourth victory, the freshman righthander from Buffalo batted in two runs with a home run.

While Hooper won the plaudits of the 9557 Memorial Day celebrants in the nightcap, Mickey Harris and Sam Mele, two of the Nats' refugees from the Red Sox, were the boys in the opener.

The Nats' somewhat sensational relief pitcher came in just in time to choke off a serious ninth inning A's rally and preserve the victory that Mele's three-run home run had provided.

When Harris entered the picture in the ninth, the Athletics had already narrowed their deficit down to one run and had runners on first and second base with only one out. Harris took care of the situation neatly: He picked the potential tying run off second and induced Elmer Valo to pop up for the game-ending out.

Weik Goes Wild

Dick Weik started the first game for the Nats and despite the fact that he was pitching no-hit ball, he was yanked in the third inning. Manager Bucky Harris could no longer tolerate Weik's wildness and when Weik issued his eighth ,walk to force in a run out he came.

Joe Haynes relieved, and after yielding a run in the fourth inning, he settled down to some pretty magnificent pitching until the ninth, when he got into some real trouble.

Trailing 4-2, the Macks loaded the bases on him on a single by Joost, a walk to Dillinger and Lehner's bunt, on which Haynes tried to force Dillinger at third, but failed. Chapman flied to Mele to score Dillinger and make it 4-3 and Haynes was excused at that stage in favor of Mickey Harris, who had been warming up for two innings.

Harris pitched three straight

Personality Sketches

What Nats Gave Up And What They Got

Personality sketches of the six players who figured in the trade yesterday between the Nats and the Chicago White Sox:

RAY SCARBOROUGH—Famed as the pitcher who knocked the Red Sox out of pennants with year-end victories in 1948-49. Property of the Nats since graduating from Wake Forest College in 1939. Had three years of war service as Naval lieutenant. Led the Nats' pitchers with 15 wins in 1948, 13 in 1949. Has lifetime record of 50 wins, 53 defeats, mostly with a second-division club. Noted chiefly for his rugged curve ball and his success against Ted Williams. Pitched the Nats' only two shutouts this year—against Boston and the White Sox.

EDDIE ROBINSON—The man for whom the Nats traded Mickey Vernon to Cleveland in the winter of 1948-49. Topped the Nats in hitting last season with 18 homers and a .294 average. No. 1 choice as the American League first baseman in the 1949 All-Star game. Bought by Cleveland from Baltimore in 1942. Has lifetime batting average of .269 but is esteemed as the best defensive first baseman in the league.

AL KOZAR—Obtained by the Nats from the Red Sox before the start of the 1948 season in a straight swap for Outfielder Stan Spence. Was teammate of Sam Dente on Scranton, Pa., club in 1947, and was voted all-star Southern League second baseman after hitting .339 in 1947. Batted .250 for the Nats in '48, and .269 last season. Has hit five home runs in his two seasons with the Nats. Signed by the Red Sox in 1942 when he was 19.

CASS MICHAELS—Broke in with the White Sox as a second baseman in 1943 without any previous seasoning in the minors. Then was known as Casimir Kwienetski before legally changing his name. Spent part of the 1944 season with Little Rock, was recalled and has been regular Sox second baseman ever since. Beat out Bobby Doerr, Gerry Priddy and Joe Gordon for American League All-Star last season. Led the league's second basemen in assists and double plays in 1949. Was 24 last March 24. Five feet eleven, weighs 175, hits right handed. Blond.

BOB KUZAVA—Robert Leroy Kuzava, blond, left-handed, six-two and 204 pounds, was voted the best left hander in the International League after winning 14 games in Baltimore in 1948. Bought by Cleveland and traded to Chicago for Frank Papish in December, 1948. Owns fast curve ball and is strikeout artist but developed control last season when he was top Chicago pitcher with 10 wins against six losses. Led Eastern League in strikeouts in 1946.

JOHN OSTROWSKI—Bought by the White Sox from Los Angeles last season. Hit more home runs, 32, in the Coast League than did Irv Noren, while playing 60 fewer games. Alternated at third base and the outfield, and batted .318 in the Coast League. Hit .266 for the White Sox in 49 games last season. Is five feet 11, weighing 170, and a Chicagoan by birth. Right-handed hitter and thrower, 29 years old.

At Leaving Nats

Scarborough Almost in Tears

Philadelphia, May 30—Eddie Robinson, Ray Scarborough and Al Kozar knew nothing about the Nats-White Sox trade until after the second game of the doubleheader here today, and even then Manager Bucky Harris was reluctant to break the news to the trio.

Eddie Eynon, road secretary of the Nats, at the behest of Harris, wrote an announcement of the six-player trade and handed it to Harris to give the players.

Almost in tears, Scarborough said:

"This is the saddest day of my baseball career. Except when I'm pitching against the Washington team, I'll refer to this club as 'us' because that's the way I want to remember it. I hate leaving Bucky Harris. He's done more for me in baseball than anyone. I broke in under him, and now, as baseball would have it, I'm leaving under him. Good luck."

Unlike Scarborough, who had known but one major league team in his career, Robinson didn't appear as broken up as Scarborough.

"That's baseball, I guess," the big first baseman said. SIEGEL

W-L Retains U. S. Crew Title

Princeton, N. J., May 30 (AP).—Washington-Lee High School of Arlington, Va., had to come from behind to retain its championship eight-oared title in the National Schoolboy Rowing finals on Princeton's Lake Carnegie today.

The Virginians trailed Ecorse, Mich., High School with 50 yards of the one-mile course left to go. Then they flashed out in front and led by a third of a length at the finish.

The winning time was 5:05.3, just 1.3 seconds better than the Ecorse shell.

St. Catherine's Institute, St. Catherine's, Canada, was third with a 5:10.6 effort.

John Guest, jr., championship single sculls representative of Etobicoke Institute, Toronto, set the only meet record of the day. His 6:04.5 time shaved more than 40 seconds off the old mark established by Norman Moffat of Upper Canada College in 1936.

The Hun School, Princeton, N. J., nosed out the Haverford, Pa., School by a quarter length in the championship four-oared race. Hun's time was 5:43.9, eight-tenths of a second faster than Haverford.

Tom and George Leech, brother team from Roxborough High School, Philadelphia, ran away

About the Celebrities . . . .

THIS LETTER is published because of the beautiful sentiment it expresses. The person who wrote it asked that his name not be used.

Georgetown University Hospital,
May 27, 1950.

Dear Bus:

I've been here in the hospital since we stopped in Washington on April 24 to see Ray Scarborough stop the Boston Red Sox that night. The next day I was supposed to drive home to New York but landed here with an assorted bunch of things that baffled even the MD's.

But I guess they'll turn me loose about Wednesday and then I have to stick around another 10 days or so to get back some strength and legs. So I guess I'll be able to get out to the National Celebrities tournament on both days as your "special guest."

I am inclosing my check in the amount of $114.40 which will cover payment of 20 tickets at $5 each to the big Bob Hope show at the Armory Saturday night, and four season tickets for ourselves to the golf tournament.

I am a great believer in paying for charity tickets whether a contestant, guest or anything else. So if you will send these tickets to me, I want to give some of the Hope show tickets to people around the hospital.

I am surely glad that your tournament has come along so nicely and that a lot of my old buddies are to play and I will see them. For a while there I didn't think I was going to get the chance again.

I've been keeping company for a couple of days with Arch McDonald but he leaves today so I've got to look at myself for another couple of days—until I get out to the tournament and all those wonderful people in it."

PATTY BERG, who just won the Women's Eastern Open championship, will be a busy young lady when she comes to these parts for the Celebrities. She will be in Baltimore Thursday at Clifton Park, appears at Baltimore's Five Farms Club Friday, rushes over here for a personal appearance that night on Jim Gibbons television show.

She's in the Celebrities Saturday and Sunday, gets a day of rest Monday, holds clinics at the Manor club (afternoon) and East Potomac Park (night) June 6, and gives an exhibition with clinic at Prince Georges June 7, morning.

To keep the record straight: The Army-Navy Country Club, where the Celebrities tournament will be held, is entirely supported by club members, the same as any other private golf club in Washington. Not a cent of Government money goes into service layout.

Last year William J. (Bill) Bailey, 2500 Q st. nw., took a party of friends ($56 worth) to the Celebrities. Today he was back to purchase tickets to this year's affair. He said:

"I don't have to tell you, or any of the hundreds who were present at last year's Arthur Godfrey Homecoming performance at the Armory, that it was, in the language of show business, "terrific and colossal." I didn't think it would be possible to improve on it. But come 1950 and you're going to have on the same bill—Bob Hope—Danny Kaye—Arthur Godfrey—Gordon MacRae—Frank Sinatra."

Kuzava, Michaels Have Big Day

St. Louis, May 30 (AP).—Pitcher Bob Kuzava and Second Baseman Cass Michaels, traded today to the Washington Nats, played starring roles in farewell appearances as the Chicago White Sox beate the St. Louis Browns twice here today.

In the first game of a doubleheader, Lefthander Kuzava pitched eight-hit ball to beat the Brownies, 14-2. He would have had a shutout but for Don Lenhardt's two-run homer in the eighth inning.

Michaels slammed out a home run with two mates aboard in the nightcap as the White Sox took a 12-9 victory.

Snider Raps 3 Home Runs In Row in 2d

Brooklyn, May 30 (AP).—With Duke Snider hitting three successive homers, Brooklyn added a 6-4 afternoon win over Philadelphia to a 7-6 morning victory in 10 innings. The double win helped the Dodgers regain first place by a 1½ game margin over the Phils.

In the first game, homers by Jackie Robinson and Ray Campanella nullified roundtrippers by the Phils' Dick Sisler, Mike Goliat, and Richie Ashburn.

Holland Second

Rain Cuts Event to 345 Miles; Mark of 124 M.P.H. Set

Indianapolis, May 30 (AP).—A deluge that lasted no longer than 60 seconds today ended the scheduled 500-mile automobile race at 345 miles with Johnny Parsons, Van Nuys, Calif., a record-breaking winner.

The handsome 31-year-old Parsons, 1949 racing champion of the American Automobile Association, led most of the way despite gallant bids by Mauri Rose, South Bend, Ind., a previous triple winner of the Memorial Day Race, and Bill Holland, Reading, Pa., 1949 winner.

Behind Parsons, the order of finish was so close that hours of checking records shook up the standings from second down through eighth place.

Tony Bettenhausen of Tinley Park, Ill., relief man for Joie Chitwood, had been given second place unofficially, but a recheck deprived him of one lap, dropping him to fifth and moving Holland into second.

The recheck gave Rose third place.

With the throttle of his little four-cylinder racer pushed down to the floorboard, Parsons established a record speed average of 124.002 miles an hour for the 345 miles.

Records were strewn in Parsons' wake from the 50-mile mark on to the sudden finish. At 50 miles he averaged 124.941, and at the 100-mile mark he was speeding at 124.997 to blot out Wilbur Shaw's record performance of 123.441 in 1939.

He eclipsed Shaw's record at 150 miles, for which Parson's average speed was 125.579. At 200 miles, Parsons was hitting 126.319 which also erased Shaw's record of 123.381 made in his 1939 triumph. The rainstorm that broke suddenly from one black cloud ended the race in confusion.

Twenty-three of the original 33-car starting field still were running when the race ended. There were no serious accidents, although three drivers were involved in minor spins.

Chester Ricker, chief timer for the AAA, announced that official placings and times of all finishing cars could not be figured out until tomorrow.

Pittsburgh, May 30 (AP).—Three home runs in the last two innings gave the St. Louis Cardinals an 8-5 victory over the hapless Pittsburgh Pirates in the nightcap today and a sweep of their holiday double-header that put them in second place.

The Cards took the free-scoring opener, 17-13. The Pirates have now lost eight in a row.

Hill Prince Beaten by Loser Weeper, My Request at Belmont

Bill Bennings . . .

Dear Folks: At Delaware

Except for the absence of a daily double, this non-profit track offers just about every racing convenience and 'up to the minute, too. It's difficult to put in a knock but I just can't help it. The price of programs has been upped to 15 cents—a dime cheaper than the outlay for them at the Maryland trots at that. I believe a dime is enough. It certainly doesn't cost any more than 10 cents to print and distribute them. In fact I believe tracks should give away programs. After all they are the key to the betting and wagering is the most important part of the show regardless of the better-the-breed bunk. Charging for a program, in my book, is like paying for a look at the dice in a craps game. BILL.

Virginia Colt Bleeds After Tiring at End

By John Chandler

New York, May 30 (AP).—Loser Weeper high-balled down the Belmont Park stretch today to beat My Request by a neck in the $59,500 Suburban Handicap. The favored Hill Prince, tackling older horses for the first time, was third, bleeding slightly from the nostrils at the finish.

The victory of Loser Weeper was one of the sweetest triumphs for his owner, Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, who won the coveted mile and one-quarter test for the first time.

A bulging Memorial Day crowd of 51,864 turned out in sunny, humid weather to watch the struggle between the heir-presumptive to the 3-year-old throne of 1950, and his older handicap rivals. They saw one of the tightest finishes in the long history of the event, first run in 1884.

Loser Weeper didn't pull away until the last 30 yards for his neck margin. Hill Prince was 3½ lengths back of My Request, and the same margin ahead of the fourth horse, Double Brandy. Going Away was fifth, Donor sixth, and Flying Missel last.

The winner returned $22.70, $8.70 and $4.10, and put another $41.400 into Vanderbilt's bankroll. It was his fourth victory in 11 starts this year, including wins in the Dixie and Valley Forge Handicaps.

with the championship double sculls in the time of 6:18.7. St. Catherine's came in second, several lengths behind.

Oarsmen from Philadelphia area high schools dominated the junior-under-18 events, winning three of the four races. Lower Merion High School, Ardmore, Pa., captured the junior eight-oared crown, beating out Washington-Lee by more than a length. The winners were clocked in 5:14.7.

The junior single sculls title went to Preston James of Germantown, Pa., who won easily in 6:13.7. John Carbutt and Walter Reichert from Central High, Philadelphia, nipped the Ecorse team by half a length in the junior double sculls. Their time was 6:14.7.

Belleville, N. J., High School had little trouble winning the junior four-oared crown, in 5:53.6.

Bugledrums Wins by Nose At Delaware

By Walter Haight
Post Reporter

Delaware Park, May 30.—Bugledrums rolled through the stretch to be the big Memorial Day noise as 22,000 customers—two trainloads from Washington—watched. The brown colt, closing with a bold rush, was up in the concluding jump to win the $10,000 added Christiana Stakes.

Bugledrums carried the silks of the Texan, Sam E. Wilson, jr., and had only scattered backing as he hung a nose defeat on Jack J. Amiel's Count Turf. Third money went to Maine Chance Farm's Win or Lose, with Mrs. Tilyou Christopher's Liberty Rab fourth.

The winner was clocked in 1:00 1-5, best time for the stake at the current distance of five furlongs. Those who invested in the Chance Sun-Hildrum colt collected at the rate of $17.50 for the usual deuce.

Mrs. F. Ambrose Clark's Tea-Maker, a 7-year-old who has done a variety of racing including a turn over the jumps, proved best of the lot in the fourth race, the Bellevue and the day's secondary feature. With popular Joe Culmone aboard, Tea-Maker had 12 pounds the better of Justin Funkhouser's Noble Impulse and disposed of the favorite who set most of the early pace.

Tea-Maker, however, had to be used in the late stretch to stave off the closing bid of Mrs. W. W. Vaughan's Lucky Ned who shoved Noble Impulse back into third position.

The winner returned $8.60 and was clocked in 1:13 2-5 for the six-furlong trip. It was Tea-Maker's first outing of the year. In fact it was the 1950 debut for three others, only Lucky Ned having been postward before this season.

2 No-Hitters In Metro Play

Two no-hitters highlighted the second round of the Metropolitan Washington high school baseball tournament yesterday. Will Jacobs of Mount Vernon shut out Falls Church without a hit, 1-0, at Mount Vernon, and Chief Hodge of Washington-Lee did the same to St. Anthony's, 18-0, in Arlington.

W-L won a third-round game, too, as Pitcher Stan Monroe fanned 18 in 7 innings, nosing out Gaithersburg, 5-4. It was Gaithersburg's second loss in 16 games.

Heinbeck Scores Ace at Potomac

J. M. Heinbuck made a hole-in-one at East Potomac yesterday on the 184-yard par 3 fourth hole on the B course. Heinbuck used a 3 iron for his ace. His foursome included John Fox, Joe Wheeler and Frank Morgan.

Tee Gibraski, club manager, announced that qualifying rounds for the J. R. Tomlin Memorial Trophy can be played any time between June 1-7.

BETHESDA: Pro Harry Griesmer shot even par 70 in a flag tournament in which members tried to equal the pro's record with the aid of handicaps. Clair Lacey, Joe GiaMatteo, George Winkler and Al Decker tied for first.

Alex Abernathy won the hole-in-one contest with a tee shot 2 feet, six inches from the cup. Wayne McGee was second four feet from the hole.

KENWOOD: The two-man team 36-hole medal tournament was won by E. R. Ferguson, 155-18—137, and L. E. Imhoff, 149-8—141, with 278. G. K. Leburn and J. E. McElvain with 279 were second and J. P. Trouchaud and Moore Gates, 281, third.

PRINCE GEORGES: The flag tournament was won by Van Senseman who finished in the cup of the twentieth hole. Tom Black and Clint Harmon tied for second, eight feet from the cup in the nineteenth hole. Bob Bowie was fourth, 10 feet from the nineteenth hole.

Major Robert Ross won low gross in the medal play with a 72. George Voigt won the putting contest with 32, and Norman Brown won the pitching contest with a shot six inches from the cup. The driving contest ended in a tie between Buddy Smith and Tom Brown at 238 yards.

ARMY-NAVY: The flag tourney was won by L. M. Adams, who finished 20 feet from the pin on the 19th hole. C. M. Eisenhart was second, finishing just off the green of the 19th hole a few inches ahead of A. J. Evans, who placed third.

J. F. Hackler, 75-3-72, and M. M. Magee, 77-5-72, tied for first in the Gibbons Trophy. Fred W. Hallagan and A. C. Puryear tied for third with net 72's. Hackler won low gross with 75.

CHEVY CHASE: R. F. S. Whiteley and Frank Almirall with net 78's won the Victor Kaufmann Cup.

BELLE HAVEN: Frank Heyer and Mrs. Helen Olmi won the mixed Scotch foresome with a six below par 64 after their 18 handicap was subtracted from their gross 82. Mrs. Lois Saunders and Barry Foley with a net 65 were second, and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Tomlinson were third with a net 66. Delle Swink and Colonel Ben Schriever won the low gross with 77.

ARGYLE: Perry Miller, finishing 20 yards from the green on the twentieth hole, won the flag tournament. C. Turner, 3½ feet from the green on the nineteenth, was second. C. A. Thomason, five feet from the pin on the same hole, nosed out John Beckham, seven feet away. C. L. Mattern was fifth, 200 feet out on the nineteenth.

MANOR: Bill Herson, 185—52—133, and C. H. Colledge, 181—48—133, tied for first in the 36-hole sweepstakes. R. B. Wharton won the low gross.

R. A. Soderberg won the men's flag tournament, finishing on the fairway of the twentieth hole. The ladies' flag was won by Mrs. D. A. Leahy, who finished on the fairway of the eighteenth hole. The men's driving contest was taken by Jack Salten, who averaged 220 yards on three drives. Mrs. George Martin, with an average 140 yards, won the ladies' driving contest.

FORT DUPONT: Ray Mullin, 90—24—66, won low net in the 18-hole handicap medal tournament. Paul Nicholson and Sam Konochuck tied for low gross, carding 82s. Joe Haskins took second low net with 95—23—72. Ben Sisemore won the hole-in-one tournament with a tee shot 44 inches from the cup on the 135-yard, par 3, second hole.

COLUMBIA—E. C. Gatt, jr., and his son, E. D. C. Gatt 3d, won the 18-hole best-ball handicap "winner take all" tournament with 77—15—62.

INDIAN SPRING—Charles Andregg won the full handicap flag tournament, finishing 20 yards from the cup on the twentieth hole. R. H. O'Malley, 20 feet from the nineteenth hole, finished second.

WOODMONT—Herman Neugass, 71—7—64, won Class A competition in the George Fazio Trophy tournament. Dave Wortman, 69—3—66, was second. The Class B trophy was shared by Wilton Mendelsohn and Sylvan Blackman, who tied with net 66s. The Class C trophy was won by Stan Levine, 85—20—65. A. J. Rosenblatt was second with a net 66. Mel Ehrlich and Bernard Green, with net 65s, won the Class D. trophy.

WASHINGTON: Dr. A. N. Perry won the flag tournament, ending 12 inches from the twentieth cup. Club champion Jim Gardner was second, 7 feet 5 inches from the hole. Dr. W. A. Price, 17 feet from the same hole, finished third ahead of H. D. Kerfoot, 25 feet away.

CONGRESSIONAL: The mixed scotch foursome was won by Dr. W. J. Evans and Mrs. R. T. Sullivan with 92-25-69. Dr. and Mrs. C. F. Lynch and W. H. Wencel and Mrs. D. H. Henderson tied for low gross with 85 each.

The flag tournament was won by C. H. Tesky, whose ball ended in the cup of the nineteenth hole. L. B. Price was second, 8 inches from the cup on the nineteenth hole.

On the Town

By Georganne Williamson

SINGERS, dancers and comedians all have their own stories of how they started in the hard-working, insecure but exciting world of the spotlights. Each story has a different twist. But Washington-born Joe Minessa, making his professional debut this week at the Kavakos, has something in common with many of them.

Just 21, Joe's been working for years. He finished Jeferson and started lining up for paychecks at an early age. His last job was with the Bureau of Engraving, but his heart wasn't in it.

Meanwhile, his total musical training had consisted of three weeks of piano lessons at the age of 17. Then at a Y camp, he met Barbara Dirks, who played the piano, put on shows, and generally inspired the campers with her earlier experience in show busines.

A "sort of" club was formed, and the shows they put on gave Joe his first chance to try out his voice. After that, he sang a few times at union meetings and filled a one-night engagement at the Senate Inn.

It rested there until Joe parted with the Bureau of Engraving. A friend who had promoted his singing engagements with the ITU urged him to go into music as a career, and Bill Kavakos was called into the scene.

Kavakos' helpfulness is well known. He's going all out for young Joe Minessa, and Joe has an excellent deep voice to start with. He also has a refreshing, unspoiled personality. He and his pretty wife are very anxious to work hard at this new career.

The rest can be heard from a ringside table, or an easy chair before a TV set or radio.

District Woman Named B'nai B'rith Women's Head

Roanoke, Va., May 30 (AP).—Abe Schewel, Lynchburg, was elected president of District Grand Lodge 5 of B'nai B'rith as it closed its four-day seventy-fourth annual convention here today.

While the group from six States and Washington, D. C., was electing Schewel, the B'nai B'rith women of the same area selected Mrs. Harman Hertzberg of Washington, D. C., as its next president.

Among vice presidents elected were Mrs. I. H. Hammerman, Baltimore, and Mrs. A. Pic Wolf, Mount Rainier, Md.

IF YOU WANT A CLEAN SCALP—HANDSOME-LOOKING HAIR!
Remember, water is no hair tonic. But, on the other hand, don't plaster your hair down with greasy, sticky products which cover hair and scalp with a dirt-catching scum. Healthy-looking hair must have a cleaner scalp. So use Kreml! It's never been duplicated to keep hair perfectly in place—it makes hair look naturally well-groomed. It never looks or feels greasy.
And you'll like the invigorating "wake-up" tingle Kreml gives your scalp. It always keeps hair and scalp feeling SO CLEAN. Also excellent to lubricate a dry scalp and remove dandruff flakes.
SAVE MONEY! Buy the new full 4oz-size Kreml—it serves you many months.

BUICK EIGHT
FOR ONLY $1983.00† DELIVERED
†Optional equipment, state and local taxes, if any, additional. Prices may vary slightly in adjoining communities due to shipping charges. Prices subject to change without notice.

Here's where you come into your own.

For this roomy six-passenger Sedanet is the lowest-priced family-model Buick and the easiest to buy. But it has all the basic qualities that make every Buick a standout.

Unmistakable smartness, for instance, in its tapering fenders and money-saving Multi-Guard forefront.

A bonnet full of Fireball straight-eight power that spells thrills with real thrift.

Matchless Buick ride compounded of coil springs on all four wheels, ride-steadying torque-tube, low-pressure tires and Safety-Ride rims.

You can even have Dynaflow Drive* if you like—the first non-shifting transmission in which oil does it all.

*Standard on ROADMASTER, optional at extra cost on SUPER and SPECIAL models.

But here's the point:

It doesn't cost a cent—doesn't obligate you in any way—to check all this—to try this Buick out. All you have to do is ask—and your Buick dealer will sit you behind the wheel—let you put this traveler through its paces—show you precisely how little it will cost you to step up to a Buick.

You'll never know what you are missing until you try a Buick. Come in, won't you—right away?

Only Buick has Dynaflow and with it goes:
HIGHER-COMPRESSION Fireball valve-in-head power in three engines. (New F-263 engine in SUPER models.) • NEW-PATTERN STYLING, with MULTI-GUARD forefront, taper-through fenders, "double bubble" taillights • WIDE-ANGLE VISIBILITY, close-up road view both forward and back • TRAFFIC-HANDY SIZE, less over-all length for easier parking and garaging, short turning radius • EXTRA-WIDE SEATS cradled between the axles • SOFT BUICK RIDE, from all-coil springing, Safety-Ride rims, low-pressure tires, ride-steadying torque-tube • WIDE ARRAY OF MODELS with Body by Fisher.

Johnson Relaxes Order To 'Freeze' Personnel In Defense Dept. Office

Defense Secretary Louis Johnson has softened the personnel "freeze" in his office here.

After the House acted on the 1951 budget, he ordered his Defense offices to take a new look at their personnel to make sure there was a "profitable need" for every single employe. His order was ignored by a couple of units. The Secretary cracked down with a solid job freeze.

The entire personnel and budget outlook was discussed the other day by the Secretary at a staff conference. The give-and-take conference convinced the Secretary that his directions were being carried out, and he modified his flat freeze order to allow several of the offices to fill a few vacated jobs.

Incidentally, Defense isn't fighting that part of the Taber-Thomas rider to require a 2 percent personnel cut in all its offices, including Army, Navy, and Air Force.

The Defense agencies combined have a total civilian staff of more than 700,000. The proposed 2 percent cut would knock off about 15,000 jobs. Secretary Johnson is reported to have planned such a reduction within the next few months in any event. So, Taber-Thomas merely put in writing what was already in the works. In fact, the 1951 budget, as approved by the House Appropriations Committee, contemplates a further reduction of civilian employes in the Defense agencies.

On the other hand, Defense officials are alarmed over the House-approved Jensen rider, which would limit them to the filling of only 1 of every 10 vacated jobs.

If the Jensen rider becomes law, it will force the Defense agencies to abolish tens of thousands of additional civilian jobs. The agencies would be forced (1) to put more military people into civilian jobs, (2) to close Army and Navy production facilities and (3) to let out contracts to private concerns for the work. Both plans would cost the taxpayers far more than could be saved by firing civilian employes.

TOP 400: It's being done on the q.t., but at least two influential Senators are looking into the possibility of raising the legal limit on jobs that could be allocated in the three top classified grades. The two plans being considered are:

1. To raise from 400 to 600 the number of jobs that could be placed in the super-grades. The 200 would be divided as follows: 25 in GS-18 ($14,000); 50 in GS-17, ($12,200 to $13,000), and 125 in GS-16 ($11,200 to $12,000), or,

2. To fix the number of jobs in each of the three new grades each department and agency could have.

The present law limits the 400 jobs as follows: 25 in GS-18; 75 in GS-17, and 300 in GS-16.

Youths Accused Of 17 Savage 'Yoke' Robberies

Police Say Fighter, Two Pals Punched And Kicked Their Street Victims

Three youths, one of them a finalist in this year's Golden Gloves boxing tourney here, have committed 17 of the city's "most vicious" yoke robberies, police disclosed yesterday.

The young toughs two of whom are 16 and the other 17, are being held at the Receiving Home. So serious are the crimes that they will not be turned over to the custody of their parents until after Juvenile Court action, police said.

All the robberies took place this year, police said.

The victims were treated as "punching bags," reporters were told. The youths preyed on lone men, who were beaten about the face and sometimes kicked, police said. They would vie among themselves as to who should land the first blow and whether it would be a knockout punch, it was said.

More Victims Sought

Fifteen of the cases occurred in the Fourth Precinct and the other two in the fifth, but police are still seeking other victims.

The youths were identified by many of their victims in a police lineup yesterday morning. In other cases, the boys pointed out their victims and described their attacks.

Police estimate that $2000 was taken in the 17 robberies.

The fighters boasted, police said, of the effectiveness of their punches, and they were borne out by the victims' statements. Many of those robbed were knocked semiconscious with the first blow.

Method of Attack

Police said the toughs usually picked on men they believed to have been drinking, attacking them in lonely areas. There the youths would tap a victim on the shoulder, and as he turned, he was slugged in the face, according to police. When the man fell, he would be searched and his pockets ripped out. In one case, the trousers were ripped down to the knee.

Police Pvt. F. D. Hilliard of the Fourth Precinct was credited with breaking the cases, after another policeman reported seeing three youths running from the scene of the most recent crime, in the 1100 block of Robinson st. sw.

Musician Robbed

There, on Friday, Roland R. Faulkner, 31, of 917 G. st. se., a bass violinist on the SS Bear Mountain, was attacked and $6 and a wrist watch taken. Faulkner was subsequently treated at Providence Hospital for bruises on the chest, face and body.

One of the assailants seemed to answer the description of a boxer and Hilliard began tracking him down. Finally, he obtained the address of the 17-year-old, who was arrested, but at first admitted nothing.

The youth was questioned Saturday, Sunday and Monday afternoon, police said, and finally implicated his two friends and told where Faulkner's wrist watch was hidden.

Meanwhile, police had arrested the others in the trio and obtained confessions which in turn implicated the 17-year-old.

Man Charged With Hold-Up Of 3 Stores

Wilson E. Anderson, 19, a truck driver, of 218 Florida ave. nw., was held yesterday in $45,000 bond, accused of three holdups of High's Ice Cream Stores.

Anderson was arrested by Police Pvt. Clarence W. Knotts shortly before midnight Monday. Knotts, driving to the Third Precinct Station to report for duty, saw Anderson being chased by a civilian.

The policeman joined in the pursuit. He said Anderson threw away a pistol, and stopped when Knotts threatened to shoot.

According to police, Anderson was freed Monday under $1000 bond in Municipal Court on a housebreaking charge, pending grand jury action.

Police said Anderson has confessed to three High's store robberies. When arrested, police reported, he had just robbed Belonia Adams, 4525 Dix st. ne., clerk in the High's store at 6230 Georgia ave. nw. The loot was said to be $19.

Car Thefts By 6 Youths Put at 55

Six juvenile "joyriders" were held yesterday for stealing a total of 55 automobiles, and for breaking into a school.

The youths, all Washington-area high school students, have admitted stealing the autos since December for the "thrill" of it, police said.

Five of them were under arrest here Monday. The sixth was apprehended in Arlington yesterday.

The confessions, according to police, were boastful. They told how keys were stolen from garages and used in automobiles, which were driven until they ran out of gas. All of the cars have been recovered.

Police meanwhile recovered some of the goods stolen from the automobiles. Also found was a moving picture projector stolen from a public school.

The youths operated in pairs rather than as a gang. One of the pairs has been linked to the school burglary.

Conference Here To Urge Approval Of Atlantic Union

Atlantic Union Committee members from 25 states are expected in Washington today for beginning of a three-day conference on bringing about passage of the Atlantic union resolution in Congress.

The conference will be held at the Shoreham Hotel, and the program includes calls on Representatives and Senators, work sessions on publicity methods, political action and community mobilization.

Former Supreme Court Justice Owen J. Roberts is president of the committee. Speakers will include Senators Guy M. Gillette (D., Iowa) and Estes Kefauver (D., Tenn.) at a luncheon on Thursday, and Dr. Harold C. Urey, atomic physicist, and former Undersecretary of State Will Clayton, at the closing banquet Friday night.

Boy Injured by Truck Dies; Nine Hurt in Area Accidents

An Arlington boy died last night of injuries suffered Monday, and an 11-year-old Wildercroft, Md., child was critically injured when nine persons were hurt in accidents in the Washington area yesterday.

Five-year-old John Rodman of 707 Wayne st. N., Arlington, died last night in Arlington Hospital, of internal injuries sustained when he was struck by a truck near his home. His right arm was fractured also.

The Wildercroft child, Richard Rusk of 9300 Riverdale rd., was struck by an auto near his home shortly after noon, while riding a bicycle. He was taken to Leland Memorial Hospital, Riverdale, suffering a possible skull fracture, severe cuts of the face and head and a fractured left leg.

Police identified the driver of the car as Smith Hempstone, 64, of 412 Wilson lane, Bethesda. They quoted him as saying that young Rusk rode into the path of his car from a driveway. Charges had not been placed against Hempstone last night.

Girl Suffers Head Injuries

In the District, 8-year-old Betty Yeager of 618½ 6th st. sw., suffered head injuries at 1 p. m. when she was struck by a car at 6th and F sts sw. She was taken to Emergency Hospital.

Police charged the driver, Aleck A. Marshall, 23, of 941 L st. nw., with failure to pay full time and attention to driving. He will appear before the Corporation Counsel.

The child, police said, was running across the street when hit.

A first-secretary for the British Embassy suffered shock when her car struck a taxi, hopped over a curb and knocked down a tree at 6th st. and Massachussets ave. nw. about 11:25 a. m. The car, of British make, came to a stop in a parkway.

Treated At Scene

The British aide, Miss Cornelia J. Polak, 41, of 3051 Idaho ave. nw., was treated at the scene. Police said the cab driver was Seymour Fernbaum, 28, of 6328 North Capitol st.

No charges were lodged.

Two persons were injured at 4th st. and Independence ave. sw. yesterday afternoon in a two-car collision. Police said the drivers were Alfred D. Brashear, 35, of 2605 4th st. ne., and Dr. John M. Whitney, 40, of McLean, Va.

Mrs. Georgiana Whitney, 39, the doctor's wife, was treated at Emergency Hospital for possible rib fractures. Another passenger in the Whitney auto, Andrew Cosgrove, 57, of McLean, was treated for head injuries.

There were no charges. A hearing will be held before the Corporation Counsel.

Miss Betty Lou Rhodes, 20, of 3625 13th st. ne., suffered a possible brain concussion and bruises of the forehead about 2:50 p. m. when the car in which she was riding collided with a second auto at 16th and Newton sts. ne.

Miss Rhodes was detained at Casualty Hospital for observation. She was a passenger in a car driven by Lee W. Skidmore, 20, of 4205 Sheridan st., Hyattsville.

Skidmore and the second driver, Maurice J. Ead, 18, of 4416 3d st. nw., were charged with colliding and forfeited $10 collateral. Both are students.

Three Hurt in Virginia

In Virginia, three persons were injured shortly before noon when their car overturned on Route 1, a mile north of Stafford Courthouse, in Stafford County.

The injured, all taken to Mary Washington Hospital, Fredericksburg, are the Rev. A. N. Sayers, 56, of Lancaster, Pa., in good condition with a dislocated right shoulder and bruises, and his daughter and son-in-law, Ned Morris Cohen, 32, and Mrs. Dorothy Cohen, 28, of 1310 S. George Mason dr., Arlington, who were treated for minor cuts.

Mr. Sayers' wife, Dorothy, escaped injury.

Holiday Toll Soars To 474 Over Nation

National Safety Council's president, Ned H. Dearborn, called it a "massacre."

He urged motorists heading homeward to "drive as if your life depends on it—believe me, it does!"

A late tabulation last night showed that since 6 p.m. Friday, 299 have died in traffic accidents. Drownings claimed 70 lives, and 105 persons died in miscellaneous mishaps.

Last year's Memorial Day traffic toll was 253.

G.W.U. Will Present Degrees To 1451 Students Tonight

George Washington University will confer degrees on 1451 students at commencement exercises at 8 p. m. tonight in the University Yard, in the rear of 2029 G st. nw.

In event of rain, graduation ceremonies will be held in Constitution Hall, it was announced last night.

Dr. Cloyd Heck Marvin, university president, will deliver the commencement address.

In other year-end university events, Raymond Lowell Bancroft, news editor of the GWU Hatchet, was awarded the second Jess Frederick Essary prize in journalism during the school's annual award of honors Monday at Lisner Auditorium.

Bancroft, a graduate of Eastern High School, where he edited the Easterner, lives at 1711 E. Capitol st. The prize of $100, awarded at afternoon ceremonies honoring 30 other outstanding GWU students, was presented by Thomas L. Stokes, columnist, president of the Gridiron Club.

A recent initiate of Pi Delta Epsilon, national honorary journalism fraternity, Bancroft received the award established in 1948 in memory of the late J. Fred Essary, formerly chief of the Baltimore Sun Washington Bureau.

The prize was set up by Essary's widow, Mrs. William J. Murphy, in recognition of the student who has given promise of sound citizenship and ability in "forthright reporting" in student publications.

Other awards, distributed by Dr. Marvin, included:

Jerome Wagshal, political science major and son of Dr. Mae Wagshal, 3541 Hertford pl. nw., recipient of the $35 Joshua Evans 3d Memorial Award for the graduate who has demonstrated "signal ability in the social and political sciences and who has given promise of that ability in good citizenship among his fellows."

Mrs. Ruth Cooper Breslauer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Cooper, 1002 Mississippi ave. se., recipient of the John Bell Larner Award to the graduate of the Law School with the highest scholastic standing. Mrs. Breslauer, wife of Max C. Breslauer, is taxation editor of the 1949-50 Law Review.

Edwin Charles Wood, of 3060 30th st. ne., son of Charles L. Wood, 648 Lexington pl. ne., recipient of the John Ordronaux Award of $70 for the graduate of the School of Medicine with the highest scholastic standing.

Top Reached By Holiday Travel Here

Incoming, Outgoing Passenger Load Is Lighter Than 1949 On All Carriers

A moderately heavy exchange of holiday travelers in and out of Washington reached its homeward-bound peak last night to end a four-day holiday for many District workers.

Travel officials said this year's Memorial Day crowds fell far short of last year, when the holiday came on Monday.

Park Traffic Heavy

Park Police reported traffic along Mount Vernon blvd. and in the District's parks "was rather heavy, but not the kind you see in a holiday rush."

Airlines used few extra flights to return passengers who left town. An American Airline official said all long-haul flights were booked well in advance, while an Eastern Air Lines spokesman said their volume was "a little heavier than a normal travel day."

At Union Station

At Union Station, an official said five extra trains bearing inbound travelers were "balanced out" by five extra trains leaving the city. He estimated 1000 more passengers than usual passed through the terminal.

The number of passengers on Greyhound buses was smaller than a year ago, a spokesman reported. He estimated the loads were "about one and half times as large" as on a normal day. Half of the scheduled runs carried an extra section.

Bandits Rob Laurel Cafe, Bind Guard

Two men with guns tied up a restaurant watchman near Laurel, Md., early yesterday and escaped with $275.

Robert Lang of Savage told state police he was in the kitchen of the Outriders Diner, a mile north of here, when he felt a gun poked in his back.

"Don't turn around," he said he was told. Then, he said, the men taped his wrists and legs together, and put tape over his mouth and eyes.

Folk Festival Queen To Be Chosen Today

The Queen of the International Folk Festival will be chosen from among 11 princesses at a meeting of the Arlington Kiwanis Club at 12:30 p. m. today at 4770 Lee hgwy., Arlington.

Eddie Gallaher, WTOP "Magical Moondial" spinner, will twirl a gambling wheel of fortune to select the winner who will reign over the festival to be held at the Watergate on Sunday. Proceeds will be used by the sponsoring Arlington club to establish a permanent summer camp for the Arlington YMCA.

Man Badly Burned As Auto Backfires

Earl W. Haynes, 33, suffered severe burns on both legs yesterday when an automobile backfire ignited gasoline he was using to clean a carburetor.

Haynes, who lives at 10153 Sutherland rd., Silver Spring, was working at a gas station at 9611 Georgia ave., Silver Spring, when the accident occurred about 10 p. m. He was taken to Washington Sanitarium. His condition was listed as "fair."

Prayer for Peace Marks 82d Memorial Day; 5000 Hear Marshall at Arlington

By Benjamin Bradlee
Post Reporter

The American war dead were honored yesterday with prayers for peace, as the Nation observed its eighty-second Memorial Day.

Gen. George C. Marshall delivered the day's keynote speech at Arlington National Cemetery, urging the United States to keep faith with her war dead by supporting the United Nations.

After recalling a Memorial Day he spent on a battlefield in Tunisia in 1943, the former Secretary of State and wartime Chief of Staff told more than 5000 people gathered in the amphitheater and cemetery grounds:

"So long as there remains a conference table around which nations gather, the United States should be the first to attend and the last to retire."

The crowded day of mourning got under way at 9 a. m., when the Veterans of Foreign Wars cast an anchor-shaped wreath of poppies into the Potomac River off Hains Point, honoring the Navy dead of all wars.

'For Enduring Peace'

President Truman had set aside the day as a period "in which all our people may unite in prayer, each in accordance with his own religious faith, for divine aid in bringing an enduring peace to a troubled world."

The first of scores of wreaths was laid on the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier at 11 a. m., by Captain Adam J. Eisenhaur, USA., representing President Truman, who spent Memorial Day cruising on the yacht Williamsburg.

For the next hour and a half more than 50 veterans organizations and foreign representatives paid homage at the monument which has become the symbol of the debt the world owes to American soldiers.

No veteran's grave in the Washington area was undecorated when memorial services started at 1 p. m., in the Arlington National Cemetery amphitheater.

The music of the United States Marine Band was heard by thousands in the ampitheater itself, and by as many more in the cemetery grounds, as they walked slowly past the neat white rows of stone markers, for the grave of the individual each was specially honoring.

Many Emotions

Some sat on the green earth beside the tombstones, some walked nervously around the graves, some cried openly. Most just stared. An occasional child played unheeding around the grave of the father he had never seen.

A Nisei group decorated the graves of Fumitake Nagato and Saburo Tanamachi, the first two of 20 Japanese-Americans to be buried in Arlington.

Some of the stones were decorated with ornate wreaths. Each had at least a flag and a flower—Cervenka, Baker, Fedorchak, Freeman, Dreslinski, Aicholtz, Gifford . . .

The sun was baking hot during the amphitheater exercises, organized by the Grand Army of the Republic Memorial Day Corp., composed of the D. C. Departments of the GAR, the United Spanish War Veterans, the VFW, the American Legion, the Disabled American Veterans, and the Amvets.

At "Maine" Mast

The Women's Relief Corps Auxiliary of the GAR held ceremonies at the tomb of the Civil War's Unknown Soldier in Arlington at 10 a. m. At the same time, memorial services were held before grave 19156 for Allied officers and enlisted men of foreign armies. At 10:30, the Spanish War Veterans held services at the Spanish War Monument and at the "Maine" mast.

In Alexandria, memorial services started at noon in front of the VFW monument. At 2 p. m., the Alexandria Marine Corps League held services in front of the veterans' memorial at George Washington High School. At 3:15 veterans' units paraded from Washington and Oronoco sts. to the Alexandria National Cemetery for memorial services there.

In Seat Pleasant, American Legion and VFW groups paraded before memorial services at 2:30.

In Arlington, services were held at the American Legion Home, 3445 North Washington blvd., after an hour-long parade.

Brightwood Cemetery

The Brightwood Citizens' Association sponsored Memorial Day exercises at the Battle Ground National Cemetery in Brightwood at 3:30, honoring those men who were killed July 11 and 12, 1864, at Fort Stevens.

At the Watergate, the Fleet Reserve Association conducted memorial services, including the launching of a floral anchor honoring Navy and Marine dead, at 3:15 p. m. The United States Band gave a Memorial Day Concert at the Watergate at 8:30 p. m., under the direction of Captain Hugh Curry.

In Bethesda, Md., memorial services were held at the Gun Mount, Wisconsin ave., and Bradley blvd., at 8:30 a. m.

In Silver Spring, Md., memorial services were held in front of the Armory at 10:45 a. m.

A parade and memorial services were held in Rockville, Md., ending up at the town honor roll.

In Bladensburg, Md., Prince Georges County mourners honored the war dead at Peace Cross ceremonies at 2 p. m. In Capitol Heights, Md., memorial services were held at 11:15 a. m., followed by a veterans parade.

Moonlight Cruise Tonight

The Congressional Daughters Club is sponsoring a moonlight cruise on the SS. Bear Mountain for members of the press and radio tonight. The cruise will get under way at 8:30 p. m. from the dock at 7th and Maine ave. sw.

A Whole Weekend of Fun and Entertainment...

More than $60,000 for the kids...

All the proceeds from the tournament and show go to aid the Attorney General's campaign against juvenile delinquency. More than $60,000 has been raised by the three tournaments to date and this money has gone to such organizations as the Boys Club of Washington, The Metropolitan Police Boys Club, Salvation Army Summer Camps for Boys and Girls, and other youth groups. This money has purchased new equipment for club houses and made it possible for many youngsters to get away from the city's heat for a stay at camp.

Time Out for D. C. Socialites

By Marie McNair

THE party pattern for the week was broken by a quiet holiday yesterday for those who stayed in town, and there was little entertaining on the formal side.

About 175 friends of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Watson viewed the masses of rhododendron now in full bloom at the Watsons' annual garden party, and Senator and Mrs. Burnet Maybank were hosts at dinner last evening for Mrs. Maybank's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Elliott Huguer, jr. Mrs. Maybank will accompany them to Catonsville, Md., on Thursday for the graduation ceremonies at St. Timothy's. Mr. and Mrs. Huguer's daughter, Mary Randolph, is a member of the graduating class.

Mr. and Mrs. Huguer and their daughter will stop for another short stay with Senator and Mrs. Maybank before returning to Charleston.

Margery Clifford To Bow June 21

MR. AND MRS. CLARK CLIFFORD have sent out invitations for the debut of their daughter, Margery, with map enclosed for the way to their new home on the Rockville Pike. Just half a mile beyond the Bethesda Naval Hospital, the house is just opposite the "Little White Church."

Miss Clifford will be presented at a tea on June 21 from 4 to 6 p. m.

Brannan Practicing For Celebrities Game

SECRETARY OF AGRICULTURE CHARLES BRANNAN, asked what his plans were for the holiday, said he was going to spend the day practicing his golf strokes in preparation for the National Celebrities Golf Tournament on Saturday and Sunday at the Army-Navy Country Club. What he didn't say, but Mrs. Brannan did, was that it's the first time he's had a golf club in his hands since the tournament last year.

Butlers Take House In Claremont, Calif.

MR. AND MRS. HUGH BUTLER, who left Washington in the early spring, have taken a house in Claremont, Calif., until they find just the house they would like to own. Mrs. Butler, whose classes in public speaking were such a success in Washington, is now in Boston for the annual conference of the General Federation of Women's Clubs and to conduct her usual series of public speaking classes. En route to California, she will stop in Wyoming to be the principal speaker at the annual meeting of the Wyoming Federation of Women's Chubs in Gillette. Her subject will be "World Trade Bargains for Women Build Better Communities."

Peppers Return To Washington

SENATOR and Mrs. Claude Pepper are back in Washington following the Senator's unsuccessful campaign in the Florida primaries. When the campaign was over, the Peppers spent several days in Hot Springs, Ark., and last weekend were guests of Comdr. and Mrs. John P. Martin at their summer home at Rehoboth Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. Julian Berch announce the birth of a daughter, Bettina Eileen, on May 25 at George Washington University Hospital.

Mrs. Robert Whitney Imbrie, who went up for the annual meeting of the Near East Foundation in New York, has returned to her home in Washington.

Miss Peterson, Mr. Kingsbury Are Married

Foundry Methodist Church was the scene yesterday of the wedding of Miss Ann Brooke Peterson, daughter of Mrs. George Peterson of Washington and the late Dr. Peterson, to Robert Taylor Kingsbury 3d, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kingsbury, jr., of New Franklin, Mo.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Dr. William Sinclair Bowen, the bride wore a long, full trained gown of white marquisette, and carried a spray of white gardenias and stephanotis.

Mrs. Kingsbury was graduated from the National Cathedral School and Radcliffe College. Mr. Kingsbury was graduated from Central College, Fayette, Mo. He served in the South Pacific as a major in the Marine Corps. He now commands Marine Reserve Squadron VMF-321 at the Anacostia Naval Air Station.

Club Leaders Want 'Raging Epidemic of Americanism'

Boston, May 30 (U.P.).—A "raging epidemic of Americanism" is needed to lead the world to everlasting peace, the General Federation of Women's Clubs was told today.

Mrs. Hiram C. Houghton of Red Oak, Iowa, unopposed candidate for president of 10 million clubwomen, called the 2500 delegates to the Federation's fifty-ninth annual convention "modern Paul Reveres." She said it was "time to knock on the doors of the great people of our great Nation and awaken them to the dangers that surround us."

Today's "insidious" enemies are crying from the rooftops," she said as she urged America be built "stronger than ever before."

"Keep her militarily strong," Mrs. Houghton said. "Not a garrison state, nor overbuilding our defense, but power is the only thing that talks to Russia . . . We have tried appeasement and we have tried negotiation, but we need to get tough in order to hold our position in the world today.

"I believe we must make the United States financially solvent. Russia has constantly predicted depression in this capitalistic democracy.

"Our worst danger is that of excessive Government spending, which destroys individual incentive, which is the great American tradition and is primarily responsible for the greatness and flowering of our country.

"The American dream has been brought about by men and women who have dared to live on the frontiers of life. Our zest for living has died down. We have gone underground in our search for security.

"We have become 'securocrats.' We have substituted the phrase 'Let the Government do it' for the slogan 'Let George do it.'"

Francis P. Gaines, president of Washington and Lee University, said the basic quest of those who work for youth is the establishment of "character."

"I confess to little sympathy with any homelife or school program that seeks a detour around the disciplines, the hardships, even the severity from which great character is perfected," he said.

Mrs. J. L. Blair Buck of Washington, D. C., outgoing president, warned that the "cold war" is "steadily growing worse."

"The knowledge that Russia as well as the United States, has the atom bomb and the snorkel submarine and that both countries may soon develop the hydrogen bomb has sent a wave of fear over the peace loving countries of the world which is causing a strange hysteria," Mrs. Buck said.

Mary Haworth's Mail

Married Six Years, Man Wants Children But Wife Does Not; She Regards Them as Burden And Sees No Compensations for Procreating

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: My husband and I have reached a stalemate in our marriage. He wants a child and I do not. Something you said in a recent column, about life's being an obstacle race, struck a responsive chord in me. Life is certainly that, and I can't see how having a child is anything but adding more obstacles to one's life course.

Frank and I are still in our twenties and have been married six years. We both work and enjoy many outside activities and our marriage.

To me having a child means carrying a burden for life. I see all my friends who have children and it beats me what they find in compensation for the expense, worry and aggravation of rearing them. Is my attitude unnatural? Does marriage mean procreation? Why isn't it possible to have one without the other? I would appreciate an opinion from you. B. L.

Man's Attitude More Tenable

DEAR B. L.: If your husband wants a child and you do not, that is regrettable; and one wonders why you are just now getting around to open conflict on the pivotal question, after six years' marriage. Total disagreement on this subject indicates that the alliance is not well chosen, and that long range harmony isn't likely, regardless who wins this argument.

For right results, there should have been a meeting of minds on this score before marriage, and a reliable joint commitment made, either for or against children. And if one wanted children and the other disapproved, the idea of partnership should have been renounced. It isn't having children or not having them that improves a marriage. The vital factor is that husband and wife should be of one accord in respect to this potential.

If either you or Frank cautiously sidestepped an honest accounting prior to marriage, for fear of losing the other's favor, I should think the tricky maneuver left the expedient party without claim to "first consideration" now. But still that doesn't settle anything.

The most clarification I can offer is this: (1) On the surface, without probing the fitness of either of you to be parents, your husband's wish (per se) is more tenable than your disobliging attitude, according to marriage mores respected since the dawn of history by every amalgamation of peoples. (2) However, if your personal conditioning, both religious and social, gives you to feel that a wife is entitled to enact her preference in the matter—and isn't ethically obliged to let nature take its course in marriage—then as proof of moral conviction you should take full responsibility for your position, and not call for outside help in defending it.

Children Enhance Life's Quality

AS FOR your theory that children are a burden, I think most couples who have them find that interest and incentive are added to life when children arrive. Also it is safe to say that the majority of women who don't procreate in fertile years, either by choice or for lack of a mate, are haunted by a recurrent sense of irreparable loss when it is too late to repair this deficit in their experience.

Marriage means a great deal more than procreation, of course. In the average case, the married pair were companions for a substantial time before they were parents, and ordinarily the parents are together again a deux, years after their children are fledged and gone. So marriage means union for mutual help and consolation, and parenthood is simply a by-product of normal healthy happy union,—with parenthood neither sought for its own sake, nor rejected as undesirable.

Is your rejecting attitude unnatural? The word is "immature," I think. Your selfish timidity reflects arrested development, for which you are to be more pitied than censured. And my advice is to look more closely into the lives of your friends who have children, to get the pitch of their comfortable drift towards satisfactorily maturity.

M. H.

No Gift Horse This

Homemaking books—the kind that tell how to remove spots and stains, clean house, eradicate insects, refinish furniture, and all sorts of other useful information—make a wonderful gift for the newlywed.

Some of the good ones now on sale in Washington are:

"Women's Home Companion Household Book," edited by Henry Humphrey, (P. F. Collier & Son)

"How to Keep House," by Mary Davis Gillies, (Harper and Bros.)

"America's Housekeeping Book," compiled by New York Herald-Tribune Home Institute (Scribner's)

"The 1-2-3 of Homemaking," by Marion Hurst, (Prentiss-Hall, Inc.)

"The Good Housekeeping Housekeeping Book," edited by Helen W. Kendall, Good Housekeeping Institute (David McKay Co.)

Service Dances

Sergt. Lucia Gray, music and recreation director of Andrews Air Force Base, has arranged a dance for visiting airmen this evening at 7:30. North Post, Fort Myer, will also give a dance this evening for all services in Hop Hall. For free transportation call Columbia 0735.

Mrs. Laughton Heads Soroptimist Club in Prince Georges

Mrs. Roberta Laughton, assistant to the clerk of the County Court, was elected president of the Soroptimist Club of Prince Georges County at the annual meeting recently. The meeting was held at Melody Hill, the Howard County farm of Dr. and Mrs. Harlan Randall.

Other officers chosen were vice president, Miss Christine Hensley; treasurer, Miss Lois Havens; recording secretary, Mrs. Helen Morrison; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Dorothy Zundel; board member, Gertrude Poe.

The new officers will be installed June 19, at the Prince Georges Golf and Country Club, by Miss Ella Werner, director of the South Atlantic Region, Federation of Soroptimist Clubs.

Harbor of My Dreams

I dream of starlight in the sky . . . And moonlight on the sea . . . And of a ship that sails tonight . . . To bring you back to me . . . I dream about a garden where . . . The honeysuckle grew . . . And where I called you sweetheart and . . . I gave my love to you . . . The ermine of a winter night . . . The hunter-green of spring . . . The russet robe of autumn days . . . And summer's golden wing . . . The city street, the open field . . . The mailman at the door . . . And all the happy promises . . . We pledged for evermore . . . And, oh, I pray your ship will sail . . . A calm and quiet sea . . . To reach the harbor of my dreams . . . And bring you back to me.

For Summer in Europe...

Studio Lavoisier, Paris

STRAW BY THE YARD: Mme. Paulette, famed Paris milliner, fashioned this chapeau for summer wear in Europe this year. Cut from a piece of fine, white straw that comes by the yard, the little sailor is light as a feather, is worn forward over the brow. Beige chiffon is draped to one side of the crown and falls into a graceful scarf

"QUEUE de Cochon"—Sleek, chic red felt beret is recommended for town wear on the Continent by Mme. Paulette. From her mid-season collection, it is given a novel twist at the right side where the body of the beret dips into a straw lined "pig's tail"

Tobé Says...

Shell Heel Another Revolutionary Change

When the shell vamp shoe was introduced nearly three years ago, it was so revolutionary that women gasped, but tried it out because of its beauty and then found they liked it.

Since then, all shoes have become lighter and more open looking, and now we have another startling change in shoe design—the shell heel. In this, the back is cut down so that it just covers the heel—and is held in place by narrow strips.

Best of all, these shell heels make the prettiest, most streamlined shoes you've ever seen. They come in all heel heights too— from high through medium to low.

Wednesday Luncheon

Egg and Asparagus Casserole
Hot Rolls
Prune Tapioca Whip Beverage

Prune Tapioca Whip—Ingredients: 2 cups milk, 1/3 cup sugar, ¼ teaspoon salt, 3 tablespoons quick-cooking tapioca, 1 egg, ½ teaspoon vanilla, 1 cup sweetened cooked prunes, 2/3 cup cream.

Method: Mix milk, sugar, salt and tapioca together and cook over low heat about 5 minutes. Remove from heat and cool slightly. Stir in beaten egg and vanilla. Return to heat and cook 2 or 3 minutes. Cool. Cut prunes from pits and force through sieve. Whip cream until thick but not stiff. Fold prunes and cream into tapioca mixture. Chill. Makes four to six servings.

Fashion Group to Preview What We'll Wear Next Fall

By Peggy Preston

ALTHOUGH many of us have yet to do anything serious about our summer wardrobes, the fashion world already has made up its mind about what we will wear for all and winter.

Word of what's in store for us, come yet another season, will be brought to town this week by Constance Woodworth, fashion editor of Flair, the new and sophisticated woman's magazine. Miss Woodworth will be guest speaker at the luncheon-meeting of the Washington Fashion Group which takes place Thursday, at 12:30 on the Washington Hotel roof.

Subject will be "Fall and Winter Fashions, 1950-51," and the visiting New Yorker promises to give us the latest tidbits on hemlines, necklines, fabrics and colors. Eminently qualified in the fashion field, Miss Woodworth is a former fashion editor of Harper's Bazaar, and is well known in international style circles.

Fashion Show to Aid Cancer Crusade

THE year's rash of fashion show benefits is not quite over. One more, in all likelihood the last before the city settles into its annual summer quietude, is scheduled for June 7 in the Mozart Room of the Windsor Park Hotel.

Presented for the benefit of the 1950 Cancer Crusade, the 1 p. m. luncheon and show is sponsored by a group of volunteer workers. Mrs. James E. Macpherson is general chairman, and Mrs. Charles F. Brannan heads the patroness committee.

Other committee chairmen include Mrs. Auguste Boas, tickets; Mrs. Ernest Becker, decorations; Mrs. Stanley E. Davis and Mrs. Leigh Brite, program; and Mrs. Nathan Simkowitz, door prizes.

Tickets for the benefit may be obtained from Mrs. Boas at the Shoreham Hotel. Fashions will be presented by Julius Garfinckel & Co.

Ready For an Uncharted Excursion In Foreign Cuisine, a Falls Church Reader Asks for Suitable Recipes

Ask Anne

About to take an unexpected excursion into foreign cookery, B. C. G. writes.

DEAR ANNE:

To the rescue, please! I have been presented by an Italian friend with a gift of chestnut meal (or flour)! How is this used? B. C. G., Falls Church, Va.

Here are two recipes for dishes made with chestnut meal. They were given me by Madame Antonie Charlot, who teaches classes in continental cookery here. She says fresh grated chestnuts are best in these recipes, but that chestnut meal can be used.

CHESTNUT CROQUETTES

1 cup chestnut meal
2 egg yolks
2 tablespoons heavy cream
½ teaspoon sugar
¼ teaspoon salt

Mix well. Shape into little balls. Coat in bread crumbs. Fry and drain on paper toweling. Good served as vegetable with lamb chops or other meat.

CHESTNUT MOUSSE

1 cup chestnut meal
1 cup heavy cream
½ cup confectionery sugar
2 eggs whites
Vanilla flavor
2 tablespoons Cognac brandy

Whip the cream. Add chestnut meal carefully. Add sugar and vanilla. Fold in the well-beaten egg whites. Mix thoroughly. Chill in individual dishes in refrigerator tray. Garnish with whipped cream on top and some grated chocolate.

DEAR ANNE:

Last summer, I ate a delicious pie made with canned fruit cocktail. I did not get the recipe at the time and wonder if you have one. D. G., Annapolis

This one is for Fruit Cocktail Cream Pie, and features a vanilla wafer crust. I hope it is the type you have in mind.

FRUIT COCKTAIL CREAM PIE

CRUST: Fit vanilla wafers into bottom and on side of 10-inch pie plate. Set aside.

FILLING: 1 17-ounce can fruit cocktail, 1 package strawberry flavored gelatin, 1¾ cup hot fruit cocktail syrup and water, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, ½ cup heavy cream, whipped.

Drain fruit cocktail; measure syrup. Add water to make 1¾ cups. Dissolve gelatin in hot liquid. Add lemon juice. Chill until slightly thickened. Fold ½ cup of the chilled gelatin into whipped cream. Turn into vanilla cookie crust. Chill until firm. Add drained fruit cocktail to remaining clear chilled gelatin. Spoon over whipped cream mixture. Chill until firm. This recipe makes 6 to 8 servings.

DEAR ANNE:

Are there any reliable establishments located in Washington where I could have Chinese silk lamp shades cleaned and repaired? I have contacted several establishments which specialize in lamps and shades but they were unable to give me any assistance.

Mrs. P. H. B., Alexandria, Va.

Most firms do refuse to handle the cleaning of lamp shades because of the risks involved. These cleaners say that dry cleaning fluids don't bring out the delicate hues of most silk shades. On the other hand, washing with soap and water, which is best for the fabric, entails the risk of possible rust stains along the wires of the frame. There is one firm here which will undertake to dry clean lamp shades, in spite of these difficulties. However this company recommends cleaning only if the shades are in pretty good condition, and suggest you bring them in for an appraisal of their chances. The company can be reached at Ordway 4429. Prices range from $2 to $3.50.

DEAR ANNE:

Do you know of any place in Washington where I can buy foam rubber in sheets suitable for use as chair cushions? The minimum measurements are 61 by 20 and I could use sheets just a little larger. Mrs. R. R. A., Savannah, Ga.

There's a firm at 807 H st. nw., which handles every type of latex foam product. They tell me that regular rubber foam comes in sheets of various thicknesses, from ¼ inch to 4½ inches, and in variety of sizes. However, for use in cushions, they recommend a specially molded foam sheet which is thicker in the middle than at the edges, just as any down or innerspring cushion would be. This is called "crown" foam, and comes in sheets 60 inches long and 20, 22 or 24 inches wide. The thickness rises from about 3½ inches at the edge to about 5 inches at the center. If you want further information, the company will be glad to send you a bulletin and price list.

DEAR ANNE:

I was told to use oil that is mixed with oil paints on my skin shoes to help preserve the color of them. The oil used in paint is linseed oil, purchased in art stores. I rubbed some of this on one shoe and it turned the color dark. Do you think it should have been a Licquer that might be used on oil paints?

If you can, please tell me if this oil can be cleaned out of the leather and if there is something to be used, before leather polish is put on, to preserve the color of cobra shoes. Elsie, Washington.

Some shoe stores sell a special wax to be used as a preservative on snakeskin shoes. Possibly this is what you had heard about, though I do not know of any connection it might have with paint. Oil will make leather and skins darker. Once it soaks in, it is extremely hard to remove. I'd take the shoes to a professional shoe repairer for assistance.

PARRY-PHRASING

The Name Is Familiar, but The Face Sometimes Varies

By Ellen Buell Parry

ARMY Chief of Staff Gen. J. Lawton Collins has gone through life asking the perpetual question, "Who, me?" He's never sure to this day that people don't mean his brother.

The two Collins brothers have the same initials, J. L. (The Chief of Staff is Joseph L., his brother, James L.) But that's not all. They both have the same middle monicker, Lawton—their paternal grandmother's maiden name.

It has been particularly confusing because both brothers went to West Point, both have been in the Army ever since, and both made general. Maj. Gen. James L. Collins is now retired, however, and lives in Alexandria. The Chief of Staff has official quarters at Fort McNair.

Still, many times they receive each other's mail, including, of course, those hateful bills. Their telephone calls often are answered with, " I think you must want my brother."

In order to clarify the situation, General Joe has taken to lisning himself as Gen. J. Lawton Collins. This has helped somewhat, but only this week, Mrs. "J. Lawton" was asked, "Didn't you live in Falls Church at one time?" Her, answer of course: "Ithink you must mean my husband's brother."

DR. HERMAN B. BARUCH, brother of Bernard Baruch and a fomer United States Ambassador, came to town recently and bought a boat, a 40-foot twin-screw Elco named "Tiki"—a New Zealand word for "good luck."

The man who sold him the power cruiser is one of Washington's best known plastic surgeons, Dr. William C. Meloy. Boating has been Bill Meloy's hobby for years, and he sold this craft only because he's buying a large new sailboat.

Baruch's bride of less than a year, the former Baronness Mackay of the Netherlands, shares her husband's interest in boating. "Tiki" is now on its way to Wyandanch, L. I., where the Baruchs have a beautiful place on the sound.

DR. "HILL PRINCE" is the way folks address Washington's prominent Dr. Hill Carter these days. Friends insist that the horse who won the Preakness was named for Dr. Carter. He laughs off this claim to fame by saying, "Hill is just a good old family name in Virginia."

However, there's something to the story. Dr. Carter is from Ashland, Va., five miles from Hill Prince's home, Big Meadow. Chris Chenery, the colt's owner, is a life long friend. Dr. Carter has been a frequent visitor at Big Meadow, and has watched the now famous horse grow up. To say that he is bursting with pride over Hill Prince's success is definitely understating it.

BACHELOR J. DEAN RUCKER'S hobby is collecting old city directories. He prefers them a hundred years or more old.

Dean has been picking up directors since he was a boy living at Grosse Point, Mich. He began with a Detroit book of the year 1831, in the days when there were no telephone directories, and when ads, now carried in telephone directories, were to be found in the city directory.

His mother was never fond of this hobby. It proved embarrassing to her friends at times. As a youngster, Dean delighted in looking up old family names and addresses of friends. Now and then it was revealed that a grandfather or great-grandfather had engaged in a profession the friend preferred not brought to light.

Tentative Pact On Highway Costs Reached

Baltimore, May 30 (AP). — The State Road Commission announced tentative agreement today with the Montgomery County Council for sharing some of the costs of a new highway.

In a subsidiary agreement, the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission will bear some of the county costs.

The project covers construction of a highway for 4.7 miles along Georgia ave., beginning at Colesville and extending north just beyond Layhill rd. in Glenmont.

The entire cost is estimated at $2,695,535. That doesn't include the cost of acquiring rights-of-way which will be shared equally by the Roads Commission and the county council.

Under the agreement being put into final contract form, the county will be responsible for $786,813 of the construction cost. This will be principally for curbs, gutters, sidewalks and storm water drainage.

The Roads Commission is paying for all the actual highway construction and $26,000 for cross drainage structures under the road.

The dual highway is to be divided by a 10-foot raised median strip. Each half of the highway will have two 12-foot lanes, a 90-foot storage lane, a combination curb and cutter and a 5-foot sidewalk.

Md. U. Shows Budget Hike to $14.6 Million

Baltimore, May 30 (AP).—A $14,688,050 University of Maryland budget for 1950-51 is expected to be approved by the State Board of Public Works Wednesday.

The university is now planning to spend $279,084 more than it had figured when the budget was presented to the legislature in February.

Decreases in some of the items of the earlier budget were more than offset by some new sources of revenue the university now expects to get.

For example, it has upped its estimate of income of the college of special and continuation studies by $336,000. Of this, $306,000 will come from the European division of the college, which recently expanded its activities to England.

The university now expects a College Park enrollment for the term starting in September of 7000, instead of the earlier estimate of 7500. This would decrease student fees by about $112,000.

The budget shows the university's building authority plans to issue $3,400,000 in self-liquidating revenue bonds to finance projects at the College Park and Baltimore schools.

The authority was set up by the 1950 legislature. Construction financed by the authority will be paid for out of special student fees and other new sources of revenue.

Among the 16 building projects to be financed in whole or part through the authority are student union buildings in Baltimore and College Park, and a new dormitory, auditorium and fraternity and sorority houses at College Park.

Dr. Klineberg to Lecture At Walter Reed Friday

His lecture is the last in a series on "Personality and Political Crisis" sponsored by the Washington School of Psychiatry. Tickets may be obtained at the school office, 1711 Rhode Island ave. nw.

Stranded Youths Will Get Home, With Hurt Feelings

Roanoke, Va., May 30 (AP).—Forty-seven students from the Ocilla (Ga.) High School left last Wednesday in a chartered bus for a trip to Washington, but today only 45 are en route home.

Bobby Hogan and Thomas Johnson, sitting forlornly in the local Greyhound bus terminal today, had a half-humorous, half-pathetic story to tell:

The group spent last night at a motor court, retiring around midnight. Bobby and Thomas shared a cabin and slept soundly until 8 this morning. After dressing, they found that everyone had pulled out and left them behind.

"What makes us mad," Thomas said, "is the fact that no one even missed us until the bus got to Winston-Salem!"

Their teacher, one of three who were on the trip, called the local bus station from Winston-Salem, and made arrangements to send the stranded boys enough money to get home.

"Better buy some bigger cups, Sue— I love this coffee!"
"This coffee has character! I can put lots of cream and sugar in my cup without losing that deep rich flavor!"
"I take it black—and with that new Chase & Sanborn flavor, I'll take it often!"
NEW!... new even in the way it was created!
You think you've tried Chase & Sanborn? Oh, no you haven't—unless you've had some recently! We've created a new Chase & Sanborn—based on your taste!
Yes, thousands like you helped us compare blends and roasts. At last we found the coffee most people liked better than any other leading coffee tested.
This, we said, is it! And you'll say so, too. Because here is coffee that has even the coffee experts talking. Enough strength to make character and enough character to make friends!
You can count on it every day, for we maintain the same high quality in every single pound. Try it... the new Chase & Sanborn.

Faith Is Power

Just Pray That I Shall Be Adequate . . .

This is the third of a series of six installments condensed from the book, "FAITH IS POWER—FOR YOU" by Dr. Daniel A. Poling. It describes one of the heroic incidents of World War II in terms of prayer.

By Daniel A. Poling

CHAPTER THREE

Both of our sons followed me into the ministry and immediately after Pearl Harbor, Clark, the younger, decided to enlist in the Army as a chaplain.

It was in Philadelphia that the young chaplain made a characteristic request that shaped the fourth prayer about which I write here and which, as no other prayer I have ever prayed, has led me to Peace with Power.

It was apparent that my son had something to say to me that he found difficulty in expressing. But after a long silence, as we sat together in my study, he came directly to the point.

"Dad," he said, "I don't want you to pray for my return—that wouldn't be fair. Many will not return, and to ask God for special family favors just wouldn't be fair!"

He grinned then and added, "You know I have a lot of confidence in your prayers!"

He got up and came to the side of my chair. Dropping his hand on my shoulder, he became very earnest as he talked on.

"Don't misunderstand me—I'm coming back all right. I have no premonitions. But don't pray for my return. I don't want to go away feeling that you're asking special favors for me, Dad. It would do something to me—not good."

He waited then to see whether I understood. And when I nodded and he knew that I did understand, he went on to his conclusion.

"Pray, dad," he said, "that I shall do my duty and something more. Pray that I shall never be a coward. Pray that I shall have strength and courage and understanding of men, and especially that I shall be patient. Oh, dad, just pray that I shall be adequate!"

It Was Answered

And that was the prayer we prayed and never any other—that he should be adequate. Sometimes I have wondered—but I have no regrets. That was the right prayer and it was answered.

On February 13, 1943, the War Department reported our son "missing in action in the North African area."

Later the location was changed to "North Atlantic area" and on Monday, April 10, "missing in action" was officially changed to "lost in action."

Our son was one of four chaplains of three faiths who were on the SS Dorchester which sank in iceberg waters within 27 minutes after being torpedoed at 1:15 a. m. February 3, 1943.

Of the 904 men on board, 678 were finally reported "lost in action."

In an affidavit filed by Frank A. Benkler, quartermaster, and signed by Fred Francis Bibler (night steward) and Juan L. Alejandro (gun crew messman) appears this statement:

"The following incident can be verified by the soldier survivors concerning the heroic conduct of the four chaplains aboard the sinking ship—Jewish, Catholic, and Protestant.

"With utter disregard of self, having given away their life-jackets to our men without them, the chaplains stood hand in hand, praying to the God they served for the safety of those men who were leaving the stricken ship on all sides of them. This is the picture engraved in our minds and hearts as the ship disappeared beneath the waves."

Another survivor, Engineer Grady Clark of North Carolina, told of how, standing within "8 feet of Chaplain Poling," he witnessed the event.

Helped Men

"The chaplains quieted panic," he said, "forced men 'frozen' on the rail in fear toward the boats or over the side, helped men adjust life-jackets, and at last gave away their own. They had no chance without life jackets."

He spoke of Chaplain Poling's contagious laugh and concluded, "I swam away from the ship and turned to watch. The flares and northern lights now lighted everything. The bow came up high and she slid under. The last I saw, the chaplains were up there praying for the safety of the men. They had done everything they could. I did not see them again."

Alexander D. Goode, the Jew; John P. Washington, the Roman Catholic; George L. Fox and our son, the Protestants. Four men of three faiths joined in friendship and sharing in a holy mission, in death were not divided. Lost in action, surely they were found of God.

In our son's last letter are words that remind me of his request when we talked together in my Philadelphia study: "Apparently I am headed for a blind alley (Greenland)," he wrote, "but, Dad, if when I get there I find one other man, then there will be three of us."

When he came to his high hour, he found more than "one other man:" he found many men, and the other "One" was there.

The prayer he asked me to pray when we talked in Philadelphia, the only prayer he wanted, was answered.

He was adequate.

And who would not want that prayer answered? Who would not be adequate?

Well, you may be! Farmer, merchant, miner, doctor, preacher, public official, teacher, pupil in the school, mother in the home, athlete, or whatever—you may be adequate.

Here is the right prayer, the prayer that never fails of the answer: "Ask and it shall be given you."

(Copyright, 1950, by Greenberg, Publisher. Distributed by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

TOMORROW: "I shall live as long as I want to . . . but some have lived longer than that."

'Flying Submarine' Reported By Pilot Near Mount Vernon

National Airport officials discussed yesterday a report of a new kind of flying saucer—a flying "submarine with lights."

An American Airlines pilot, Capt. William T. Sperry of Tulsa, Okla., called the airport control tower by radio at 10:45 p. m. Monday to say that the "submarine" had circled his WC-6 twice in the vicinity of Mount Vernon.

Harry Barnes, the air traffic controller on duty, said Sperry told him the object was brightly silhouetted between the moon and the plane.

Sperry asked Barnes to pick it up on radar, which the controller said he was unable to do.

The pilot, who was bound for Nashville, reported the "cigar-shaped" craft was sighted about seven miles west of Mount Vernon, where he was climbing above 7000 feet in the DC-6.

Youth Arrested On Charge of Extortion Attempt

Westminster, Md., May 30 (AP).—A 17-year-old Carroll County youth was jailed today on charges of attempting to extort $1000 from a woman storekeeper by means of threatening notes.

He was identified as Joseph Sterling Steinberg of New Windsor, Md.

Young Steinberg was arrested last night by State Troopers James N. Simmons and James S. Poteet, who had been investigating the case eight months.

Stylists To Washington Men For 61 Years

Drama Day by Day

News Stories Prove Gold Mine for Video

By Wayne Oliver

NEW YORK.—Newspaper stories and the men who write them offer an almost inexhaustible source of dramatic material for radio and television, says Producer Bernard J. Prockter.

Prockter, who produces "The Big Story" heard on the NBC radio network Wednesday evenings and seen on the NBC television network on alternate Fridays, says:

"Everybody is talking about the small amount of dramatic material available, and adapting plays and books, and repeating programs. Yet here are newspaper reporters' stories that cover the whole world and are about real people—and are much more dramatic."

Prockter bases his programs on newspaper stories and the reporters who write them—mainly in cases in which the newsmen figure prominently in the developments.

The stories, he says, "often are more dramatic than fiction" and sometimes border so close to the fantastic that there is a question whether the listeners and viewers will accept them as fact.

One program was based on the exploits of Eugene Travers of the Memphis Commercial Appeal in writing the story of a train robbery before it happened—and playing a key role in foiling the bandits.

While watching passengers get off a train at Memphis, Prockter relates, Travers spotted two men he knew to have records as train robbers. He followed them to a hotel, then through the aid of maids, bellboys and other hotel employes, proceeded to follow every move they made.

Travers soon deduced that they were planning another train robbery and even learned the day it was scheduled, but the jigsaw wasn't quite complete and he went to Federal authorities. They had some information he didn't have, and he had some they didn't. When they pooled their information the jigsaw was complete.

On the eve of the robbery attempt Travers had an 11:45 p. m. deadline and the crime was scheduled for 12:30 a. m., so he wrote his story anyway and it was in the paper and on the street 45 minutes beforehand. And it wasn't until 3:30 a. m. that confirmation came through, but Travers' story was complete in every detail, including the fact that the two train robbers were killed.

A PROGRAM started 10 years ago for the benefit of more serious minded listeners and never expected to draw a big audience observed its tenth anniversary (Sunday) with a following that is estimated at two million persons. It's Columbia Broadcasting System's "Invitation to Learning."

IN THE 19 years since the Lone Ranger first went on radio, a lot of listeners may have forgotten just why he always wears a mask. That question also is frequently asked by youngsters who have become acquainted with the legendary hero through the television version on ABC.

The Lone Ranger story began with the ambush of six Texas Rangers by outlaws in a canyon. Five were killed. The sixth, left for dead, was found by an Indian named Tonto. The Indian buried the five slain Rangers and made a sixth mound to give the impression all had died.

The one Ranger, who became the Lone Ranger, was set free to hunt down the assassins and bring them to justice, but he wore a mask to keep them from learning he had survived. By the time his mission had been accomplished, the mask had become a symbol of justice that struck fear into the ranks of evil-doers, so the Lone Ranger continued to wear it.

Incidentally, the radio sponsor of the Lone Ranger has renewed his contract for another year, as has the sponsor of the Adventures of Ozzie and Harriet, also on ABC.

Tele-Tone Radio Corp. has introduced a new combination radio-television-phonograph with 16-inch picture tube for $299.95. The radio-phonograph actually is a separate unit that forms a base for a table model television set, making it possible to provide an even cheaper combination with a smaller screen set.

The DISTRICT LINE by Bill Gold

Will Menus Be Franker This Season?

L. Fellman of 5759 13th st. nw. notes that the Navy cafeteria menu last week offered: "Beef Barely Soup." She thinks that maybe GSI will now begin to use the same technique in listing: "Clam (Barely) Chowder."

TIP FOR HACKERS

Charles Williams of 1405 53d ave., Hillside, Md., drives a District Cab and protests that I "never give a hacker a break."

"I've heard that one before," I said, "and if you can cite me a specific instance, I'll apologize. What's your complaint?"

"Well," said Charlie, "I think you're wrong about that 50-cent rate to the East Potomac Golf Course Clubhouse from downtown. Take a look at the zone map in any cab, and I think you'll agree."

I looked at a zone map, and doggone if it didn't appear that I was going to have to eat some crow. So I called E. J. Milligan, executive secretary of the PUC, and asked for an official ruling. His answer went like this:

"Tell Charlie to come in here and look at our big wall map, and he'll see that the zone line goes right through the East Potomac Clubhouse. It would therefore be unfair to charge for an extra zone on a trip extending no farther than the dividing line. The correct rate is 50 cents. Beyond the clubhouse—out to the Point, for example—would properly be more. When we get our new maps printed up and distributed to the hackers, I hope they'll eliminate the confusion."

Incidentally, it might be well to pass along this tip to local taxi drivers: The PUC takes a mighty dim view of hair-splitting interpretations designed to yield an extra 20 cents in revenue. It's worth a lot more than 20 cents to stay out of trouble, gents.

GRAND CENTRAL STATION

John Trimble, WTOP's new announcer, ended his apartment hunting chores by moving into the new Gregory Estates at 6918 George Palmer hwy., Seat Pleasant, Md.

"It didn't take the salesmen long to discover us," John tells me. "There's a steady procession of them at our door all day long."

As a matter of fact, John's neighbors, Sergt. and Mrs. Howard Long, had a rather unusual experience with the canvassers recently.

Howard was just leaving for the drug store when the Kirby man knocked and said he'd like to demonstrate his vacuum cleaner.

"Okay," said Norma Long, "I need one." Howard left, and the salesman began his demonstration.

He had no sooner started than another chap came to the door. "I saw Mr. Long in the hall as he was leaving," the newcomer announced, "and he told me to wait in the apartment."

"Certainly," said Norma, "have a chair." The stranger settled himself, and the Kirby man proceeded with his demonstration.

When it was completed, Mrs. Long said she'd have to talk to her husband before buying; then she turned her attention to the other man again, and asked: "Did you say you were waiting for Mr. Long?"

"Oh, no," he replied pleasantly, "I want to talk to you. I'm the Airway vacuum cleaner man. Your husband said the Kirby man got here first and I'd have to wait my turn."

Norma has now decided what brand of sweeper to buy—but I'm not going to be a stool pigeon and snitch. The boys can find out for themselves.

MAIL BAG

Dear Bill:

This is a good time to ask whether we sardines could get out of one of Capital Transit's tin cans in a hurry in case of an accident like the one they had in Chicago.

Kenneth E. Fugate,
Landover Hills, Md.

Dear Ken:

Our city editor had the same thought just as you were writing your letter, and the answer has already been in the paper.

Capital Transit says that its doors would open on the application of a reasonable amount of pressure. Passengers would not be trapped.

Incidentally, it's okay to call them "tin cans" in the "sardine" context, but actually they're among the most modern streetcars in the country. You should see some of the relics we still have in service back home.

Bill.

INFORMATION PLEASE

John W. Willis tells me he recently saw a car with an Arkansas license plate in front and a New York tag in the rear. Stranger yet, both numbers were VC-9. Wha hoppen?

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

MacArthur Seen Vexing Military

By Drew Pearson

Neutral Japan.—One inside reason for Secretary Johnson's trip to Tokyo is Army and Navy opposition to General MacArthur's idea of making Japan the Switzerland of the Pacific. MacArthur has been talking so much about Japanese neutrality that the Japanese people are beginning to dislike Washington's idea of using Japan as a potential base against Siberia.

Pearson

Diplomatic Boomerang.—Former President Inonu of Turkey is blistering mad at the United States, especially Ambassador George Wadsworth. He allowed Wadsworth to talk him into holding new elections to illustrate Turkish democracy. Actually the elections weren't necessary, but on the Ambassador's advice Inonu held them. Now his government is defeated and Asbassador Wadsworth is in the canine woodshed.

Sex Probe.—One nest of sex unfortunates, now under investigation by the Senate, has been traced to the Soviet Embassy. Police hinted, behind closed Senate doors, that Soviet perverts are being used to get acquainted with American unfortunates. The idea is that the Americans could then be forced to spy for Russia, rather than risk exposure. Police also testified that Hitler had a world-wide list of perverts and that Stalin probably confiscated this list, or is compiling one of his own—for espionage purposes.

Bookie Probe.—Betting Commissioner James Carroll admitted off the record to Senators that bookmaking thrives because local laws are not enforced. Carroll told Senators that, in his 35 years in the gambling business in St. Louis, only one bookie had been brought to trial—in spite of a law against bookies.

Superstrategy Board.—Secretary of State Acheson's talks in London will be followed by several moves to organize democracy into a hard-hitting team. A key plan is now being discussed backstage whereby the President will set up what amounts to a Joint Chiefs of Staff for propaganda, economic warfare, diplomacy, military strategy, and hush-hush behind-the-enemy-lines activities.

GOP Runs Foreign Policy?—The State Department has gone so far to appease Republicans that the Democrats are fuming. While Secretary of State Acheson keeps Republican Senators informed on foreign policy, Democratic Senators have to read it in the papers. It has got so bad that Democrats are now talking about investigating the Republicans in the State Department—such as General MacArthur in Japan, Commissioner McCloy in Germany, ECA Administrator Paul Hoffman, United Nations Delegate Warren Austin, and Special Advisers Dulles and Cooper, who seem to have a bigger voice in foreign policy than the Democrats.

Guided Missiles.—In its secret laboratories, the Navy is way ahead of the other services in a field more revolutionary than the atomic bomb—the guided missile. Naval discoveries are so hot that admirals who chafed against B-36s are now saying these guided missiles will relegate planes to a minor place in aggressive warfare. The Navy's guided missiles can follow a moving target like a magnet.

Spanish Blackmail

Secret negotiations for a big trade deal between Spain and Russia are privately regarded in the State Department as Spanish "blackmail" to force a loan for Franco out of the United States.

The talks started in March when Jesus Obregon, a wealthy Spaniard and pal of Franco, met with Soviet agents in Cairo. Russia at that time allegedly offered Spain 200,000 tons of wheat and the return of 6000 Spanish troops that had fought in the Nazi army.

Here is the inside story of these negotiations: The shaky Franco regime urgently needs wheat after Argentina canceled wheat credits to Spain and demanded payments in cash. A bad drought cut Spanish production. Corruption and Communist infiltration into the Falange, Franco's political party, have rotted the dictator's popularity.

It is significant that, since the Russo-Spanish talks in Cairo, the controlled Spanish radio has ceased its bitter castigation of Russia, even uses items from the Russian news service Tass. A prime target of the Spanish radio news is Secretary of State Dean Acheson.

Capital Chaff

Jay Franklin, who coined slogans for Harry Truman's successful 1948 campaign, now has one for the GOP. It is "Duff and Morse and Honesty" . . . Senator Dennis Chavez of New Mexico has been under terrific pressure to recant his attack on Louis Budenz. He has had secret visits from a top Catholic politician and layman, and was criticized by the Archbishop of New Mexico, Edward V. Byrne. The Senator, descended from Catholic Spaniards who founded the Southwest, is standing firm . . . "Jumping Joe" Ferguson, the Democratic opponent of Robert Taft, floored Democratic publicity hotshots by asking: "Why don't you take my picture sitting in Taft's chair in the Senate, showing how I can fill it just as well as him?"
